$66,000 city school discipline programs OK'd by board

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

Campus disciplinary problems again served as the rallying point for a marathon debate Tuesday evening as the Pomona school board voted unanimously to approve approximately $66,000 in programs to supply immediate short term solutions to the discipline problems at local schools.

The board heard several residents from the Ganesha High School area comment on the problems in that neighborhood and received a petition signed by 49 residents of Elwood Street asking that Ganesha High School's campus be closed from the first bell in the morning to the final bell in the afternoon.

Dennis Mitchell, a resident of the area, told the board, "It has passed being a problem. It's a disaster."

Mitchell, who was shot in a robbery attempt in front of his home last November, said that neighbors were arming themselves out of fear. Gang activity during the lunch hour was high, he said, adding that traffic through yards, vandalism and burglary is not uncommon.

Mitchell said the San Dimas Sheriff's office, responsible for law enforcement in the county area of Elwood Street, told him that he expected to pick up the phone any day now to hear that a nervous home owner had killed some youthful burglar in his house.

Mitchell said following his shooting, his home was burglarized as was that of his next door neighbor. The police apprehended the two burglars learning they were both Ganesha High School students.

Imogene Wissore, another resident of the area, presented a petition to the board saying that the residents have all asked for the closed campus.

"They all wanted to come down here tonight," she said, "but I told them to wait and let me present the petition. We will ask the deputies to continue patroling the area and if something is not done we will all be here at the next meeting."

Mrs. Wissore said that since the administration feels much of the trouble is the result of off-campus troublemakers the campus should be closed to protect the students.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Wissore expressed her extreme displeasure that the board had not voted to close the campus.

Supt. Charles Carpenter told the board he had no recommendation on the closure of the campus pending further investigation.

Carpenter then presented a laundry list of items to be procured to increase the effectiveness of disciplinary actions on the campuses.

High schools in the district will receive additional mobile communications equipment, additional proctors and proctor hours and additional attendance aides.

Ganesha specifically will also receive repair of fencing and alteration of tunnel access to the west end of the campus, additional lighting in the physical education areas and a pledge by the administration to work with the city in closing Kennedy Park, directly across the street from the campus, to vehicle access between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Trustee Ken Pine, most outspoken critic of the present system, called the proctor system, "one of our most useless areas."

Pine said district proctors are "untrained, fearful, and unsupported by the administration."

State water flow pared again; now 60%—10%

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Drought-stricken California has slashed its State Water Project flow, cutting back agriculture by 60 per cent and cities and industry by 10 per cent.

Farmers who use water from the project were told Tuesday their cutback would be 10 per cent higher than originally announced because of the worsening drought — the state's worst since 1924.

Bob James, the Department of Water Resources' deputy director, said no towns or industries are expected to be left without water by the state move, but some agricultural land will go unplanted.

"For cities and industries who have contracts with us, this will mean at least substantial voluntary conservation at the minimum. But there'll be more than enough water to protect permanent crops like orchards," James added.

State water agency contracts require that agricultural water users be cut back 50 per cent before city or industry water can be reduced.

The municipal users affected by the cut include the massive Metropolitan Water District, which serves Los Angeles and much of the surrounding Southern California area.

State experts say, however, that the project, which provides about five per cent of all water used in California, only supplies about one-quarter of that big district's imported water needs.

For other big users, like the Kern County Water District in the crop-rich San Joaquin Valley, the cut will mean some acres will go unplanted, officials said.

"This cut is based on no more meaningful rainfall for the rest of the season," said Al Jones, spokesman for the Water Resources Department. He said he did not expect a further cutback.

Over tax assessment freeze

County taking Watson to court

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

The county is going to court next week to force County Aasessor Philip E. Watson to re-evaluate 170,000 parcels of property this year and a like number in 1978.

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors called for court action Tuesday on a 3-2 vote after Watson declined an invitation to "reason" with the board and explain at an open meeting why he slapped a two-year freeze on assessments.

If Watson has his way, the assessments will stop until his office completes conversion to computer. The county assessor said the conversion should be done by the end of next year.

Several thousand parcels of property would be placed into moratorium in the valley, particularly in Diamond Bar, Walnut, Rowland Heights and the southern portion of Pomona.

Harry Hufford, chief administrative officer of the county, said he expects asseessed valuations to rise at least six per cent this year and next, and is counting on revenue from the higher assessments to balance his budget.

But a freeze on the assessments also will hurt other taxing agencies, particularly school boards and municipalities, which expect the reassessments to offset the continuing inflationary trend.

Taxing agencies now say that if reassessments are frozen they will have no choice but to raise taxes to make up the resulting deficits.

The supervisors, concerned not only over the possible loss of revenue but also at the furor a tax increase would cause, have instructed County Counsel John Larson to ask the Superior Court for a writ of mandate that would compel Watson to complete this year's reassessments and put them on the tax rolls by the March 1 lien date.

Larson said he probably can obtain the writ if he can present proof that this year's assessments have already been completed and need only to be entered in the books.

Watson has been saying that because the supervisors cut his staff he has been unable to complete this year's work.

But board Chairman Ed Edelman made public a letter Tuesday from one of Watson's own deputies — the letter was unsigned — contending that the county assessor is "not telling the truth."

The deputy, according to Edelman, declared that the bulk of the work for 1977 already has been done.

"Since the lien date is March 1, it should be apparent even to a layman that this must be so," the deputy explained. "At the meeting of principal appraisers of the real estate division last Monday when Watson's plan was the major subject, there was not the slightest suggestion from anyone present that the plan was due to any difficulties in completing the work plan for the current year. The focus was on how the freeze and rollback could be implemented."

Incensed first at Watson's directive, and then over the assessor's refusal to "meet and reason together" the supervisors voted to turn to the courts.

Casting ballots against the court action were board members Pete Schabarum and James Hayes.

Suspect arrested

Cigarettes save stabbing victim

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

A 36-year-old La Puente man, suffering a 5-inch chest stab wound and partially severed breastbone, remained in serious condition this morning at San Bernardino County General Hospital.

The victim, William Jackson of 2823 Granada St., had been stabbed once with a long knife or a sword, officials said.

He was discovered about 4 a.m. Tuesday when he staggered into Sambo's Restaurant in Chino to seek help. The restaurant manager called the police.

California Highway Patrol officers later arrested Raymond Blake, 36, 14423 Rath St., La Puente, in connection with the stabbing.

The arrest was made when Blake was spotted driving Jackson's car on Kellogg Hill about 4:15 a.m. He was charged with suspicion of attempted murder.

Deputies from the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Station in City of Industry said it appeared that Jackson and a "friend" had gotten into an argument Monday night at the Rath Street address and that both were drinking.

Deputies theorized that during the argument, the friend plunged the knife or sword into Jackson's chest. No weapon was found, however.

Blake, bleeding profusely, asked to be driven to a hospital, deputies continued, but instead, was placed in the backseat of his own car and driven around for more than three hours until the friend ran out of cigarettes.

The friend stopped at the Chino restaurant to buy cigarettes, leaving the semi-conscious Jackson in the car.

Deputies said when Jackson staggered into the restaurant, the friend returned to the car and drove away.

Deputies said that the suspect arrested in the case also had injuries. He was treated for a severely cut hand. They said, too, that they were told he had gotten into an argument with a neighbor earlier and the neighbor had struck him in the face with a baseball bat.

Petitions ask roll-call vote on pay raises

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Democratic Rep. Ken Hechler returned to Congress today bearing petitions from more than 1,000 West Virginians demanding that Congress take a roll-call vote on giving itself a pay raise.

"These people are outraged at the way this is going through without a vote," Hechler said.

Meanwhile Republicans, led by Minority Leader John Rhodes, have been agitating for a roll-call vote and were considering today ways to force the issue.

"At a time when the President is asking for sacrifices, the Congress ought to be leading the way," Hechler said. "This is the wrong time to have a pay raise and it is also a denial of American processes to sneak it through without a vote."

The pay raise apparently will go into effect automatically because the House Post Office and Civil Service subcommittee handling it has not reported out the resolution which would require a vote by the full House.

The pay for members of Congress would be increased from $44,600 to $57,500.

Middle-aged persons hike marijuana usage figures

Notable increases among those in 30-59 bracket

SACRAMENTO (AP) — First it was the long-haired kids; now it's the middle-aged persons who are boosting the marijuana usage figures, says a California state agency.

The state Office of Narcotics and Drug Abuse reported Tuesday that 35 per cent of the adults questioned last November in a statewide survey said they had tried pot, and 14 per cent classified themselves as current users.

A poll taken 21 months earlier, in February, 1975, found that 28 per cent of the adults questioned had smoked marijuana and nine per cent considered themselves current users.

"Change in usage has not been uniform by age group or region, with notable increases occurring among people between ages 30 and 59," the report said.

It said much of the increase was centered in Southern California and Northern California outside the San Francisco Bay area.

But it doesn't appear that a cut in the state's marijuana penalties prompted the increase, it said, adding that only three per cent had first tried marijuana in the last year.

A state law that took effect in January 1976 made marijuana possession a misdemeanor with maximum penalty of a $100 fine for possession of an ounce or less. Previously possession could be a felony or misdemeanor.

Also in the poll, 66 per cent of persons between 18 and 29 said they had tried marijuana, and 31 per cent said they were current users. That compares with 54 and 24 per cent in the earlier survey.

Forty-seven per cent of those in their 30s said they had smoked pot, and 16 per cent said they were current users. In the 1975 survey, 35 per cent said they had tried pot, and five per cent said they were current users.

Nineteen per cent of persons 40 to 49 reported trying pot, while four per cent said they were present users. The earlier study found that 10 per cent had used it, and one per cent said they continue using it.

Between the ages 50 and 59, 12 per cent said they had smoked marijuana, and two per cent said they were using it. That compares with figures of six per cent and zero in 1975.

Most of those who said they were not using marijuana cited lack of interest or health fears as their reasons.

Only two per cent said they did not smoke pot because its use is illegal.

Carter hopes to offer health insurance plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said today he hopes to propose the first phase of a national health insurance program before the end of the year.

Speaking to about 500 employes selected from the 140,600 civil servants in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Carter said any plan will have to be phased in by what he called "a year-by-year progression toward a national health insurance system."

Before the program is proposed, he said, it will be necessary to assess first what is being spent on Medicare and Medicaid and in what manner.

The President stressed "there will have to be some tradeoffs" because the cost of national health insurance will be high and cost controls will be necessary.

HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. has said repeatedly that national health insurance will be studied this year but that legislative proposals must await enactment of the administration's economic stimulus package and a welfare reform plan that he has promised to submit

Chino mayor calls for police crackdown

His reference to 'scum' in the streets resented

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Chino Mayor Bob McLeod Tuesday night ordered an immediate police crackdown on youth "vandalism and brutality" in the city, and said streets should be swept of "scum."

However, McLeod's order was met with strong criticism from barrio residents who took exception to use of the word "scum."

Some of the Mexican-American residents, attending the City Council meeting to voice opinions on the use of federal revenue sharing funds, indicated McLeod had made a "racial slur."

"I take exception to the word 'scum.'" said community activist Nick Medina. "If the city is in the situation it is now, you (council members) have to take some of the blame also. We have asked you time and again to help us, but you turn a deaf ear to it."

Medina indicated perhaps the council should resign, "or a recall movement should begin."

McLeod's order will include a strong police crackdown and a "high profile" by officers in the city for the next 90 days. The city's curfew law will be strictly enforced, meaning juveniles will have to be off the streets by 10 p.m.

Police will be working 12-hour shifts to "sweep the town" and stop vandalism and other crimes by roaming youths, McLeod said. "We want to get hoods and ruffians off the street."

McLeod indicated his action was prompted by an incident last Friday night at the Community Building in which three persons were hospitalized following an assault by a gang of youths. "One boy was shot, a woman was beaten and cars were damaged," he said.

The Friday night incident was "the last straw," McLeod declared.

Youth gangs have been plaguing the community for many years. The police instituted a "high profile" posture last May after a man and woman were gunned down in front of Our Lady of Guadalupe Church.

But Medina indicated Tuesday that McLeod was referring to Mexican-American youths when he used the term "scum."

And Frances Martinez, another resident, said, "We feel the racial slurs. We come up against a block wall at the council and police department."

Council member Eileen Carter responded by saying, "These people are hearing things that aren't even being said."

McLeod apologized for the remark but said he did not mean it as a "reference to one racial group."

Medina also criticized an earlier remark by Mrs. Carter, who made a point of Sen. Ruben Ayala, D-32nd Dist., growing up in the barrio without any extra assistance. "He became an outstanding member of the community."

Medina and other residents had asked the council for a gymnasium to be built at the Monte Vista Park site to help get youths off the streets. This could come from the revenue sharing funds, he noted.

But Mrs. Carter said "Ayala didn't need a gym."

What's inside a person is the important thing, noted the council member. "You could build a gym on every block but if a person didn't have the standards to go with it, it won't do any good."

But Medina said Ayala started "20 years ago. Let's talk about today."

Youth gang members today get in trouble because of the system, said Medina. Referring to recent explusions of students from Chino schools, he said it happened because of "the way the system brought them up."

Medina, again seeking council help for the barrio, said "You can't bring up kids in a big area under poverty conditions."

Mrs. Carter said she had lived in the barrio some 30 years ago "when we were very poor." She and other persons who spoke noted that problems start with parent and child.

Al Petti, a Chino resident, said "I'm very concerned about crime. But it's my responsibility as a parent (to watch out for it), not the council or school district."

A number of citizens addressed the council on the use of revenue sharing funds, but no action was taken. A second public hearing will be held in May to decide how to spend about $1.4 million expected to be received over a four-year period.

While most of the speakers asked for a gym at Monte Vista park, others wanted more police in the city. Petti asked for funds to be spent on the total community.

Changes in Brown's budget recommended

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s $15.2 billion budget should be increased by $127.5 million to give state employes bigger pay raises, Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said today.

But, the nonpartisan analyst said in a report to the legislature, other programs proposed by the governor can be cut by nearly $80 million.

Altogether, Post recommended changes in 97 of the 446 items in Brown's spending proposal for the 1977-78 fiscal year, for a net increase of $66.7 million. He delayed recommendations on 22 other budget items totaling more than $100 million.

Post said the salaries of most of California's 200,000 state workers should be increased 9.3 per cent, not the 5 per cent proposed by Brown. Post delayed until April any recommendation on state college faculty members, who would get only 2.2 per cent raises under Brown's plan.

Post said surplus funds are available and should be used to grant the 9.3 per cent increases which the State Personnel Board said are needed to bring state salaries up to the same level as comparable jobs with other government agencies or private business.

But the analyst left pending until April, when a study of comparable faculty salaries is completed, his recommendations for University of California and state university and college salaries.

Brown proposed 5 per cent hikes for UC faculty members and 2.2 per cent for state college faculty members. UC Regents sought 5.2 per cent raises, and the state college trustees asked for 8.2 per cent.

Traditionally, most items in the governor's budget which are not challenged by the analyst are accepted by the legislature without amendment and with little debate.

Although many of Post's recommendations for increases or cuts are ultimately rejected by the legislature, his list of suggested changes annually becomes the agenda for legislative debate of the budget bill.

For the most part, Post, who over the past 28 years has recommended far more budget cuts than increases, is going along this year with the big items in the Democratic governor's budget.

He proposed only a $17 million cut, about one-third of one per cent, in the $4 billion health and welfare budget, and only a $534,000 cut in the $3 billion public education budget, although Post's review of Brown's five-year school finance reform plan is coming later.

Post recommended increases of $127.5 million in salaries plus $17.5 million altogether in 13 state programs. He urges cuts totaling $78.3 million in 81 separate department or agency budgets to boost to $15.26 billion the overall proposed budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

CRITICAL OF GOVERNOR

Bob Moretti, former Democratic Assembly Speaker who was appointed to the State Energy Commission by Gov. Brown, testified at a Senate Public Utilities Committee hearing in the Capitol Tuesday. Giving a status report on the commission, Moretti charged a "philosophy of no growth" comes from Brown's office.

Increase effort to prevent entry

Bell takes stand on illegal aliens

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell says he will increase efforts to prevent aliens from entering the country illegally and probably will support proposed legislation making it illegal for employers knowingly to hire them.

Bell said also he is against any massive deportation of those already here, saying that would be "inhumane and impractical.

"I am inclined to support legislation containing civil penalties that would prohibit employers from knowingly hiring illegal aliens," Bell said. "If the employment ban were a reality, the number of persons trying to enter the country illegally would diminish sharply."

Bell, speaking Tuesday to the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund, said the problem of illegal aliens in the United States "has defied solution for years and all indications are that it is becoming more severe."

Many aliens illegally in this country, he declared, "have built equities in our country by virtue of their long residence and their contributions here. They must be given particular consideration."

On another subject, Bell said he will push for the development of "neighborhood justice centers" as an alternative to settling disputes in court.

"The centers would be developed as pilot projects through the joint efforts of local government, the courts and the bar," he said. "While details could vary from city to city, the common thread would be a mechanism that would provide an alternative to courts in settlement of disputes."

The neighborhood centers could rely on negotiations and informal hearings to help citizens resolve their grievances, he said. This system could help relieve the backlog in the courts, he suggested.

The attorney general said one of his major priorities will be finding ways to improve the operations of courts at all levels.

He promised "expanded financial and technical aid for state and local courts" from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

Bell told the Mexican-American group he will enforce civil rights laws vigorously. He called it vitally important to bring about "nationwide and uniform enforcement of the Voting Rights Act," including the amendments designed to protect Mexican Americans and others whose primary language is not English.

Shuttle makes first taxi runs

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — The Space Shuttle Enterprise and its 747 jumbo jet partner have made their first successful series of taxi runs and received a goahead for Friday's first piggyback flight.

The three taxi runs Tuesday down a 15,000-foot runway "went quite well," said pilot Fitzhugh Fulton Jr. as the 747 reached a speed of 157 miles per hour. "Fortunately, there were no surprises."

"It's all go for Friday," when the combo takes off for the first time, said a NASA spokesman.

The 144,000-pound, 122-foot shuttle, about the size of a DC9, is a rocket-airplane hybrid that will carry man and cargo into orbit. The orbiter cannot take off by itself.

Moretti launches attack on Brown

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Energy Commission backs off from making tough decisions and has adopted a nogrowth philosophy that stems from Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., commissioner Bob Moretti says.

Moretti, former Democratic speaker of the Assembly who was appointed to the commission by Brown, attacked the Democratic governor and the commission's leadership Tuesday in testimony before a Senate committee.

"I see a reluctance pervading this administration to make difficult decisions," Moretti said. "The problem is unwillingness of policy makers (the commissioners themselves) to decide key issues."

Moretti, who quit the Assembly to run against Brown in the 1974 Democratic primary, said a "philosophy of no growth" comes from Brown's office. "Shut it all down seems to be the plan."

He listed Dow Chemical Co.'s withdrawal of a planned petrochemical plant, the Alaskan oil terminal at Long Beach, offshore oil drilling "and a lot of other things."

Commission Chairman Richard Maullin told reporters outside the Public Utilities, Transit and Energy Committee hearing that Moretti s comments "sounded like the opening speech by a Republican candidate for governor."

Moretti has criticized Brown before, but this was perhaps his sharpest attack.

MONEY SAVER?

President Alan Fried of Johnson Industries displays "killer watt," a lighting fixture he claims can save money and energy by allowing consumers to convert their lamps from regular bulbs to flourescent.

Killer Watt: it's a new name for a light bulb

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The finalists in Johnson Industries' "name the bulb" contest were "Killer Watt" and "Watt Not."

The winning name was "Killer Watt" and the five-year-old lamp manufacturing company has begun marketing a lighting fixture it claims can save money and energy by allowing consumers to convert their lamps from incandescent bulbs to fluorescent lighting.

The device, which looks something like a glowing doughnut, screws into a standard light socket.

Johnson Industries President Alan Fried says fluorescent lighting uses only half the electricity of an equivalent amount of incandescent lighting. Utility company officials agree with the claim and a spokesman for Pacific Gas & Electric said the utility will probably include the "Killer Watt" in a special catalogue of energy-saving devices distributed to customers.

In addition to using less electricity, fluorescent bulbs last 10,000 to 12,000 hours, compared to the 750 to 1,000-hour life span of the incandescent bulbs, according to General Electric regional engineer Paul Schmidt.

The only problem with the Killer Watt is cost. The adapter and bulb retail for $14.99, compared to the usual 55-cent cost of most incandescent bulbs.

A spokesman for Southern California Edison estimated that lighting accounts for about 10 per cent of the average home utility bill, meaning customers would save about five per cent on their bills if incandescent lighting were to cut their light costs in half.

Despite the advantages of fluorescent lighting, few homes have it since it heretofore has required special fixtures that would necessitate costly rewiring of a home, says Schmidt.

"Killer Watt" is essentially "a way you can retrofit to get fluorescents into existing homes," Schmidt said.

Fried's company began national distribution of the "Killer Watt" last week. He said he originally had expected $1 million in sales this year but he has now raised his prediction to $2 million. The device has already won praise from energy officials.

"Given my job, I feel I would be remiss if I didn't use at least some of these in my home," said Dane Hooper, coordinator of the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power's Energy Conservation Center.

Air quality board votes to join suit against two counties

The South Coast Air Quality Management District board of directors voted 7-1 this week to join a suit by the state Attorney General's office against Los Angeles and Orange Counties for some $2.4 million being withheld from the SCAQMD by those two bodies.

A spokesman for the district said Monday that the suit should be filed sometime this week in Sacramento Superior Court.

The district and the attorney general allege that the two counties were mandated by the state to support the newly formed South Coast Air Quality Management District. However, supervisors in those counties have voted to withhold payment of funds to support the district on the grounds that the newly formed district requires those counties to foot a larger percentage of the bill without receiving a proportionate representation on the board.

Los Angeles and Orange County supervisors have also argued that the state continues to mandate programs to counties and cities without providing a means of financing those programs.

In lieu of the county funding, the district is operating on a $2.4 million loan from the state which was approved over the weekend by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. The loan, made available by legislation sponsored by Assemblyman Jerry Lewis of Riverside, provides that tax monies be withheld from the counties as repayment should the counties continue to withhold district funds.

Monday's lone vote against joining the law suit was cast by Warren Harwood, a deputy to Los Angeles County Supervisor Baxter Ward. Ward is a proponent of the planned withholding of funds from the SCAQMD.

The $2.4 million state loan will provide funding for the district through the end of the fiscal year by which time SCAQMD officials hope litigation will have ended.

BOSTON (AP) — The FBI is investigating a suspected multimillion dollar racket involving Ghanaian citizens who allegedly buy new cars in Massachusetts, then report them stolen and ship them through New York for inflated resale in Africa.

The Ghanaians allegedly involved come to the United States as tourists, businessmen and students, law enforcement and trade sources say. They allegedly report the cars stolen to avoid payment and collect insurance or skip out on installment payments, according to the sources.

On the West African black market, new and recent vintage cars in the six-cylinder category can bring up to $40,000 in Ghanaian currency, cedis, at official exchange rates.

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. posted record profits of $983 million in 1976 despite a four-week nationwide strike which the company said trimmed earnings by an estimated $348 million.

The firm's yearend results, released Tuesday, also provided the latest evidence of the auto industry's sensational turnaround from a two-year slump which Chairman Henry Ford II called "the worst recession in 40 years."

Also on Tuesday the industry reported that record demand for big cars during the first 10 days of February pushed domestic sales to the highest levels for the period in 12 years.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Saudi Arabia is talking about getting a stake in Alaska's offshore oil by putting its money behind a company which the United States set up to aid Alaska's native tribes.

The Associated Press has learned that Koniag Inc., a corporation set up under the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act, is seeking Saudi Arabian backing for an effort to bid for Alaskan offshore oil leases.

Harry Carter, Koniag vice president, confirmed that the company wants to qualify to bid for offshore oil leases, and that the Saudis have given Koniag "some feedback that they are interested in resource development in this area."

NEW YORK (AP) — Gasoline prices started rising late last month and will probably continue to rise through the summer, oil industry experts say.

Last year at this time, prices were falling, as they often do once the summer vacation driving peak is past.

But crude oil and refinery labor costs have gone up this winter, and the Federal Energy Administration has relaxed its regulation on passing the costs to consumers.

Industry analysts think gasoline prices will rise another 3 cents this year on average. The increase will be greatest for unleaded fuel, which costs more to make and for which demand is growing.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Airline passengers are complaining in record numbers to the Civil Aeronautics Board about delayed flights, baggage handling, overbookings and other shortcomings in service.

The board received a record 16,124 consumer complaints in 1976, a 35 per cent increase over 1975. The previous record was 15,720 in 1974.

Reservations-related problems led the list of complaints with 2,504. Some 1,192 came from ticket-holding passengers upset when they were denied a seat because the airline had overbooked the flight.

WASHINGTON (AP) — As many as 38,000 hard-pressed members of the armed services are drawing food stamps and thousands more would be eligible for the aid if they weren't moonlighting or didn't have working wives, a Pentagon study says.

"The fact that military members are eligible and use food stamps, implies the current military pay and allowances system may be inadequately compensating some of its members," the study says.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Ethiopia is a nation in turmoil. Its revolution, which began with the overthrow of the emperor's feudal rule in September 1974, is being written in blood.

Street assassinations of government supporters are a regular occurrence in the capital and elsewhere. Foreign diplomats say opponents of the government get similar "revolutionary justice" in the streets, in their homes and in mass executions.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Results today of Denmark's third general election in three years showed substantial gains for Prime Minister Anker Joergensen's Social Democrats despite setbacks last fall for the moderate socialists in neighboring Sweden and West Germany.

The Social Democrats got 37.1 per cent of the votes cast Tuesday and gained 12 seats in parliament for a total of 65. Two of the four parties that supported Joergensen's minority government through two years of frequent political crises also gained votes, but the other two lost. The five parties won a total of 103 seats, a majority of 27 in the 179-member parliament. However, none of the Socialists' allies appeared eager for a coalition; Joergensen was cool to overtures from the left, and it appeared another minority government was in prospect.

Treasury rejects $50 rebate-for-poor plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department has rejected a proposal to let about four million of the nation's poorest citizens file tax returns listing no income so they could receive President Carter's proposed $50 rebate.

The idea was one of several the department decided was not workable. It has failed to figure out a system to put the money into the hands of some of the poorest Americans, who will be left out of the rebate scheme under present plans before Congress.

Others proposals involved taking names from the states of people on welfare rolls who would not be found in Internal Revenue Service computers. That idea was rejected because of distrust about the accuracy of local welfare lists, Asst. Treasury Secretary Laurence N. Woodworth said recently.

The zero-income tax return would have been filed by individuals on welfare who earn no income and whose identities are not included in IRS computers that would be programmed to send out rebate checks to taxpayers. State agencies would help the welfare recipients fill out the returns.

But Treasury officials said that procedure could open the door for fraudulent claims made for rebate checks. Woodworth said the IRS would have no way of determining whether an individual was filing more than once.

His assessment is disputed by several members of the House Ways and Means Committee and by IRS technical experts. An IRS spokesman said its technicians feel they could program the computer to prevent the abuse.

Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., a member of the Ways and Means Committee, said recently he wants the committee to look into the suggestion.

"The aspect of fraud doesn't prevent a person making $50,000 from finding ways to defraud the IRS," Rangel said. He said the idea was short-circuited because the people involved "have no political potential. These are poor people with no political clout."

The four million are mainly individuals on welfare, receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

Vance getting Israel's terms

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's leaders were giving Secretary of State Cyrus Vance their terms for peace negotiations with the Palestine Liberation Organization today, and it appeared unlikely that they would be met.

One high-ranking Foreign Ministry official said the PLO would have to affirm its acceptance of the Jewish state and also approve United Nations resolutions recognizing Israel's sovereignty before Israel could even consider peace talks in which the Palestine guerrilla organization took part.

Some U.S. officials expect that the PLO, in an attempt to help revive the Arab-Israeli peace talks in Geneva, will nullify the call in its charter for the destruction of Israel. But the Foreign Ministry official said the Palestinians would have to do more than that.

Vance, who arrived Tuesday night to start his first foreign mission as secretary of state, began his talks with Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin at breakfast today. The secretary planned to relay an admonition from President Carter that movement toward an Arab-Israeli settlement this year is critical.

The Israeli response, already voiced by Foreign Minister Yigal Allon when he greeted Vance at Ben-Gurion Airport, was that Israel is "not for stagnation" but for movement toward peace.

Israeli officials said privately they are ready to return to Geneva immediately — but not if the PLO attends.

As an alternative, the Rabin government has suggested the United States consider a resumption of negotiations for interim settlements between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

Boy on bike hit by auto

A 6-year-old Walnut boy was injured Tuesday evening when he rode his bike out into the street in front of a parked vehicle and was hit by a second car westbound on Moonlake Street, west of Pinefall Avenue in Walnut.

Jaysen A. Wilsterman, 861 Adamsgrove Ave., was treated and later released at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

California Highway Patrol officers said the boy was struck by a car driven by Margaret Elizabeth Prewitt, 66, La Puente. The woman told officers she did not see the boy until it was too late. She was not held.

'Kill them,' Amin troops shout at plotters

The memorandum suggested ways of mobilizing opposition to the Amin regime and said arms could be shipped to Uganda through Anglican Bishop Okot at Tororo on Kenya's border.

The memorandum said Bishop Okot could pass the arms on to Archbishop Luwum.

Bishop Luwum and other Anglican bishops, all dressed in purple robes, were present during the recitation of the self-incriminating statements, as were diplomats, government ministers and other invited guests.

As his name was mentioned, Bishop Luwum shook his head in denial.

The open-air confession ceremony followed newspaper and diplomatic reports of widespread killings and arrests in Uganda in a purge that began more than a week ago following an abortive plot to kill Amin late last month. Amin has survived numerous attempts to kill him.

Pine strongly voiced his belief in the need for uniformed law enforcement officers on campus, saying that weapons, drugs, extortion, verbal abuse and fights were problems beyond the scope of the proctors.

Principals say that closing the campuses would bring the disrupters on campus, he said. "We should close the campus, identify the disrupters and then get them out of the school."

In response to trustee Don Donnelly, who defended the proctor program by calling for additional training for proctors, Pine said, "The kids have some respect for a uniformed cop and none for the proctors. Kennedy Park is an absolute cesspool. I come away from it outraged."

Pine said the park should be paved over.

Trustee C. Allen Braswell took issue with Pine's belief that kids respected uniformed officers.

"A better word may be fear or hate of uniformed officers," said Braswell who also attacked the proctor program, saying they were poorly trained and ill-equipped to deal with many situations.

Braswell recalled his own five-point plan for discipline introduced several meetings ago saying, "The board backed away from that plan because the board did not have the courage to make the principals responsible for discipline on their campuses."

Pine said the board was "copping out" by trying to stick with the proctor program, adding that there has been "an alarming rate of weapon incidents on campus. We're going to wait for someone to get shot. Only police can handle the situation."

Donnelly said to leave the hiring of police or proctors to the discretion of the principals.

Trustee Eugene Whitlock commented, "We should mandate this to the principals. If I were a principal, I would never want to say that my campus was that bad. We must impose this on the principals."

The board, despite its approval of the staff recommended expenditures, moved to hold a special meeting — its fourth of 1977 — next Tuesday at 6 p.m. in the Education Center board room to further discuss discipline problems in the district and to hear follow up reports of the impact of its newly instituted programs.

Armed suspect arrested

A young Pomona man who armed himself with a pistol during one Claremont house burglary Tuesday morning, was arrested after using the stolen weapon to threaten a neighbor who seized him during a second breakin, police charged today.

The suspect, James Brett Zimmerman, 18, of 1345 Scoville St., was booked on suspicion of burglary after being arrested at gunpoint by officers outside 601 Citadel Ave.

Arresting officers gave this account:

William E. Klaes, 19, who lives on Citadel Avenue, was outside the MaryLee Devilbiss residence at 630 Citadel Ave., when he heard noises inside. He went to a rear kitchen window and found Zimmerman climbing out. Klaes grabbed Zimmerman and forced him back inside the house where he telephoned James A. Devilbiss, 19, at work. A few minutues later, as Devilbiss arrived home, he found Zimmerman, armed with the pistol, attempting to leave.

Klaes later told police that Zimmerman had pulled the pistol and threatened him with it after he made the telephone call.

Klaes and Devilbiss did not attempt to stop the Pomonan from leaving the house, but police, who also had been called, found the suspect nearby and arrested him.

Officers found the pistol, a .38-caliber revolver, lying in bushes nearby. They said the weapon had been taken at 620 Citadel Ave. before the burglary at the Devilbiss residence.

Woman lured, maybe raped

A young woman, described by police as retarded, may have been the victim of rape after she was lured from a Pomona home by a couple parked outside, authorities said.

The woman, 23 years old, returned to the Pomona Health Spa at 1335 W. Second St. after about an hour Tuesday night and told the operators that she had been molested. Another patient said the victim was lured to the parked car by its occupants shortly before 7 p.m. and was driven away.

Police took the young woman to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where an examination confirmed that she may have been victimized.

The occupants of the car were described as one black man, 40 to 50 years old and fat, and a black woman, also 40 to 50 years old. She was said to be tall and also fat.

Parking lot robberies

A couple was robbed on a Claremont restaurant parking lot late Tuesday night a few minutes before a woman was victimized similarly outside a Pomona restaurant. Police suspect the same youth committed both holdups.

The first robbery occurred outside the Howard Johnson's Restaurant at 701 S. Indian Hill Blvd. at 11 p.m. The victim told police he was walking to his car when he was approached by a youth who put an 8-inch knife to his back and demanded his wallet. After getting it, the robber threatened an Upland woman who was in her parked car, and took her purse before fleeing.

Twenty-five minutes later a youth confronted a Chino waitress as she was leaving the Castaway Restaurant at 1600 Ganesha Blvd. in Pomona.

The victim said he apparently had been hiding in bushes bordering the parking lot and was armed with a hunting knife. She said she swung her shoulder bag at him, but he grabbed it, tore it from her and ran.

In both cases the thief was described as a black between 15 and 17, 5 feet 7 to 5 feet 9 and thin. The Claremont victims said only that he wore dark clothing. The Pomona victim said he wore a denim jacket, blue jeans, knit cap and T-shirt.

Crosland critical

LONDON (AP) — Foreign Secretary Anthony Crosland, fighting for his life since suffering a massive stroke, was reported in critical condition today by the hospital and the Foreign Office.

It was the first time the word critical had been used to describe the condition of the 58-year-old foreign secretary. He was previously said to be "dangerously ill."

British hospitals use the word critical to indicate extreme gravity. Tuesday night Crosland's political aide, David Lipsey, said Crosland was "sinking fast" as he lay in a coma in an intensive care unit of the Radcliffe Infirmary in Oxford.

Crosland's American-born wife, writer Susan Watson, has been at the hospital with him since he was taken there after collapsing Sunday at their home northwest of Oxford.

President Carter sent a message to Mrs. Crosland expressing the hope her husband would recover. Similar messages came from Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Henry A. Kissinger, Vance's predecessor and a close friend of Crosland.

Northern states in grip of cold

By The Associated Press

The northern states from North Dakota through Upper Michigan east through New England came under the grip of cold temperatures early today.

Temperatures in northern Minnesota were well below zero before daybreak. Subzero temperatures reach across Upper Michigan and readings in the teens stretch into upstate New York and into New England.

The colder air in the Mid-Atlantic states brought temperatures in the low and mid 20s. Freezing temperatures extended into southern parts of Mississippi and Alabama.

There was quite a contrast between eastern and western North Dakota. Eastern portions have temperatures around 10 degrees but Western sections were in the mid 30s. The western part of the state also had rain and snow along with some freezing rain. Light snow also fell in western portions of South Dakota and Nebraska.

A warm front trailing southward through the western Dakotas was responsible for the precipitation and the temperature contrasts.

NEW CREW CARRIER — California Division of Forestry Ranger Charles White Prepares to climb aboard the first of three new crew-carrying vehicles arriving at Camp Prado to replace the aging crew buses. The new trucks can carry 15-man fire crews into rugged mountain areas to battle forest fires. They can be used as a home base for the crew for seven days.

At Chino's Camp Prado

Fire crew truck received

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

The first of three new diesel-powered crew-carrying vehicles capable of transporting a 15-member fire crew into the most remote mountain areas has been received at the state Forestry Division's Camp Prado in Chino.

Two more of these 175-horsepower engine vehicles are expected before the fire season starts, said Charles White, camp foreman.

These vehicles will replace the aging 21-passenger buses used for many years to transport fire crews to fires.

Each truck is capable of containing enough equipment and providing a home base for fire crews for seven days. They contain more power than the buses, can travel 500 miles on a tank of gasoline, and have extremely high wheel bases that allows them to climb extremely steep mountain firebreaks, said White.

"We are not used to such power," he said as he wheeled the green and white truck in front of the camp's headquarters.

"We will have to give the men some additional training, particularly in grabbing equipment off the truck as we reach a fire scene."

White said fire crews, composed of prison inmates assigned by the California Department of Corrections, are especially trained in fighting forest fires in rugged terrain.

Inmates must learn how to dismount from trucks, grab their equipment and start moving to the fire scene within three minutes after the truck stops.

A number of modifications will have to be made to bring it up to state standards, he said. These include adding more storage cabinets plus installing seat belts, exhaust pipe and modern radio equipment.

Camp Prado is used as a staging area for fire crews moving to major fires in the San Bernardino Mountains. It has three 15-man full-time crews and a support crew.

40 to attend Scout Jamboree

Forty Boy Scouts from the Old Baldy Council will attend the National Scout Jamboree in August at Moraine State Park near Butler, Pa.

The jamboree is designed to give boys an opportunity to develop leadership and obtain ideas they can apply in their own districts, said scout officials.

The program will depict the heritage of scouting for the 40,000 young men and leaders expected to attend. The jamboree lasts from Aug. 3 to 9.

Ontario Post Office imposes strict measures on loose dogs

The Ontario Post Office has imposed strict delivery measures to reduce the number of dog bite incidents, said Postmaster Charles F. Linck Jr.

"It has been the past practice of the Ontario Post Office to notify dog owners when mail carriers encountered loose dogs on their routes, requesting owners to keep their dogs tied up to not interfere with mail deliveries," he added.

Since July 1, 1976, 66 first-time notices have been sent to Ontario residents. Another 16 second-time notices were sent when dogs continued to interfere with carriers, said Linck.

"In addition, seven Ontario postmen have received dog bites since last July, an average of one per month."

To eliminate such incidents, the post office is now requiring mail carriers to report any sightings of loose dogs to their supervisors who will relay this to the humane society and the police department. Owners can be cited for violation of the city's leash law, he reported.

"Carriers are informed that mails do not have to be delivered within any area — which could be the entire block — where dogs are roaming free.

The postmaster reported a recent incident where a carrier climbed from his vehicle to deliver mail and was bitten by two dogs.

"Owners bear a responsibility to keep their dogs under control at all times." Linck urged residents to cooperate with mail carriers by calling the humane society when spotting loose dogs in their neighborhoods.

Board urges forced water conservation in districts

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Department of Water Conservation is proposing that the state consider forcing water districts to adopt conservation measures.

The draft report, revealed at a hearing recently, also says additional legislation may be needed to set up a tax system to discourage water use.

The proposal was immediately criticized by representatives of the state Water Commission and Water Resources Control Board. They asked why it didn't offer more suggestions for conserving urban water.

Bank caper apparently meaningless

YORBA LINDA (AP) — Authorities today were investigating why a man entered a bank and allegedly took hostages, then said all he wanted was a news conference.

Authorities said Robert Payares, 25, of Yorba Linda walked into a bank with a gun Monday yet demanded no money, and was taken into custody after releasing two unharmed hostages from inside the bank. Then he read a statement to newsmen which said:

"This is a political robbery in retribution to the United States government, the state of California and the County of Orange."

Cardio-Respiratory director announced

Special meeting scheduled

The California Air Resources Board and Water Control Board will hold a special meeting Friday in Los Angeles to discuss simplifying California's environmental regulations and stimulating sound economic growth.

The special hearing will begin at 10 a.m. in the auditorium of the Serra Building, 107 S. Broadway.

Persons wanting on the agenda may contact Winston Hickox, Air Resources Board, 1709 11th St., Sacramento.

The report will be circulated among interested parties

Silver Knight of Management Award

G.D. officer honored

Leonard F. Buchanan, vice president of General Dynamics Corp. and general manager of its Pomona plant, has received the National Management Association Silver Knight of Management Award for his demonstrated "leadership in business, in the community, and his family."

The award was presented by Jess Cook, Cook, national NMA president, and Jack Abels, president of the NMA's Board of Control.

The Silver Knight is one of the highest awards of the NMA. Buchanan is the first person to receive it in the chapter's 25-year history. The award is based upon the recipient's demonstrated record of leadership, adherence to the NMA Code of Ethics, contributions to achievement of NMA objectives, and continuing efforts in the preservation of the free enterprise system.

Buchanan was appointed general manager of General Dynamics Plant in Pomona in 1974. He joined the division in 1956 as a dynamics engineer and held several positions of increasing responsibility, including vice president — research and engineering.

He is chairman of the Scientific Advisory Committee of the University of Redlands and chairman of the Missiles and Astronautics Division of the American Defense Preparedness Association; a member of the Defense Science Board Task Force on Surface Naval Warfare, and of the board of directors of Redlands Science Associates.

The National Management Association is organized for the advancement of management as a profession and the support of the free enterprise system. It has over 50,000 members in 211 chapters throughout the United States.

Homeowners group meets

The Diamond Bar Homeowners Association will hold a special meeting Feb. 24 at 8 p.m. in the Hills Club.

The agenda for the meeting includes a candidates forum featuring the 10 candidates for the three open seats on the Walnut Valley Unified School District board of education.

Also to be discussed will be the proposed Diamond Bar school annexation to the Walnut district.

'Southern' hospitality

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The 65th annual convention of the American Hotel-Motel Association, held here recently, drew 1,105 members, a record high for the national meeting of people in the hospitality business.

Federal money is expected

San Bernardino County will receive $1.5 million as its share of federal money under the Public Works Employment Act of 1976, said Sen. Ruben S. Ayala, D-32nd Dist., Chino.

These funds, Ayala explained, are to be used to create jobs.

Distribution of the money in San Bernardino County is as follows: Patton State Hospital, $440,875, public health; San Bernardino, $110,000, higher education; Chino, $730,339, corrections; and Chino, $302,688, youth authority.

Additional information concerning the actual projects to be carried out may be obtained by calling 884-3165 in San Bernardino or 983-3566 in Ontario, Ayala said.

S.B. County to pay for paramedics fee

San Bernardino County supervisors have decided to pick up the tab for certification of paramedics.

It means that agencies such as fire departments which sponsor paramedics will no longer have to pay a $50 fee to certify each of the paramedics.

Revenue from the fees estimated this year — or the tab the county will be picking up — will be about $5,000.

Complaints about the fees had been registered by the agencies sponsoring paramedics and by nurses in the program. The fee provides a two-year certification of mobile intensive care paramedics and nurses.

The county initiated the paramedic program in 1975. Since then, certification fees have been paid by sponsoring public agencies and private ambulance firms.

Supervisors this week approved an ordinance to allow for the county to pay the fee instead of the outside agencies and private companies.

Supervisor Robert Townsend and other board members have strongly supported the ordinance. Townsend noted that it was unfair to charge the agencies for the certification. "We can shoulder this $5,000 cost," he said.

Board members last week had instructed staff to draw up the ordinance.

Young: foreign policy openly arrived at

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Andrew Young believes his candid, low-key style of diplomacy is what American foreign policy needs and what the Carter presidency is all about. And he intends to go right on "speaking my mind."

"When Jimmy Carter said he wanted a foreign policy that was as good and decent as the American people, he was talking about a foreign policy with some open discussion of issues and not a foreign policy discussed in secret quarters of the State Department," said Carter's ambassador to the United Nations in an interview during his recent trip to Africa.

"To me that requires a certain amount of freedom of expression. ... Maybe I have a problem with reconciling the commitment of the Carter administration not to lie — to have government in the open — with what is a traditional reserve in the State Department.

"But I don't want to give in that easy."

Young said he knew his opinions might not reflect administration policy. But he indicated he believed it is part of his job — and the style of the Carter administration — to stir up public debate and get the American people involved in the formulation of foreign policy.

"One of the most valuable things in the progress of American foreign policy in the last 100 years was the open debate and conflict over Vietnam," he said.

"When you remember the cost in the Bay of Pigs and Vietnam of leaving foreign policy to 'experts,' then I'm not sure we want to go back to that kind of closed decision making.

And because I value openness I'm willing to take flak to be repudiated, corrected and argued with."

The black ambassador during his 10-day trip across Africa held friendly meetings with nearly 20 national leaders and encountered none of the anti-American diatribes so familiar on the continent in recent years.

President Carter told a Cabinet meeting Monday that Young had brought "notable improvement" in America's relations with black Africa. The President and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance were reported particularly pleased that he had laid the groundwork for improvement in relations with Nigeria, black Africa's biggest, richest and most powerful nation.

But the same candor that won Young praise and friends in Africa has also stirred some debate at home and required "clarifications" from the State Department to bring his pronouncements in line with administration policy.

While in Africa, he repeatedly said Americans should not be afraid of Marxists taking over southern Africa since whatever ideology they espoused, once in power they would have to turn to the West for technology, capital and trade.

He did not hesitate to become the first U.S. official to meet with President Agostinho Neto of Angola although Washington has no relations with Neto's Marxist regime, and the Ford administration repeatedly attacked it for using Cuban troops to help fight its foes.

Young in London said former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger had put the burden of Rhodesian negotiations on the British and then "abandoned" them when the Republicans lost the election. Carter came to his ambassador's defense, saying his comments had been taken out of context and that Young had not meant to criticize Kissinger.

Before he left for Africa, Young said in an interview that the Cubans had brought a "certain stability" to Angola. The State Department disowned this, and Young subsequently said he meant that Cuban technicians, doctors and agricultural specialists had brought stability, not Cuban troops.

Young also said the Carter administration would move "forthrightly" toward recognizing Vietnam and that the solution to Rhodesia lay through South Africa. The State Department backed up the statement on Vietnam but said the Rhodesian dilemma was "not that simple."

In Africa, Young used commercial flights instead of Air Force planes, stayed at local hotels and mingled with "the folk." He scheduled meetings as he went along, eschewed protocol and prodded local U.S. diplomats to join in discussions with the Africans.

"We didn't want to come into Tanzania as the all-powerful American sugar daddy passing out foreign aid and throwing our weight around," he said after his stop in that key East African country. "... Our visit was far more fruitful because of that. People really leveled with us. There was a level of honest communication, and I didn't hear any anti-American diatribes."

Throughout his trip, Young insisted he was careful not to commit the State Department to any new policy. And in making personal statements he said he had no intention of conflicting with official policy.

"I know the final decision rests with the secretary of state and the final formulations are the secretary's and the President's. ... I don't think I'm bucking the country and bucking the policy," he said. "I really think I'm helping democracy work."

Then he added with a smile: "I hope Vance doesn't mind, and any time he says, 'Shut up,' I'll shut up."

They're forever blowing ...glass

SAN BERNARDINO (AP) — Glass-blowing is an art that combines fun and profit — but it's also demanding on the artist.

"Glass is not forgiving," observed student Jimmy Stewart while he was huffing and puffing into a long metal pipe.

"With clay or stone, you can work at your own pace. With glass, you have only so much time."

Working in front of a 2,400 degree furnace isn't easy either.

Janet Kelley complains that the heat dries out her eyes and makes her contacts hurt, and Debbie Martin says her wrists get tired from rotating the fivefoot-long rod holding the molten glass.

Nonetheless, they and the other 18 students in the unusual class at California State University at San Bernardino stick to their work.

Besides the satisfaction of fashioning intricate works of art out of globs of molten glass, the work offers them the prospect of a good job.

A good glassblower can earn $20,000 to $30,000 a year, says instructor Bill Warehall, adding that some shops which turn out little more than glass paperweights make more than $80,000 a year.

But Warehall stresses the artistic aspects of the work.

"This is the place to experiment," he says. "Once they get out, they have to produce."

Speedy trials becoming more difficult

EDITOR'S NOTE: This report, focusing on the Superior Court, is the second of three articles dealing with the unprecedented log-jam that impedes the administration of justice in Pomona's courts.

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

The law says a person charged in Superior Court with a crime is entitled to trial within 60 days.

Yet in Pomona, most defendants can look forward to a six to eight month stretch of time — some in jail, some free on bail — between arraignment and trial date.

How is this possible?

Judges admit that if enough defendants insisted on their rights to a speedy trial right now, they couldn't accommodate them. The courts would have to set them free.

But there are apparently enough defendants — and attorneys — who are willing to waive their statutory time and take postponement to prevent the system from breaking down.

If this seems like collusion, it is certainly one of necessity. Most of the time, neither side is ready for trial within the prescribed time because of a log-jam that has the local courts in distress.

"There are some cases we wind up dismissing because we run out of time," admits Paul Egley, presiding judge of the East District Court.

"But this doesn't happen too often. Usually we manage somehow to juggle the calendar to take care of those who don't want to waive their time. But in most cases, the waiver is almost routine. The public defender is so overloaded, he wants the additional time."

Because most of the defendants in criminal cases are too poor to hire their own attorneys, Egly figures that about 80 per cent of the Superior Court's criminal work involves the appointment of public defenders.

In past years, the public defenders' offices have been able, more or less, to keep up with the current calendar. Last fall, through a freeze placed on hiring by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, the local office alone shrank from 15 to 11 deputies, and two of those are assigned to juvenile court.

While Egly says he knows of no cases in Superior Court in which the public defenders' office turned down due to lack of time, there is no doubt that many of them have talked their clients out of insisting on the 60-day limit.

This is not the case in Municipal Court where public defenders now frequently make "declarations of unavailability," meaning they are too busy.

Public Defender Wilbur F. Littlefield said this is so because it costs a lot less money to replace a deputy in Municipal Court than it does in Superior Court.

But the practice has incensed judges in the Municipal Courts who find their workloads increasing.

And Littlefield says the situation is not likely to improve during the current fiscal year. He reported the freeze by the supervisors has cut his staff countywide from a high of 421 two years ago to 390 last year and to 370 as of now.

He expects a further reduction of nine or 10 before the end of June, and "some of that may well be in Pomona."

"We tried to show the supervisors that financially the freeze in our office is unsound," he explained. "The amount of money to replace the work of the public defender would more than pay for the hiring of needed help. But so far, we have not been able to make headway."

Chino teen-ager hopes to claim world's record

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

He's not the world's fastest human. He'll never hit 800 major league home runs. He can't swim half as fast as Mark Spitz. And most probably, he will never be offered a major movie contract.

But he might be a world's record holder just the same.

Jerome Porras, a 16-year-old Chino High School student, has shattered the published world's record — of all things — in coin snatching.

According to the 1976 edition of the "Guiness Book of World Records," the record for coin snatching — the balancing of 50-cent coins on the end of the elbow, flipping them in the air and catching them in the hand — is 39.

Chris Redford of England is (was) the official record holder.

But Porras easily flipped and snatched 44 half-dollars while being snapped by a Progress Bulletin photographer. And unless someone has topped that, it appears the Chino youth is the new champ.

"I've been practicing about a week," revealed the new coin snatch hero. "I started out with pennies and gradually worked my way up to the 50-cent pieces. The problem is the better you get, the more expensive it becomes."

But Porras has overcome the money obstacle by talking friends into chipping in half-dollars when doing his snatch routine. His new goal is to catch 50 coins ($25 a snatch.)

"I should be able to do it soon," he boasts. "It's just a matter of practice."

Porras plans to submit evidence of his unusual dexterity to the Guiness people in hopes of being officially recognized as the world record holder.

Should his record be accepted, his name will appear in the next edition of the best-selling book.

Anyone care to be a world record holder in snatching silver dollars?

S.B. supervisors discover bigger budget deficit

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

San Bernardino County supervisors found out Tuesday that an estimated $7.5 million deficit in the 1977-78 budget had jumped to nearly $12 million.

The board was told at a budget study session by County Administrative Officer Earl Goodwin that because of workload increases in various areas, the deficit is greater than earlier projected.

Supervisors took no action in the matter, but indicated the deficit was "unacceptable."

Goodwin noted that if county officials do not find a way to offset the deficit, it would have to come from a property tax increase. He added it was "too early to tell" what the increase might be.

The deficit problem — then estimated at $7.5 million — was first spelled out for supervisors on Jan. 24 when Goodwin presented some preliminary budget figures.

Goodwin at that time blamed the deficit on inflation, higher employe salaries, capital outlay for new facilities, programs started at mid-year which must be fully budgeted for next year, and continuing state and federally mandated programs.

The supervisors on Tuesday discovered the projected deficit had jumped to about $11.8 million.

Goodwin said $1.7 million could be saved through federal in-lieu payments to districts with untaxable federal land and money from the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act.

That would offset part of the original $7.5 million deficit, bringing it to $5.9 million.

However, workload increases not estimated earlier will bring the deficit to the $11.8 million figure, noted Goodwin.

About $3.1 million will have to be paid for increased welfare costs ($1.6 million), additional court cases ($965,000), health programs ($230,000), public services ($208,000) and internal support programs ($120,000).

Another $2.8 million will be required to handle workload increases in the sheriff's department, said Goodwin. In addition, funds to handle the deficit will have to be found.

"These funds are needed to just maintain present levels of service," he noted. Goodwin indicated he will be working to resolve the deficit situation before presenting a formal county budget to supervisors later this year.

Confusion created in unexpected controversy

Ontario council struggles with zone changes

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The Ontario City Council shilly-shallied Tuesday night on the seemingly simple issue of zone changes and public hearings.

The unexpected controversy came on the first major item on the agenda which involved a zone change from general agriculture to single-family residential on property on the southwest corner of Euclid Avenue and Walnut Street. From that point on, it was confusion.

Council members voiced concerns about residential development in Orange County and elsewhere that encouraged the eaves of homes to be built too close together. This practice resulted from homes being built on small lots, generating lack of sufficient space between the homes and eaves.

The first zone change submitted by Gertrude McMasters proposed the now required 7,200 square feet minimum lot size for Ontario.

In its rush to have staff study the possibility of increasing lot sizes to 10,000 square feet minimum, the council included three other parcels that had already met current city requirements and were simply waiting for final approval from the council before construction began.

The council couldn't seem to make up its mind. City Engineer Ed James and senior planner Joyce Babicz showed consternation that the council was about to disturb months of work with developers.

Both addressed themselves to the point of consistency with developers who have faithfully adhered to the adopted standards of the city to this point.

Mrs. Babicz commented that the item regarding a zone change from multiple dwelling to single family dwelling on property on the west side of Bon View Avenue, south of Philadelphia Street had been a requirement placed on the developer by the city. The Mize Co. had been told by the Planning Commission that it must gain this zone change in order to construct on the site.

Despite staff's predicament, the council tabled the matter to consider increasing the lot size here also. It later proceeded to table the public hearing and first reading on a zone change from multiple residential to single family residential on property located south of the Pomona Freeway on the west side of Cucamonga Avenue.

As the council was about to take similar action on a change from commercial and multiple residential to single family for property south of the freeway between Grove and Parco avenues, a representative of the developer rose to object.

Kelly Harold of Armour Building Co. opposed the delay and continuation of public hearing on the final zone change item, saying delay would cause "substantial financial ramifications and burdens on the developer."

City Manager Roger Hughbanks said "There needs to be a point in the pipeline that will be the cut-off point. It's not fair or practical to have one set of rules for those who have been dealing with the city and suddenly change those rules."

Councilman Beecher Medlin said he agreed with the need to increase lot sizes, but not with the means of changing. He objected to "changing horses in mid-stream regarding rules."

John Porter, assistant city manager, also pose doubts about the delay.

Ontario man injured in spectacular crash

A 21-year-old Ontario man was injured Tuesday night when his car, westbound on San Bernardino Road in Montclair, crashed into another vehicle, went airborne and chopped off the top of a tree and overturned, police reported.

Gary Lynn Nelson of 4495 Bonnie Brea Street was listed in good condition this morning in Montclair Doctors Hospital with head injuries.

Police said that Nelson's vehicle, traveling at a high rate of speed, struck a second vehicle also westbound driven by Robert Guzman, 19, Fontana.

The impact of the collision pushed the Fontana man's vehicle into the center divider and sent the other vehicle airborne. Officers said the airborne vehicle chopped off the top of a tree 15 feet above ground, crashed onto the pavement below and overturned.

Nelson was ejected from the vehicle after impact.

Police said Guzman was not injured.

Pomona band director runs for council seat

G. Stanton Selby, Pomona's Concert Band director for 30 years, has announced he will seek election to the Pomona City Council in the 4th District.

"In the 30 years I have lived in Pomona, many changes have taken place. Some have been for the better. But with change, unfortunately, unpredictable problems are somtimes born.

"I am concerned with two of these problems: the epidemic of criminal violence and the disintegration of civic pride," said Selby.

He said Pomona's elected officials must rekindle optimism in the future of the city.

"Pomonans are patiently waiting for someone to rekindle this optimism, restore their civic pride and eradicate this epidemic of criminal disease," he said.

A World War II Coast Guard veteran, Selby, 56, is a graduate of San Jose State and USC. He is an instructor of music at Mt. San Antonio College.

Selby is the only director the Pomona Concert Band has ever had since being formed in 1947. He has also been active in other organizations as a member of the Pomona Elks Lodge, Pomona Valley Musicians Club, Pomona Avenue of Flags Committee, Pomona Bicentennial Committee, and the First Presbyterian Church of Pomona.

He has also been vice-chairman of the city's Cultural Arts Commission.

Selby and his wife, Helen, reside at 1195 N. Caswell Ave. They have four grown children.

Just a great human being?

The U.S. Historical Society recently asked the history department chairmen of 100 colleges and universities to name America's 10 greatest presidents.

Of 86 replies, all but one placed Abraham Lincoln first, followed by George Washington, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Teddy Roosevelt, Thomas Jefferson, Woodrow Wilson, Andrew Jackson, Harry Truman, James Polk and John Adams.

Six of these presidents served in the first century of the United States and four in the second century, which suggests that the nation has not lacked for leadership throughout its history.

Interestingly, however, the society reports that a significant number of the historians insisted or implied that there have not been 10 great presidents. "It is stretching things a bit to list the seven I have," said one historian.

Contended another: "We have not had many presidents who were great 'human beings,' my criterion for greatness. Most of the figures in our history who could be classified as great human beings did not hold political office."

In this light, it is worth noting that of the 10 presidents judged greatest by the historians, all but John Adams either headed the nation during wars or military actions or had previously won fame as military heroes. And even during Adams' administration, the society points out, the nation was on the verge of war with France.

The wartime presidents were: Jefferson (naval action against the Barbary Coast pirates); Polk (Mexican War); Lincoln (Civil War); Wilson (World War I); F. D. Roosevelt (World War II), and Truman (World War II and Korean War).

The military heroes were Washington (American Revolution); Jackson (War of 1812), and Teddy Roosevelt (Spanish-American War).

Furthermore, the president who received the 11th largest number of votes from the historians, Lyndon B. Johnson, also headed the nation during a war

How will Jimmy Carter be measured against his predecessors?

Since he is not a military hero, and since no war or military action looms on the horizon at this time, he will have to achieve greatness in other ways — perhaps by being remembered as a "great human being?"

One hopes future historians will rank him as such.

Cut down on blubber hunts

The United States got out of the whale-hunting business and banned imports of whale products five years ago. So far, however, it has been unable to convince the 16-member International Whaling Commission to declare a 10-year moratorium on all whaling.

Actually, only two countries, the Soviet Union and Japan, still operate global whaling fleets. Both have cut the size of their fleets in recent years and no new whaling ships are being built.

Partly through U.S. efforts, the commission last June did lower the annual catch limit on whales to 27,939, a reduction of 6,000.

But this doesn't mean much. The limit has been steadily lowered, yet has always been pegged well above the number of whales the whaling countries figured they could catch. Nor is there any way to enforce the quotas.

Fortunately, the new U.S. 200-mile fisheries limit that goes into effect in March will help protect declining whale populations, even though it was not planned that way, writes William Graves in the National Geographic. It will give this country jurisdiction over some of the world's richest fishing grounds.

And although the total ban urged by the United States still appears years away, whaling is declining and may eventually disappear with or without a push from the whaling commission.

Whale-lovers hope it does before the whales do.

Think on these things

If you are face to face with difficulty and there's no place to go, there's something you need to do. You need to withdraw — step back from the stone wall that confronts you. You are clutching it — it is not holding you.

By releasing our hold on a problem, a worry — no matter how impossible it seems — we give it a chance to reveal to us the way it can be solved. We are told that every problem comes equipped with a solution, but when we are so certain that it can only be met one way we lose something. There is always a better way. And we can see that way if we will relax completely. Sit very quietly and count to 10 without a single thought except to count. Then, count to 10 again and again until you've stopped grasping for answers. Only an open mind can hear that still, small voice with all the wisdom.

Support your local artists

Dear Editor:

It is ironic that in a community which has had the advantage of the Pomona Valley Art Association's presence, so many people are allowing themselves to be victimized by the monthly sales of so-called "art" at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds.

We have one of the finest community art association galleries in the state, the Pomona Valley Art Association Gallery, located on the ground floor of the Speidel Building. Paintings done by professional and semi-professional artists are sold at low prices.

In contrast, I have great reservations whether or not the paintings sold at the fairgrounds are "originals." When signed, by whom and how are they signed?

Through the years, the PVAA has provided art education services by bringing well-known artists to our area; by displaying the work of local artists in banks, hospitals and other business establishments; and by organizing the volunteer services of many who are dedicated to developing the artistic taste of the community. Residents may acquaint themselves with the work of an artist long before deciding on buying art work. On the other hand, art buyers at the fairgrounds sales are often into a quick purchase promoted by mass sales techniques. Later the buyer may find himself with a painting which fails to gratify his aesthetic sense.

I urge residents of our area interested in purchasing original art to acquaint themselves with the authentically original work of fine quality and real vitality available at the local gallery.

Latest racket is cigarettes

WASHINGTON — The nation's top manicured and moneyed mobsters have taken a quiet, deadly interest in the lowly cigarette.

It began with a few enterprising but petty crooks, who discovered that the difference in state taxes made it profitable to smuggle cigarettes across state lines.

For example, a truckload of cigarettes from North Carolina, where the tax is 2 cents per pack, could be sold for big money in New York, where the tax is 15 cents. The bootlegger merely had to bypass the state tax collectors.

Now the crime syndicate has moved in on the racket. Members of the Vito Genovese and Carlo Gambino mobs have been linked to the underground traffic in cigarettes.

In several Northeastern states, the syndicate has cornered the cigarette blackmarket. Nearly half of all cigarettes sold in New York, for example, are distributed by the mob. Already, cigarette smuggling costs the taxpayers an estimated $400 million a year.

But investigators have now picked up dismaying evidence that the Mafia is expanding its cigarette operations into the Midwest and Southwest. In a recorded conversation with an undercover agent, one syndicate bootlegger boasted that "it'll be easy to move into Tucson."

Of course, the Mafia promotes and protects its new cigarette business by the blackjack, the knife and the gun. Investigators say more than a dozen cigarette bootleggers have been murdered. Some were executed, gangland-style, to eliminate the competition.

One suspected informant, Richard DeMary, was found dead in a ditch in northern New Jersey a week after a bootlegging bust. DeMary had been severely beaten and then riddled with .22 caliber bullets. Finally, his executioners blew off his head with several blasts from a .38-caliber handgun.

The Mafia has also transformed cigarette smuggling into an efficient business, complete with machines that turn out counterfeit tax stamps by the thousands. With the same efficiency, the businessmen-mobsters hijack cigarette cargoes, smuggle the contraband across state borders and corrupt the police who might get in the way.

According to New York State Tax Commissioner James H. Tully, cigarette smuggling, unhappily, is on the rise. Yet it's an interstate crime that the Justice Dept. doesn't want to add to its jurisidiction. Cigarettes seem so small; but the illegal profits are huge.

RENT-A-FARMER: Family farms still form the backbone of America's phenomenal agriculture production. They not only have made this the best-fed nation in history, but family farmers have been the traditional guardians of American values.

Yet in the past two decades, millions have been driven off their land by their inability to compete with the agriculture giants. Inflation has also driven many small farmers to the edge of bankruptcy.

Depression-born laws to protect the small farmers are landowners as they gobble up ever greater bites of the countryside.

One of the nation's most formidable banks, the $16 billion Continental Illinois National Bank, has joined in the squeeze on the small farmers. The bank will set up a $50 million, tax-exempt trust fund, which will buy up working farms throughout the Midwest.

Fields that were worked by families will be turned over to professional managers. They'll be paid either a salary or a share of the harvest. The profits from the operation will go to the trust's investors.

Land trusts are nothing new to big investors. But Continental Illinois has opened the way for them to capitalize on the misfortune of the harassed family farmers who can no longer meet rising costs.

Like a new plague of locusts, speculators are expected to gobble up the choicest farmland, drive up the prices and increase the relentless pressure on financially strapped family owners.

Spokesmen for Continental Illinois dispute this. They point out that the $50 million trust won't put a dent in the gigantic agricultural real estate market. The farmland purchases would also be made "gradually" and would "help young farmers," said a spokesman.

Yet the appearance down on the farm of the giant Continental Illinois National Bank will encourage other banks to create similar tax-exempt trusts.

Two concerned congressmen, Richard Nolan, D.-Minn., and Fred Richmond, D.-N.Y., have written a private letter to Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, urging him to study "the long-range economic and social implications should this type of investment vehicle be widely adopted."

Nolan told us that Continental Illinois' farm-purchasing, crop-leasing management plans amounted to a "return to a feudal system of tenants and landlords." The two congresmen have scheduled hearings on the new development.

Meanwhile, Continental Illinois has invited Merrill-Lynch, the big brokerage house, to help find investors. For legal advice, the bank has turned to Baker and McKenzie, the prestigious Chicago law firm, which has just brought in a new associate. He is President Ford's former agriculture secretary, John Knebel, who was contemplating the impact of Continental Illinois upon the nation's farms just a few weeks ago.

Caution: Men working

Thirty-five years ago, as Vice President, Henry Wallace was considered unrealistically fanciful when he predicted "55 million American workers working."

We've eclipsed that.

With the new President under pressure from Big Labor and from his own pre-election promises to "do something about our sluggish economy," he and we must not look at the American work force through the wrong end of the telescope.

Because the monthly report from the Department of Labor tends to focus attention on "unemployment," what I'm about to relate will come as something of a surprise to many.

Total employment in the United States for the past decade — the total number of American workers working — has been increasing twice as fast as our population has been increasing.

The last 10 years have seen more new jobs generated by the United States economy than there are people in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles put together.

Never in the history of our or any other nation has there been such a dramatic increase in the creation of new jobs!

In 1966 our nation's population was 196.5 million. We had 73 million Americans working.

Today our population is 215 million, and we have more than 88 million workers working.

So while our nation's population has increased 10 percent, the total number of Americans employed has increased 21 percent!

And this job increase was effected despite a rather severe recession, especially in beef, cars and houses.

During the decade spanning the Fifties the number of employed increased 12.3 percent.

During the decade spanning the Sixties it increased 14.3 percent.

But during this last decade — 21.2 percent!

It's easy to explain "more jobholders." For one thing there are more workingwomen — 37 percent more than 10 years ago. The baby boom of the Sixties further swelled the working-age population — 28 percent more of them.

Against this paradox of increasing employment and continuing unemployment, The Wall Street Journal assigned John O'Riley to try to figure out why.

His conclusion: "Unemployment pay, Social Security retirement money and welfare money cause many people to list themselves as 'unemployed' when they are not really trying to find work."

The cost of supporting them over the past decade has increased 340 percent to $196 billion. That's one-fifth as much as is paid to working folks!

It's not our economy that's sluggish!

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

There are some who contend the millennium, that thousand years of happiness and prosperity before the Second Coming, is just on the verge of happening.

"How could it be otherwise," they ask, "when, after years and years of operating in the red, the U.S. Postal Service finally comes up with the stupendous announcement that during the past two months it has amassed a surplus of $36.3 million?"

On the other hand, there are those who are equally convinced that, far from any millennium, the present cold spell this country is experiencing is an indication that we are about to enter another Ice Age.

Well anyway, whatever they may portend, strange things are happening! Witness the new earth tilt geologists have discovered near Palm Springs. Some say it is a warning of an earthquake in the making. Then there is that descendant of Palm Springs original Indian settlers who has a slightly different version. He claims that tilt was caused by his ancestors doing flip-flops in their graves, all the while shouting eerily: "There goes the neighborhood!" when they learned an ex-Vice President had purchased a home on their former reservation.

Sacramento scene

Congressional powerhouse

By EARL G. WATERS

California's senior senator, Alan Cranston, may be a big man in the Senate but in terms of real power he isn't in the same ball park with Congressman Harold T. (Bizz) Johnson, also a Californian.

Cranston has had a remarkable rise on the national scene. Elected to the Senate in 1968 he is not yet halfway through his second six-year term. But with his election as majority whip he is second only to Majority Leader Robert Byrd in guiding the affairs of the nation's most powerful and exclusive legislative body.

Not only does he sit in and have a large say in the top councils of the Senate but he has the direct ear of the President whenever he wants it.

Johnson is not speaker of the House, often said to be the most important office of Congress. Neither is he the House majority leader or whip, the second and third top posts of that body.

What he is, however, unquestionably makes him just about the most powerful member of Congress, at least at the moment. For Johnson, serving his 18th year in Washington, is chairman of the Public Works and Transportation Committee. And it is that committee which will determine where the millions, perhaps billions, of dollars for work projects sought by President Carter will be spent.

Always important, public works projects loom paramount in times of high unemployment. Occupying the key position of chairman of the committee, Johnson has to be the most popular, most sought after member of Congress. In the vulgar vernacular of politics he is sitting on the "pork barrel."

And "pork" is something every congressman, no matter how important he may be in the hierarchy of the political structure or how strong he may be in his district, views as his life blood. If he doesn't bring some federal project home to his district he may have great trouble at the next election.

Of course Johnson likes to think of it in different terms. He says all of the projects which will be considered are "highly desirable and worthy." He concedes, however, that "every congressman in the United States" has several of these "worthy" projects in the hopper.

And, while Johnson may be dealing from a position of great power he also has a tremendous responsibility to see that the funds which will be allotted are used in the best interests of the nation and not just to appease a congressman's desire to be the local hero. His handling of the politically delicate apportionments of funds is not without dangers of incurring animosities and building powerful enemies.

Probably no member of Congress is better suited for this difficult post than Johnson. Besides having an even tempered disposition he has an innate ability to get along with his colleagues. While he can be firm he is never abrasive. He commands the respect of those who come in contact with him and few have ever been heard to criticize him. In a theater where scandal and gossip excel, Johnson has an impeccable reputation both for his conduct and his honesty and integrity.

A native of California he grew up in Roseville where he served on the school board and City Council and seven years as mayor. Although he studied at the University of Nevada he spent his early career as an employe of the Pacific Fruit Express and has been a strong labor union member and supporter. He also served 10 years in the state Senate before going to Congress.

With that well founded background in local and state government, and the experience as a blue collar worker added to his long experience in Congress, there is little doubt that Johnson fully understands each of the projects which will come before him. His record shows he can distinguish between need and "pork." It also shows he has an antipathy to waste in government.

Ann Landers

Florida's CBs too powerful

Dear Ann Landers: Please, may I use your column to reach "Old Orange Country?"

Dear Orange Country, Fla.: This afternoon I tried to use my CB radio to call my mother, who lives one mile away. It was impossible. Why? Because YOU are sitting down there in Florida with so much power you ruin all CBs here in central Illinois. It's against the law, in case you don't know. It is also against the law to talk all afternoon.

It would be different if you were doing something important with your CB, but you rich Floridians are such egomaniacs all you're interested in is seeing how far out you can get, so you can brag.

Many a time I've looked out the window and seen my husband in the truck and wanted to tell him something on the CB but I couldn't because of you jerks in Florida with all that power. "This is the Bikini State calling The Land of Lincoln." Who cares? Well, I DO and I am — Mad In Illinois

Dear Mad: Your beef should be evaluated by the CB operators. They know the score and I don't.

What about "Mad's" complaint? Is it valid? This is Annie Baby calling all good buddies in Landers Land — clue me soonest.

Dear Ann: In regard to the wife who is concerned because her husband refuses to kiss their baby boy:

My husband never kissed our three sons. Don always shook hands with them. When I complained he said, "Boys don't kiss boys." He still feels that way and refuses to kiss his grandsons.

As for the psychiatric nurse who said, "A father who doesn't kiss his sons may be bisexual, or perhaps he considers his son competition for his wife's affection," is nuts.

My husband's father never kissed HIM and our sons don't kiss THEIR sons. So please tell the wife to hang in there. She's got enough to worry about if she has a baby to take care of. — Granny

Dear Granny: Shake hands, huh? With a four-week-old infant?

If a father doesn't feel comfortable kissing his son I would hope he'd at least hold the child in his arms. A baby, male or female, who isn't cuddled by his parents grows up emotionally deprived and unable to give or receive love. This is where the "cold fish" come from.

Dear Ann Landers: I wish I had been sitting at your typewriter to answer the woman who said she was suspicious of her sister and husband because they played gin rummy a lot while she was at work. Hubby worked the night shift and Wifey worked days, so Sis came over every afternoon to watch the kids and start supper.

Don't you know a woman's intuition is the most infallible lie detector on earth? For years I felt guilty because of my "ugly" feelings about my dear sister and my "wonderful" husband. They played a lot of gin rummy. My kids were around, too — also my mother, plus other family members. I fed myself the same bunk about how nice it was that we were such a close family. To make a long story short, my sister and my husband ended up together and I ended up reading your column.

Eat your words, Ann. — Too Late In Mt. Vernon

Dear T.L.: Gulp. Gulp. Gulp.

Marmaduke

"YOU HAD TO TAKE THEM TO SEE KING KONG!"

Dr. Miller

Why not groom ordinary dog?

DEAR DR. MILLER: Just when I got used to people giving their poodles all these fancy hairdos, I now see dogs, mongrels even, getting fancy hairdos, too. What's the sense of spending money to take a mutt to a beauty parlor? And don't try to tell me it makes 'em healthier. — A.Y.

DEAR A.Y.: In many cases, the effort simply isn't necessary. But there is a reasonably large group, in the case of canines they range from purebred poodles to mysterious mixtures, who may indeed benefit from grooming procedures. An occasional clip job may be injurious because of resulting skin irritation or perhaps later chilling from lack of adequate hair coat. Most benefit, though, from clean skin, de-matted hair, and a decreased propensity to pack in mud. People who care enough about their animals to keep them well-groomed usually care enough to keep them in generally good health — so in these cases, why not?

DEAR DR. MILLER: Big Al is my second boxer. I love boxers. But he's getting the same gum thing that my first one had trouble with. It's where the gums get all thick and lumpy. I'm wondering if it's just a coincidence that Big Al has it too, or do boxers really have this thing more often? — C.F.

DEAR C.F.: This "lumpy gum" syndrome is an overactivity (overgrowth) of the gum tissue itself. The problem, termed gingival hyperplasia, is listed as a hereditary defect, and is indeed more commonly encountered in the boxer breed.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Simone was six months old before I discovered something she really loves. It's my small hand vibrator. I use it all over her body. This cat loves it. My question is, if I use it too long, will it hurt her? She never wants me to stop. — L.N.

DEAR L.N.: If the stimulation were gentle enough, (e as with an occasional gentle stroke of the hand) it could continue for hours should you and Simone be so inclined. With increasing stimulation, the length of time it could be tolerated without the cat becoming hyperexcited and/or irritable would vary greatly among individual cats. As long as Simone is relaxed and enjoying her rubdown, there's no reason not to continue. Just remember her mood could change very quickly, and it would be preferable, possibly prudent even, to put a halt to the preceedings prior to a mood switch.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Caution and prudence are your watchwords today. Rushing into anything blindly breeds failure.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your image is a more precious possession than you may realize today. Don't do anything to cast a shadow on it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In order to make your point, you may be tempted to stretch the truth a bit today. Words, like rubber bands, can snap back.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Expecting more than you are entitled to is a risky approach today. Such an attitude could put a damper on the whole deal.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The unfortunate tendency to see things as you'd like them to be clouds your judgment today.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Moving ahead without the boss's approval could be foolhardy today. Don't act without sanction from higher-ups.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You could fall for the old carrot-dangling-on-the-stick ploy today. Even as you reach for it, you'll know you get nothing for nothing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Being overly anxious to finalize a situation today is unwise. Your haste could make waste instead of gain.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In order to get others to do your bidding today you could promise more than you should. Expediency is no excuse for giving away the store.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Risky financial ventures that usually don't faze you may beckon today. Don't let your judgment be overruled by false hopes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your chances for acquisition today are not as good as you'd like to believe. Those aces you thought you had in the hole could be trumped.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Hunches and insights are usually your strong suit, but not today. Stick with proven facts to be on the safe side.

Computer is a washout

One of my favorite anecdotes on modern technology tells of an American firm that prided itself on sophisticated manufacturing receiving in the mail a small wooden box from a German scientific firm. The box appeared to be empty.

The Americans puzzled over the enigmatic gift for a moment, then got out a powerful microscope and discovered a short piece of wire, so fine it was invisible to the nude eye. A few days later the box arrived back in the German lab, and the Krauts got out THEIR microscope — sure enough, the Americans had sent the wire back.

Down the middle of the strand they had bored a series of holes.

German technology has long been world renowned the world over. The Teutonic technocrats have earned fame with the Luger , the Messerschmidt, buzz bombs, U-boats and thin pieces of wire. The one thing the master race cannot master, however, is the telephone. They have them, of course, with all the latest improvements — busy signals, all-number dialing and teenage frauleins jabbering to each other by the hour.

Some time ago the Germans hitched up a computer to watch over a large dam. It reported every hour on the amount of water, intake, outflow, pressure and other dam statistics. It worked fine. But then they made the mistake of hooking the circuit up to a telephone, so that when anything went wrong, the computer would report immediately to the dam superintendent.

Something DID go wrong, of course, and the computer sent its emergency alarm buzzing to the super. And you know what the computer heard?

A husky female voice said (in German), "I'm sorry, the number you have dialed is an incorrect one. Please consult your telephone directory for the right number, or call information. This is a recording."

The Germans, and consequently the computer, had not figured this one into their electronic calculations. Imagine the puzzlement of the poor computer, oy vey! A computer — now get this, it's important — a computer cannot think for itself. It knows what to do under programmed conditions, but a busy signal was not on its memory bank. So the sophisticated calculator did what any self-respecting computer would do — it dialed again. And again it got Brunnehilde and her baffling message. Meanwhile, the dam crumbled and 11 cities were wiped out, as well as the dam supervisor, Brunnehilde and the computer. The medium was the message.

However, there is a silver lining to this story of the loss of 250,000 lives. It shows us that the telephone is not, as has heretofore been suspected, perfect, and that computers still have a long way to go before they (completely) dominate the world.

There's no cure for MS

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like some help. I am 40 and my doctor told me I have multiple sclerosis and that there is no cure or treatment for it. I have seen two neurosurgeons who agree that this is my problem.

With a wife and four kids you can see why I am upset. Not one of them gave me any help in the line of what to do about it. Is there nothing I can do?

DEAR READER — You can't make realistic plans for your family or for yourself without knowing the truth — even if the truth isn't very pleasant. It is true that there is no treatment for multiple sclerosis (MS) that will really cure it. I am optimistic that medical science will have an answer to multiple sclerosis in the near future.

MS is a disease that affects widespread areas of the nervous system. It can cause trouble with vision and speech as well as paralysis. It can be disabling and fatal. On the positive side many patients with the disease live a long time with minimal, if any, disability. Hopefully you will fall into that group and will live long enough for the entire picture of multiple sclerosis to change.

In one study of MS patients 74 per cent were alive 25 years later compared to 86 per cent of a population of the same age who did not have MS. At the end of 25 years two-thirds of the surviving patients are still ambulatory. Some patients have immediate and even fatal outcomes, others live for years, often with remissions and little, if any, evidence of the disease.

Which will you be? It is difficult to predict because of the nature of the disease to have complete remissions and severe relapses without warning.

While MS is still classified as a disease of unknown cause there is now considerable evidence that it is caused by a "slow virus." There is evidence that the body produces antibodies to the virus. Also there is evidence that some people seem to be resistant to the virus infection and others susceptible. That may explain the differences in geographic distribution of the disease.

If the virus evidence holds up and the virus is identified there is hope that a vaccine can then be found to prevent MS. At present 250,000 Americans have the disease. Also it suggests that there may be new ways of treating the disease. Investigators think an exposed person produces antibodies to the mysterious virus. The MS patient then develops an allergic reaction to the antibodies formed.

Meanwhile the most that can be offered is really supportive care if you should need it. Steroid hormone treatment is sometimes helpful. There have been several diet treatments suggested but none has proved to be really useful and the best dietary approach is a well balanced diet that meets the nutritional needs of the patient. Remember, no matter how bad things are, there are remissions and you have good percentages on your side for your overall outlook for 25 years. A lot can happen in that length of time.

Strokes are the third most common cause of death in all Americans. They can also be crippling and affect a person's personality. What people say

"Attention prostitutes of New York. Are you tired of: Giving all your money to your pimp? Getting beat or abused when you don't make your trap? Living on $5 a day while your man snorts the stack up his nose?"

—From a leaflet being distributed to prostitutes by New York police in an effort to get women to step forward and testify against pimps.

"Americans are boycotting coffee. Don't drink Coca Cola."

—Sign in a restaurant in Salvador, Brazil.

"I expect this trip to provide an opportunity for a frank exchange of viewpoints in many vital areas, including East-West relations, the European Community and the NATO alliance, the Middle East and Cyprus, the world energy situation and various trade and monetary problems."

—Vice-President-elect Walter Mondale, on his upcoming European visit.

10 richest men in the world

Maybe you thought the deaths of J. Paul Getty and Howard Hughes rearranged the list of the world's 10 richest families. They didn't. Can't count the Arabian oil magnates. It's not known how much they're really worth. Otherwise, the 10 richest are said to be: Sassoon of India, Rockfeller of the U.S., Alba of Spain, Rothschild now of Britain, Mitsui of Japan, Berta of Sweden, Cecil of Britain, Wenner-Gren of Sweden, Krupp of Germany, and Matarazzo of Brazil.

Of the 40 vice presidents, Gerald R. Ford was the eighteenth who did not complete his term. Seven vice presidents died in office, two resigned, and nine, including Mr. Ford, as all recall, succeeded to the presidency.

No, I didn't say half of everything in water is alive. What I said was more than half of everything alive is water.

LOVE AND WAR

Q. "Does your Love and War man buy the claim that every woman in the civilized world has her favorite actor?"

A. Almost. There are bound to be exceptions, he says, but when she's young and then carries that old torch secretly throughout her life. Men, on the other hand, are more likely as boys to become intrigued with one actress and then admire another of the same type as they grow older and another of similar sort after that. You're aware of the common contention that the typical husband after a divorce is inclined to take up with a woman whose physical appearance is much like that of his first wife. Must be something to it.

Q. "Where'd we get the phrase 'robbing Peter to pay Paul'?"

A. English clergymen started that one. In 1712. They took the bells from Westminster's Church of St. Peter to hang in the new St. Paul's Cathedral.

Q. "Of all the people who go to the beach every year, how many can swim well enough to go in water over their heads?"

A. One out of eight.

NO WIVES

Was none other than a Smith College dean named Marjorie Hope Nicolson who said, "The fundamental reason that women do not achieve so greatly in the professions as do the men is that women have no wives."

Our Language man would have you know that a taxi is called just that, a taxi, in English, French, German, Spanish and Swedish.

Artist James Whistler claimed he could tell how much money he owed each of his many creditors just by the way each knocked on his door.

Do you realize it was exactly 100 years ago that the first carp was brought into this country's waters from Germany?

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

East's three-club bid got his opponents right to six hearts. You can't really fault South's three-heart overcall and you can't blame North for bidding Blackwood four and five notrump and settling for six when South could not show a king.

South won the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs and studied the hand unhappily. It looked as if the spade finesse would be wrong and that he would have to lose two tricks. Then he saw that he could make the hand if West held five diamonds and the king of spades.

So South drew trumps and led his losing club. East won and led back a spade. South rose with the ace and was now ready for operation squeeze.

He just led out all his trumps. Dummy's last four cards were the queen of spades and king-seven-three of diamonds. On the last trump, poor West had to go down to two diamonds to keep the king of spades; South discarded dummy's queen and made the last three tricks with diamonds.

Ask the Jacobys

A Michigan reader asks how you stop arguments when declarer waits until the end of the hand to claim a hundred honors.

The answer is that if declarer is worried about that, he can claim them any earlier time he chooses to do so. However, a defender is not allowed to claim honors when it may be giving his partner information.

Log-jam in the Pomona courts

In Pomona, Littlefield's chief deputy, Stan Mathieson, said he could use at least three more deputies — one in Superior Court and two in Municipal Court.

But attrition apparently is only part of the problem. The main culprit seems to be a surge in the number of cases set for trial. And for that, the judges blame the district attorney's office.

They also charge the administration in Los Angeles has made a "stepchild" out of the East District.

"We have always felt we have been treated poorly," said Superior Court Judge Howard McClain. "Now that is quite evident."

He said whenever help is needed, Pomona is the last place in the county to get it.

"We used to have three deputy district attorneys assigned to our office," he explained. "Now we have 1¾ths. And a deputy public defender who recently was transferred from here to Long Beach tells me he left 37 cases behind and was given a caseload of seven in his new job. The defender who replaced him in my court has 50 cases."

As a result, delays are common-place. Judge McClain said he counted 15 continuances in one recent case before him.

"This causes great difficulties in trying cases," he explained. "Witnesses disappear, people don't remember that clearly, attorneys get disgusted. It's all very bad for the administration of justice."

Both McClain and Egley said they believed far too many cases which could be settled through negotiations are brought to trial in Pomona, and that adds even more to the jam.

McClain cites the recent murder case of Gregory Thomas, who was found guilty in Pomona of the murder of an elderly Claremont woman and was sentenced to death.

Thomas subsequently obtained a new trial, but the district attorney's office here declined anything less than first-degree murder.

Because of the length of the anticipated trial, the case was transferred to Los Angeles. There, after some plea bargaining, Thomas pleaded nolo contendre (no contest) to second-degree murder and will be sentenced without going through a trial next month.

"Clearly," McClain said, "the policies of settlement must be different in Los Angeles."

Yet Gerald Poirier, head of the district attorney's office in Pomona, denies that. He insists the standards are uniform, as called for by Van de Kamp.

Despite what the judges contend, Poirier — who has been with the local office for a dozen years — insists there have been no significant changes in the approach to trials here since he became head of the Pomona office last fall.

"All we are trying to do is make the prosecution policy uniform throughout the county," he said. "I'm certainly anxious to dispose of cases without a trial. I don't like rolling dice with public funds."

Poirier, who prefers to call negotiations "case settlement policy" rather than plea bargaining because plea bargaining has become a "volatile issue," said he too has noticed a heavy backlog in court cases.

But he blames it on the shortage of deputies. He reported his staff has gone from 24 in the fall to 18 at present. "And we are handling more cases with the short staff than before."

Poirier said his staff was working very hard because "we want to see to it that justice is done."

AMA biggest source of special-interest funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Medical Association's political committees contributed $1.8 million in the last congressional election and were the largest single source of special-interest contributions, according to Common Cause.

Business and corporate trade associations nearly tripled their 1974 donations in 1976, the selfstyled citizen's lobby said.

"Special interest political giving for congressional candidates was truly a growth industry in 1976," said Common Cause vice president Fred Wertheimer, who directed the monitoring project.

"This pattern is bound to continue in the 1978 elections, unless major steps are taken in Congress to reduce the role and the influence of special-interest money," he said.

House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona led all House recipients of such funds with $99,000 from business, professional and agricultural groups. He won re-election handily in what had been expected to be a close race.

Former Indiana Sen. Vance Hartke raised $245,000 from special interests, including $143,000 from labor, according to Common Cause. But Hartke, a Democrat who chaired the Commerce Committee's surface-transportation subcommittee, lost anyway.

Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., chairman of the Labor and Public Welfare Committee, followed Hartke in receipts from interest groups with $244,000, including more than $149,000 from labor groups.

Special-interest groups altogether gave $22,571,912 to candidates for Congress last year, almost double their $12,525,586 of 1974, Common Cause said.

Last year's totals included $11.5 million from business, professional and agricultural sources and $8.2 million from labor groups. Common Cause also listed $1.5 million in contributions from ideological groups and nearly $1.3 million from miscellaneous sources.

"The most dramatic increases were in contributions by corporate and business trade association political committees," Common Cause said. "In 1976 they contributed over $7.1 million to congressional candidates, almost 300 per cent more than the $2.5 million they contributed in 1974."

Contributions from unions increased by about $2 million over 1974.

Following the AMA groups in individual categories were the dairy industry groups, which provided $1.4 million. The AFL-CIO political committees gave approximately $1 million. Committees of maritime-related unions gave $980,000.

Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Tex., was the leading recipient of labor money for a House race with $59,931.

The list of special interest spending was based on reports filed with the Federal Election Commission.

MAID FOR A PRINCE? Prince Charles, 28-year-old heir to the British throne and the world's most eligible bachelor, was given a tip by the London Daily Mirror about where to look for his future queen — among America's blue-blooded heiresses. Among the girls mentioned are, from left, Anne Lindsay, daughter of former New York Mayor John Lindsay; Cele Briscoe, daughter of Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe, and Heather Whitney, daughter of Cornelius Vanderbuilt Whitney.

'Roots' triggered gunman seige

CINCINNATI (AP) — "Roots," the televised epic inspired by a black man's search for his ancestry, triggered Jesse Coulter's rampage, says the lawyer for the 42-year-old man accused of taking eight hostages in an attempt to reunite his family.

"This man sat on this for 20 years, and the dynamite was 'Roots,'" said attorney Eugene Smith.

During the siege that began Friday night at the Catherine Booth home for unwed mothers, Coulter demanded the return of a son born at the home 20 years earlier. The child had been put up for adoption.

Smith said his client, who is black, had been frustrated over the loss for some time.

"Jessie told me when he saw Chicken George (a character in "Roots") get his own family back together, he couldn't help himself," Smith said. "He had to come back to Cincinnati and get the kid."

As it turned out, the effort was in vain. The siege ended when an undercover Cincinnati detective fooled Coulter and his ex-wife Rita Gibran into thinking he was their long-lost son and they surrendered.

Coulter and Mrs. Gibran were arraigned Monday in Criminal Court and their cases were continued until Friday. Bond was set at $1 million each.

The television program was based on a book in which author Alex Haley traced the history of his family from black Africa through the days of slavery in the South. The dramatization concluded 12 days before Coulter came here.

Smith said, after Monday's hearing, that the Utica, Mich., man saw similarities between his life and the serial. "He had seen how families were split up in slavery, and he was bitter about his own family being split up," Smith said.

Smith also said Mrs. Gibran was forced to come to Cincinnati and did not know where she and Coulter were headed. Coulter concurred at the arraignment, but the prosecution argued that Mrs. Gibran had been a willing participant.

Authorities say that when Coulter arrived at the home, he produced a sawed-off shotgun and herded seven women and a man into an X-ray room.

FRED COWAN
Filled with hate

'Angry and alone, he was a timebomb'

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) — There are lace curtains in Freddy Cowan's attic room. And rifles, swastikas and an arsenal of hate.

Freddy hated blacks. He hated Jews. He even hated dogs. He especially hated Freddy Cowan.

"He was a time bomb, angry and alone, and waiting to go off. It was going to happen," said Dennis Jones, a bartender who knew him.

Cowan, a 33-year-old laborer for a moving company, armed himself, draped himself in ammunition, and invaded his company's office. At the end of a 10-hour siege Monday, he had killed five men and himself with a bullet in the brain.

But it might have been predicted: quiet atrocities were going on in his head.

"He was bugged on Adolph Hitler and thought Gen. Rommel was Jesus Christ," said one neighbor. "He used to sign his football pool entry with a swastika."

The army veteran was obsessed with guns, collected and cherished them. He had a small cannon in his bedroom, boasted of the machine gun he bought by mail. He made his own ammunition and sometimes wore black gloves filled with lead.

He once asked a girl in a bar if she were Jewish. She said she was. A witness said Freddy told her: "I'm going to kill you."

He once kicked a Labrador puppy in the head and killed it, "because it was black," the owner said.

Freddy Cowan was ultimately a stranger, alone and without friends. A man who lived quietly with his mother and father in a pallid, green frame house.

Cowan attended Catholic grammar and high schools and was described as a brilliant student. He went to Villanova for one year.

Although he told friends he had been wounded in Vietnam, Army records show he was never sent there during his years of service from 1963 to 1965. He was convicted twice by special courts-martial during that period.

"Nobody really knew him, he was withdrawn," said Eileen Wagner, a longtime family friend.

He could be pleasant, friendly, easygoing. He could be good to kids, played ball with them, showed them his guns and told them war stories.

The 6-foot, 250-pound Cowan was a weightlifter and body builder. He was vain about his body and was envied by the neighborhood kids who watched him lift weights.

But his body was grotesquely covered with tattooes — swastikas and Iron Crosses.

Always neatly dressed and clean cut, Cowan often wore a cowboy hat and sometimes a Nazi uniform. He kept a knife in his boot.

Cowan passed out hate literature in his office cafeteria and in the Galway Bar where he had an occasional beer and was generally liked.

"He hated everyone, blacks, Jews, always talked about a bloodbath and a great takeover," said Roland Lersch, 20, a former neighbor.

"He's always been nuts," said Joe Russo, 18, also a former neighbor.

"Everybody knew what kind of guy he was," said Bill Brady, an acquaintance. "We all knew."

Couldn't make it with the girls

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) — He adored only tall, blue-eyed blondes, according to his best friend, Jim Parks, and they cruised the neighborhood diners together trying to pick them up.

But Frederick Cowan, a 6-foot, 250-pound weightlifting giant of a man, "could never make it with them, he never had a girl friend in the seven years I've known him," Parks said the morning after his 33-year-old friend went on a rampage in a New Rochelle warehouse, killing five people, wounding five others before taking his own life.

It was the frustrations in Cowan's personal life that his friends were speaking of Tuesday as they tried to put together the puzzle of a neighbor apparently gone gun crazy.

They recalled Cowan's inordinate interest in guns and the arsenal of pistols and rifles he kept in his attic room. The big man was so proud of his guns that he often traded neighborhood kids a look at the collection for washing his car.

On summer weekends, the burly man would often sit on the stoop of his parents' home where he lived, regaling the kids with war stories and gun lore.

"A lot of the kids idolized him because of his guns," said a high school youth on his way to school Tuesday. John O'Neill, 14, said he heard Cowan comment to one such gathering that "if you want to be a man, get a gun."

Tommy Gee, 14, liked Cowan and used the weight lifter's .22 at the local rifle range. But other youths interviewed on Tuesday said they didn't like Cowan's attitude.

"He scared us," said one 14-year-old neighbor who didn't want to be identified. "Some kids took to him but the way he talked and the way he bragged, it frightened me."

Jim Parks, who on Tuesday drove Cowan's grieving parents to a funeral home to make burial arrangements, said his big friend was generous and kind to other men, "and would give you his last dollar if he liked you."

However, Cowan had difficulty communicating with women. Parks said, "We used to talk a lot about girls and he wanted them. We would go to pick them up and then Fred couldn't talk with them, he was always withdrawn. He never got to know any real well."

Shy with women, Cowan was more relaxed in the neighborhood Galway Bay Bar where he would display his huge muscles in the mirror and ripple his tatoos, including a swastika.

Cowan would often accompany his muscle-flexing with a tirade against blacks and Jews. "No doubt about that, he was real prejudiced," said his friend Parks, who often went on hunting trips with him.

His neighbors said Tuesday they were not fully aware of the extent of

Train brakes failed— motorman

CHICAGO (AP) — The motorman of an elevated train has told a federal investigator that all brakes failed shortly before his train rammed the rear of another Feb. 4, killing 11 persons.

Stephen Martin, 34, denied Monday night that he was in possession of four marijuana cigarettes that police said they found in his shoulder bag after the downtown rush-hour accident.

Nearly 200 people were injured in the crash of the Chicago Transit Authority trains.

Martin's statements were in a tape-recorded interview conducted by his attorney and witnessed by Gerald Strawser, a National Transportation Safety Board investigator.

Martin said he applied brakes on his train when he saw another train stopped just short of a transit station.

"Nothing happened," he said. "The train didn't stop."

His attorney, Sherwood Levin, asked Martin if he felt the brakes engage.

"No, I don't know," Martin replied. "All I know is the train kept going and I thought it should be stopping."

CTA officials have said the crash was caused by "man failure" and blamed Martin.

The motorman, still recuperating in Northwestern Memorial Hospital from injuries suffered in the crash, said he applied an emergency brake 10 or 15 feet before impact.

Children's clothing fire peril

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The price consumers pay for extra flame-retardance in children's clothes must be weighed against "the cost of the burned children, the cost of making them whole, the cost of their being scarred for the rest of their lives," a state official testified.

Richard Spohn, California consumer affairs director, said Monday there is statistical evidence that children's clothing is causing an alarming number of fire injuries and deaths.

Spohn testified at a hearing before the federal Consumer Product Safety Commission. California has asked the commission for authority to impose strict flammability standards on children's clothing sold within the state.

Clothing manufacturers claim a different standard in California would throw their marketing systems into chaos.

Cowan's prejudice and did not know of the attic trove of Nazi arm bands, swastikas and books on Adolf Hitler's Third Reich.

Parks contributed part of the puzzle of his friend's violent Monday when he told reporters that Cowan had felt he had been unfairly treated when he was suspended for two weeks by a moving and storage company for not moving a refrigerator.

"Fred claimed the fridge was not on the manifest," Parks said, and was angry about it.

Meanwhile, life returned to normal Tuesday in the neighborhod that had been thrown into fear and chaos the previous day. Postman Joe Galleno went on his rounds and stuffed several letters into the Cowan mailbox, including a flyer for a CB radio unit addressed to the slain Fred. Both Cowan's father and brother are postmen, the father now retired.

'A new era of consumerism' under Carter?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer advocates, feeling the Carter administration will open a "a new era of consumerism," are renewing efforts to obtain passage of a series of longstanding proposals, including creation of a federal consumer protection agency.

The consumer movement has gained momentum during the past eight years on Capitol Hill. But the White House under Republican Presidents Richard M. Nixon and Gerald R. Ford generally was unenthusiastic about consumer legislation.

President Carter has promised things will be different in his administration. He told Ralph Nader and six other consumer advocates in a White House meeting that he wants "to have a good relationship with all consumer groups."

"I need your advice. I'll welcome it and I'll use it," the President assured the consumer activists.

Carter also reaffirmed his support for a federal agency to protect consumers. The agency would represent consumers before other federal agencies, where some activists contend the consumer viewpoint often goes underrepresented.

Both houses of Congress passed such a bill in different forms last year. But in the waning days of the last Congress, the effort was dropped because Ford had threatened to veto it.

Nader, who secured Carter's support for the proposed new agency during last year's campaign, said after Monday's meeting that the President's "reaffirmation of his position was very persuasive."

Nader said there is "every indication there will be some very excellent appointments made to regulatory agencies and other agencies that affect consumer and taxpayer rights."

He added that "one possible pitfall" for consumers was whther the administration will move to permanently deregulate gas prices.

Another participant in the meeting, Kathleen O'Reilly of the Consumer Federation of America, said, "We are very hopeful this year, more than we have been in the recent past."

"We feel that Mr. Carter's influence and his concern about consumers will make a difference," she said.

Some key lawmakers share her optimism.

Rep. Frank Annunzio, who chairs a House consumer subcommittee, said, "Congress has made attempts to promote many consumer protection measures in the recent past but almost without exception they were met with opposition by an unsympathetic executive."

Annunzio, a Democrat from Illinois, predicted that with the change in administrations, "a new era of consumerism will be ushered in."

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., who head the committees that will handle the consumer protection agency bill, have predicted the measure will pass this year.

"Support continues to grow," they said in a recent joint statement. "We are firmly committed to legislation which would create an agency to represent consumer interests."

Other proposals that Congress will consider anew include:

—Regulation of bill collectors. This would outlaw such debt collection methods as telephone calls in the middle of the night.

—No-fault auto insurance. This longstanding proposal, which now has administration backing, is aimed at cutting insurance costs by eliminating many suits over who was at fault in automobile accidents.

—Class-action lawsuits. This would overturn recent Supreme Court decisions that have severely limited lawsuits filed on behalf of large numbers of consumers.

—Consumer fraud. This would give the Federal Trade Commission criminal sanctions against bait-and-switch sales tactics and misleading statements on warranties.

—Generic drugs. This would overturn laws in some states that forbid druggists from substituting an identical but cheaper drug for a brand-name drug prescribed by a doctor.

—Charity disclosure. This would require charities that ask the public for donations to reveal how much of their funds actually are spent on the charitable cause.

—Farm bill. Consumer groups want the annual farm bill to contain provisions designed to stabilize food prices. They also want more money for nutrition research.

One likely new consumer issue is electronic payments systems, which allow consumers to automatically transfer funds from their bank accounts to pay bills, without writing checks or handling cash.

Civil liberty groups seek wire-tapping ban on FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposed legislation to limit the Federal Bureau of Investigation to the investigation of crime and to bar it from using wiretaps for any purpose was unveiled Tuesday by three civil liberties organizations.

The proposed bill would also require the FBI to obtain a warrant from a judge before it could use an informant or undercover agent in drug or other investigations.

Details of the measure were announced at a news conference by representatives of the Committee for Public Justice, American Civil Liberties Union and Center for National Security Studies.

Former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, joining them at the meeting with reporters, said the measure should become a model for state and local law enforcement agencies as well.

Clark said it would be "lawless" and unworkable to have the FBI controlled by guidelines set by the attorney general, because the attorney general could alter the guidelines at any time. Former Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi proposed guidelines for FBI conduct.

John Shattuck, director of the Washington office of the ACLU, said the proposals of the three organizations had been presented to Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell and he was "studying the whole question."

Shattuck said the legislation is expected to be introduced in Congress in a few weeks.

He said the late Richard D. Cotter, former chief of the FBI's intelligence research section, was a member of the committee which drafted the bill, although he died before the work was completed.

Some of the bill's provisions parallel the recommendations of a Senate committee which studied intelligence activities last year. That committee, headed by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, did not however recommend anything like the ban on wiretapping.

Shattuck said he expected this to be the most controversial part of the bill.

The bill would do away with FBI clearance of prospective government employes, transferring this function to the Civil Service Commission.

It would prohibit political surveillance and would repeal a number of laws, including the Riot Act and the Seditious Conspiracy Statute, which spokesmen for the organizations said make crimes out of "a broad spectrum of political speech and association."

It would create a post of inspector general to oversee the bureau's investigating procedures and activities. The inspector general would be appointed by the President, subject to Senate confirmation.

It would do away with the Internal Security Branch of the FBI's Intelligence Division, which is responsible for domestic intelligence. The remainining Counterintelligence Branch would be limited to foreign espionage investigations.

Commenting on the proposed ban on wiretapping, the organizations said in a statement that "by the very nature of its technology, electronic surveillance is an invasion of privacy because there is no way of controlling what conversations are listened to."

The bill would prevent FBI agents from using wiretaps to record conversations between, for instance, kidnapers and the parents of kidnaped children. The parents would be free to allow the agents to listen in on the telephone.

LAST MAN — J.B. Todd, left, and Harry Fayonsky are shown during their meeting last August reaching for a bottle of 1937 California Tokay wine. Todd recently died, making Fayonsky the sole survivor of the Walhalla, S.C. "last man club," winner of the bottle. Todd and Fayonsky were the last of the 13 original World War I veterans who formed the club 40 years ago. Todd was 86. Fayonsky, 79, plans to toast all past members.

INTEGRATED COMPANY — Marine Lt. Georgia Jobusch talks to a fellow trainee at the Marine base in Quantico, Va. For the first time newly commissioned female officers are being trained in the field alongside male officers in patrolling, amphibious operations, weapons use and under-fire tactics.

Cost of major, new U.S. weapons takes big jump

WASHINGTON (AP) — The total cost of major new U.S. weapons has registered its highest jump in more than six years, the Pentagon has reported.

The net rise of nearly $18.5 billion between late September and late December was caused mostly by increases in numbers of weapons sought, such as F16 fighter planes, Trident missile-firing submarines and patrol frigates, the Defense Department said.

This brought the total price tag for 45 major weapons systems under development or in production to a record $197.6 billion. Many of the costs will be spread over as many as 10 years.

The late September through late December increase in cost was the biggest since June 1970 when the Pentagon reported a $20 billion rise for 36 different weapons systems.

The cost boost in the last quarter would have been higher except that a number of major programs showed decreases, including a $2 billion cutback by cancelation of plans to build an additional giant nuclear-powered aircraft carrier. Along with the carrier cutback, the Pentagon reported a $862.4 million planned reduction due to a decrease in the numbers of A7E attack planes from 578 to 464 aircraft.

Further program and cost reductions may result from the Carter administration's review of the Ford administration's final defense budget for next year. And some of the plans to increase the number of weapons under certain major programs are tentative and subject to annual review by defense budget officials and Congress, so the numbers could go up or down in the years ahead.

Th biggest single program increase in the last quarter of1976 came in the plans for doubling the number of new F16 air combat fighters. The new objective calls for production of 1,388 F16s by 1982 at a total cost of more than $13.8 billion. The F16 cost estimate rose by $7.5 billion in the last quarter of 1976.

The Pentagon also added $2.5 billion to the cost of a planned fleet of huge Trident submarines armed with long-range missiles. This will send two additional Tridents to sea in the 1980s, each armed with 24 longrange nuclear missiles. The extra two submarines boost the total planned fleet to 13 vessels at an over-all cost of $21.4 billion.

The Pentagon report showed that the Navy's program to build a fleet of new patrol frigates to keep the sealanes open is earmarked for a 50 per cent increase in the number of ships from 50 to 74 at a total cost of $13.7 billion.

Other major Navy increases include $1.8 billion to swell the number of planned F14 fighter planes from 403 to 521 aircraft and an added $1.3 billion for a boost in the number of P3C antisubmarine warfare planes from 234 to 275.

Participating in war games

Women Marines 'hit the beach'

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — A group of female Marine 2nd lieutenants are making history by undergoing field training alongside their male colleagues.

For the first time, a platoon of 22 women officers has been integrated into a regular company for the 21-week field course at Quantico Marine Base.

The course includes patrolling, amphibious operations, use of terrain, defensive and offensive weapons and under-fire tactics, part of which is three days of "war games."

Previously the women underwent an all-female course which excluded major field operations and marksmanship training.

The officers who run the Quantico school don't like to label the course as combat training since federal law prevents women from participating in combat.

"I am not suggesting that we should train our young ladies to lead a rifle platoon across a hostile shore," says Major Gen. P. X. Kelley, director of the Marine Corps Education Center at Quantico.

"But I am suggesting that I do foresee a vital role for them in a combat atmosphere."

Snail's pace too fast for this road project

PONAPE, Caroline Islands (AP) — They've been talking about finishing the road around this island for some time — since the turn of the century as a matter of fact.

The Germans tried first. Then the Japanese. Now American officials are trying to finish a 60-mile road around this rain-soaked island nearly 6,000 miles from the U.S. West Coast. There are 30 miles to go, but this stately pace suits the Ponapean preference for warily tasting change before swallowing.

"The people of Ponape want development, but not in a hurry," says Itor Harris, speaker of the district legislature. "We will be very, very cautious. The people have to understand the need for development, even if it means changing their customs."

Among the critics of the road is the Rev. John Cavanagh of Our Lady of Mercy Church, who says the isolated rural farmers are doing fine in a traditional economy.

"When the road reaches them, the people will hock their lands to buy a Datsun which will last two or three years — and then where will they be?" he asks.

At 129 square miles, Ponape is the second largest of the 2,141 islands the United States has administered as the trust Territory of the Pacific since shortly after World War II. Self-sufficient only in eggs, it imports $6.3 million worth of goods a year while the local economy generates only about $500,000. The United States taxpayers make up the difference.

"I've noticed in the last year or so, along the road, that people seem to be fixing up their places," says Charles Barnard, a 70-year-old engineer fresh out of the Peace Corps who is directing the road project.

"Maybe they would be better off without development. But they have come far enough that they won't be happy with breadfruit anymore."

There are a few modest new buildings in Kolonia, the main town, and open trenches testify to an expanding utility system, but dirt roads and ramshackle establishments give Kolonia the look of a 19th century Dodge City with palm trees.

A few years ago Ponapeans rejected a major hotel development, partly because local businessmen opposed it, but also because the people feared large-scale development.

At about the same time opposition to the road was so strong that there were doubts that it would be built. Now, people along the route are enthusiastic.

"So far, we have not paid for one square foot of right-of-way," says Barnard. "It was all donated by the people." And local people do much of the work.

"They do it — I don't want to say cheap — but practically for groceries, because they want the road," Barnard said.

Completing the road will take five years, Barnard said, and paving is a distant goal. At the moment the road amounts to two rutted tentacles extending from Kolonia on the north side of the island.

That part was easy, Barnard said, because Kolonia is on the relatively dry side of th island, where the rainfall is 200 inches a year. Back in the mountains it may rain 400 inches," and every drop of that runs under my road somewhere."

Roads have been a controversial topic here at least since 1910, when a dispute over forced labor on road projects sparked a bloody rebellion against German authorities. The Japanese, who controlled Ponape between the world wars, tried to circle the island but settled for a rough trail most of the way. Two of the better bridges left by the Japanese are part of the new road.

Figs make a coffee alternate

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) — If the cost of coffee has you looking for a substitute, local gourmets suggest trying a cup of steaming, freshly brewed figs, dandelions or chicory.

Figs, oven-dried and ground, make a fine alternative for coffee boycotters, said Micahel Farano, who does a television cooking show.

"I defy anyone to taste the difference," he said, adding that figs cost only 55 cents a pound.

Farano said chicory also makes a good coffee substitute. Some people use the herb as a coffee extender after drying and roasting, he said.

Loma Yeager, a Wenatchee homemaker, said drying and roasting dandelion roots produces an acceptable mock coffee.

If the thought of waking to a cup of weeds doesn't appeal to you, she has a recipe, taken from an 1894 cookbook, for a potion called "prairie coffee." It's a concoction of cornmeal, molasses, flour, salt and water that is cut into cakes, dried and roasted dark brown.

Youth found guilty in murder case

The jury of seven men and five women found Garland Danny Campbell guilty of killing Dr. Richard Kuhn last July 24 in the doctor's saucer-shaped home. Last Jan. 13, another Superior Court jury convicted 20-year-old Alfred Tolliver of first-degree murder in connection with the Kuhn case.

Judge Philip Newman ordered Campbell back to court March 7 for sentencing. Tolliver is to appear before Newman four days earlier for sentencing.

Coffee: the story behind price hikes, shortages

Editor's Note: Why does coffee cost so much? Is there or isn't there a shortage? Here is a look at what has happened since a 1975 frost in Brazil touched off a surge in prices.

By DAVID C. MARTIN and TERRY KIRKPATRICK
Associated Press Writers

The coffee surplus of yesterday is gone. There is enough to meet the demand today, but not enough to quiet the fear of shortage tomorrow.

The fear is very real, and that is why coffee prices in American grocery stores have more than doubled in the past 18 months.

The well-publicized frost of July 1975, in Brazil, the largest grower, reduced the world coffee surplus to the point where another such disruption could cause an absolute shortage.

The results:

—Producing countries, taking advantage of the possibility of shortage, raised their prices sharply, dramatically increasing their revenues.

—Many U.S. coffee companies, willing to pay the higher prices and immediately passing them along, made a quick killing on the coffee they already held, but later absorbed some of the rising price.

—Coffee drinkers, refusing to quit buying, saw the retail price rise from an average $1.27 a pound before the frost to over $3 in some places today.

All this, and yet coffee was still available.

The 1975 frost cut production sharply in Brazil, but left enough green coffee beans on trees and in stockpiles to meet demand. Since the frost their price has more than tripled, from about 60 cents to $2.30 a pound.

In the current marketing year, the Foreign Agricultural Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that there will be 45.5 million bags, just over 6 billion pounds, available for export. (A bag holds 132 pounds.)

World demand is expected to be about 50 million bags. The difference can be made up from Brazil's stockpile of about 25 million bags late last year.

By dipping into the stockpile, Brazil actually exported more coffee in 1976 than in 1975 — 15.6 million bags last year, compared to 14.6 million a year earlier.

It should have been no surprise that Brazil and other producing countries would try to get as much money for this coffee as they could. Needing coffee revenues to buy oil for industrial development, they had tried for years to raise prices by withholding coffee from the market.

In July 1974, a year before the frost, Peru and Angola stopped selling to other countries, claiming prices were too low.

In August, exporters in Colombia — the second-biggest producer — left the world market because of a projected decline in coffee earnings.

In September, 18 producers accounting for more than 80 per cent of world exports formally agreed to withhold about 16 million bags of coffee from market.

In October, Brazil decided to withhold 3.6 million bags from its harvest.

In November, the president of Venezuela told coffee-producing nations they should operate in the same way as the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries — OPEC — of which Venezuela is also a member.

Nothing worked. There was too much coffee available.

By February 1975, coffee's price actually had declined 20 per cent from 1974; by early July, prices for green, unroasted beans were about 60 cents a pound.

Then nature stepped in.

On July 17, 1975, a freezing wind swept up from Antarctica and brought frost to Brazil's major coffee-producing states. The Brazilians say the crop was cut to 5 million to 6.5 million bags — a drop of 70 to 80 per cent from the prefrost year harvest of 23 million bags.

(The Foreign Agriculture Service estimates the 1976 harvest at 9.5 million bags, a drop of about 60 per cent.)

Overnight, the Brazilian frost jolted the world coffee market from surplus to scarcity. But reduced supply was not the same as absolute shortage.

Brazil had already completed harvesting the coffee that would be sold in 1975 and also had its stockpiles of about 25 million bags to draw on during the three years needed for newly planted coffee trees to start bearing beans.

The Foreign Agricultural Service estimates world production for the 1976-77 marketing year at 62.7 million bags, down 15 per cent from the previous crop of 73.5 million bags. (Production figures include coffee consumed in the growing countries; export figures do not.)

The fear of shortage took hold, however.

Producing countries immediately withheld their coffee from the market until they could gauge the frost's impact; Brazil did not resume exports until Aug. 1.

Speculators, gambling that the possibility of a shortage would drive up prices, started buying available coffee.

U.S. roasters, accustomed to plenty of coffee at low prices, had let their inventories dwindle to near-record lows. They moved to build up their stocks, boosting the demand for beans.

When they sold the coffee they had on hand, they charged higher prices that reflected the higher price they were paying to replace inventories.

In two days of trading on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange just after the news of the frost, the price of a pound of coffee jumped from 27 to 84 cents; within a week, the price of green coffee beans from Colombia stood at a record $1.01 a pound.

The situation was aggravated by reports — later confirmed — that civil war in Angola would cut that country's harvest in half and that heavy rains in Colombia would result in a 10 per cent loss in production there.

Industry observers attribute the overreaction to several things.

Brazilian and Colombian beans are of the high quality necessary to maintain the blends to which American coffee drinkers are accustomed.

In 1975, beans from Brazil accounted for just under 20 per cent of all U.S. coffee imports. Beans from other countries often cannot be substituted without changing the flavor.

The two largest roasters and acknowledged price leaders — General Foods, which makes Maxwell House, and Procter & Gamble, which makes Folger coffee — depend heavily on Brazil for supplies. Folger, for instance, is a blend of coffees grown in highland areas and the highland areas of Brazil were hardest hit by the frost.

The American companies bid up the price of green coffee as they shored up inventories, boosting stockpiles in the United States from 2.7 million bags in July 1975 to nearly 4 million in October.

By March 1976 — eight months after the frost — the world price of green coffee stood at $1 a pound — 40 cents higher than before the frost. Roasters eased up on buying, anticipating a consumption drop.

And some experts predicted an end to the spiral.

"The price of green coffee has leveled out in recent weeks," said Julius Katz, assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, in testimony to a House subcommittee early last year. "Barring some new event, there is no particular reason why it ought to go higher."

Since then, the price of beans has more than doubled.

"I don't know altogether what's caused it to go higher," said Katz.

A spokesman for Folger's agrees. "We can see no good reason why green coffee prices should be so high."

One factor may be the higher taxes imposed by producing countries. Brazil boosted the export tax on a 132-pound bag of coffee from $21 before the frost to over $100 today. "What the government will do is go on pushing up the (tax) and thus gradually increase prices until demand slackens," said Benjamin Belinky, president of the Brazilian association for the instant coffee industry.

But thus far, contrary to expectations, coffee consumption has not dropped substantially. A New York research firm, Selling Area Marketing Inc., estimated U.S. retail sales of regular coffee in 1976 at 1.08 billion pounds, a drop of only one-tenth of a per cent from 1975. The value of the coffee rose 44 per cent in the same period.

Nationwide sales figures for recent weeks, when there have been growing calls for a coffee boycott, are not available. But there are indications that some people are buying less — either because they are drinking what they hoarded earlier or drinking less.

For instance, coffee sales at Tradewell food stores in Washington, Oregon and California fell 40 per cent in the first weeks of January. The company started urging a boycott at the first of the month.

"That is not a normal decline for this time of the year," said Peter O'Neal, supervisor of the Tradewell stores in Oregon. "Coffee sales are usually higher because of the cold weather."

Governor says

Too many people spoil Hawaii island paradise

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii's island paradise is being spoiled by too many people, says Gov. George Ariyoshi, so he is urging passage of a constitutional amendment to stem the tide of new residents.

"The program I am proposing will put this state in direct confrontation with the present laws of this land and possibly even the Constitution of the United States," Ariyoshi said.

"Hawaii is a national treasure, but it is a very fragile treasure, one which can be easily destroyed by overpopulation and excessive demands on its resources," he told a joint legislative session. "In short, too many people can spell disaster for this state."

The Democratic governor, himself the son of immigrants from Japan, blamed rapid population growth for the state's problems of high unemployment, disappearing open space and rising crime.

Since Hawaii achieved statehood in 1959, its population has grown from 622,100 to 864,900 in 1975 — a rate nearly double the national average.

Federal action would be required to slow the flow to the island from both the continental United States and from foreign nations, he said.

"Since the federal government controls immigration, it should provide special aid to areas like Hawaii with high concentrations of immigrants," Ariyoshi said.

He also called for legislation to channel more immigrants from foreign countries to other states.

To curb immigration from the other 49 states, however, Ariyoshi proposed a Constitutional amendment to permit states to set residency requirements for welfare, public employment and housing.

In a New York case in 1971, the U.S. Supreme Court overturned state residency requirements for welfare. States may not restrict free travel without a compelling state interest, the court ruled, and residency rules tend to restrict interstate travel.

Aliens comprise about 8 per cent of the state's population — the highest of any state and four times the national average. The majority are from Asia and Pacific basin nations.

The rapid growth has been accompanied by a proliferation of high-rise development in Honolulu, turning a tranquil port city geared to serving a rural economy into a congested urban area dependent on tourism.

Hawaii's current unemployment rate is 8.5 per cent. The latest report from the Hawaii Criminal Justice Statistical Center shows a 6.8 per cent increase in violent crimes.

"For years now, we have been standing helplessly on the sidelines whenever the question of immigration from the rest of the United States or immigration from the rest of the world has been mentioned," said Ariyoshi. "We are going to stand on the sidelines no longer."

Just dump transcript on floor

SAN DIEGO (AP)— Superior Court Judge Robert W. Conyers says it might be a good idea to simply dump the transcript of an indictment against banker C. Arnholt Smith on the courtroom floor and let everybody scramble for it.

The other alternative is handling motions for disclosure "piecemeal over a period of months," the judge indicated.

Conyers started hearing arguments Monday on motions asking that the 2,380 pages of grand jury transcript be opened to the public.

"It might be better to just take them (transcript volumes) and dump them on the floor of the courtroom and say have it it," Conyers observed.

Smith's United States National Bank was declared insolvent in 1973, leading to both federal and state charges against the financier. Smith and business associate Philip Toft are charged with grand theft and other violations in the indictment returned in late 1975.

New concept in mass education

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — A group of U.S. community colleges is courting adult minds with a portable video tape machine that can do the job of eight teachers.

An attendant drives the $20,000 device to any building equipped with a special television set for each class. Hooked up, it can deliver up to eight hour-long lessons chosen from as many as 60 lessons recorded on the single tape.

The unusually large number of lessons can be grouped on the conventional one-inch magnetic tape because still pictures, not moving ones, accompany the voice recording.

Initial lessons for the teaching system include health sciences, child care, consumer problems, introduction to business, world cultures and mathematics. Teaching centers could be set up in schools, libraries, firehouses or other public places.

Dr. Peter C. Goldmark, who also invented the long-playing record, said his Rapid Transmission and Store — RTS — system has two revolutionary implications.

First, because it should pay for itself through small tuition charges, it could have great impact on mass education.

Properly tailored by experts in the various fields of knowledge, it eventually could stir today's poorly informed public to demand government action on crucial, unsolved problems such as crime and energy shortages, he said.

Sweden's recent rejection of Socialist government was preceded by nationwide, adult study group programs, he said.

"They were primarily the force behind the change in government," he said.

Secondly, over a longer range, the teaching system could help to revitalize rural areas and play a role in reversing urban congestion that has caused many of today's social ills, he said.

"There exists a communications paradox where in densely populated metropolitan areas people live so tightly packed that they cannot communicate. They are gripped by fear, suspicion and desperation," he said.

North Carolina's community college system is the first to put the RTS to work. Lesson material is being prepared for use at 10 study centers in the Charlotte area, according to project director William A. McIntosh of Central Piedmont Community College.

The lessons later will be made available on specially adapted home TV sets. RTS may eventually be extended to 57 institutions in North Carolina's community college system, he said.

Goldmark, 70, was a top CBS scientist until 1971, when he founded his own communications company in Stamford. It will produce the RTS and a related $300 device to adapt home TV sets if the system catches on.

A newly created subsidiary of Goldmark Communications is working with educators from six community college systems and the Dartmouth medical school to create and tape the lessons.

The medical school is helping to prepare a layman's course on medical care.

Goldmark said a public with better medical training probably could care for about half of its ailments without outside help.

More complicated medical problems could be diagnosed over the phone by trained medical technicians. Thus physicians would have more time to handle the most complicated cases, he said.

Other community colleges joining in the initial RTS program are in Chicago and Glen Ellyn, Ill.; Costa Mesa, Calif.; Eugene, Ore., and Kansas City.

Goldmark also has directed a study, federally funded through Fairfield University, that examined ways of improving the quality of life in rural areas.

The theory is that, by making rural life more interesting and by reducing the gap between the city and country through innovative communications, many individuals and businesses would relocate in less populated areas.

As a result of experiments, a system of stereophonic, two - way voice communications was developed for conferences between two distant points.

The Union Trust Co., a large Connecticut bank, found the conference hookup cost half as much as the travel and lost time required to get executives from separate offices together in one place.

The study, called the New Rural Society Project, also developed a way for businesses or government agencies to analyze their travel and communications needs and determine whether it would be practical to relocate in cheaper quarters outside the city.

In the long run, Goldmark would like the federal government to adopt guidelines for use of the land and distribution of the nation's residents.

Although legislation on these topics has been rejected by Congress, he hopes a better educated public would force action on the issue.

Court rulings jolt KKK's legal ledge

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan have been jolted by one surprise after another in their unaccustomed pursuit of free speech, due process, equal protection under the law.

First, in an unprecedented action, U.S. Dist. Judge E. Gordon West, acting on his own last April 26, simply dismissed a Klan suit over those constitutional issues.

That came as a shock to Imperial Wizard David Duke of New Orleans.

Duke had felt that his suit involved issues so clean, so pure, that even people who view the Klan with alarm would have to agree the Klan was right this time.

The second surprise came after the Klan appealed the dismissal to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Instead of backing Judge West's instant solution, the Department of Justice filed a brief which said the dismissal was unprecedented and confidently asked the 5th circuit to order the judge to hold a full hearing on the issues — contending that government interest will triumph over the right of free speech or anything else.

"I don't understand it," Duke said.

"Our fight is with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and HEW was negotiating with our lawyer. They wanted to settle out of court. Then some black lawyer accuses HEW of a 'civil rights sellout' and, boy, that kills it."

Duke said HEW apparently had backed down and passed the hot potato to the Department of Justice.

It all started when Duke's Klan, one of some 30 secretive, separate, jealous Klan groups around the country, applied to the East Baton Rouge Parish School Board for permission to rent the Belaire High School gymnasium for a meeting on the night of Nov. 22, 1975.

The request put the board in a bind.

Despite disclaimers that it is peaceful and law abiding, the Klan has a lingering bloody terrorist image due to KKK operations in the past. It is outspokenly racist.

However, board policy was to rent the gym to community groups for $40 plus incidentals on a first-come, first-served basis. Black groups, like the National Association for the Advance of Colored People, were welcome. After some wavering, the Klan application was granted.

HEW then leaped in with an unusual ultimatum.

John A. Bell of Dallas, civil rights chief at HEW's branch office, warned the school board that if it let the Klan use school facilities, HEW would cut off $7 million in federal financial assistance.

On Feb. 19, 1976, the board adopted a new policy. It forbade use of school facilities by organizations that discriminate in their membership, or that "advocate the deprivation of any constitutional or lawful rights of any person due to race, color, creed, sex, religious or political preference ..."

The incident put HEW into a difficult legal and political position.

Duke said HEW approached his lawyer on the possibility of a compromise — a new HEW policy covering the issue, with the Klan to drop its suit.

HEW's proposal, he said, was that, "federal funds would not be withheld from a local school board, even if it permits the use of public school facilities by groups or organizations which hold or espouse racially discriminatory views, so long as the organization does not bar anyone from those meetings on the basis of race, color or national origin."

Lawrence R. Anderson Jr., the Klan's lawyer, acknowledged that HEW put out feelers for an out-of-court agreement. He declined to give details, saying it might cause complications for him later.

"They may still want to settle out of court," he said.

Anderson said the Klan will not buy the government's plea for a full trial of the constitutional issues.

"They are raising new issues now," he said. "They want to argue that we can obliterate the First Amendment with some federal regulation."

Instead, the Klan contends another hearing by Judge West is unnecessary, that the 5th Circuit should instead simply reverse him and declare that the new school board policy adopted to bar the Klan is unconstitutional.

America's chicken game ruffles British feathers

LONDON (AP) — An American game in which the player matches wits with a chicken to play tic-tac-toe has ruffled the feathers of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

"We are totally opposed to this kind of thing," said David Leutchford, an executive of the society. "Our society's policy is to fight the exploitation of animals."

The tabloid Daily Mirror said the game was invented by Jack Gordon, a Nevada game manufacturer, and has been added to the selection at Lord Kitchener's, a trendy London bazaar off Piccadilly Circus.

The game works like this: the human player puts 20 pence (34 cents) in a slot machine. The chicken, standing on wire mesh in a small cage, responds to flashing lights by pecking at them.

Each peck lights up either an "X" or an "O" on the scoreboard and the chicken is rewarded with grain for each peck. The human responds with an "X" or an "0," trying to beat the bird by being the first to get three "Xs" or "Os" in a row.

"We find the chicken normally wins," said a member of the staff. "But even if the human wins, he does not get his 20 pence returned. The point of the game is simply the contest with the bird."

Gordon told the Daily Mirror that the birds are trained in Hollywood, Fla., and that the game is played in the United States.

He said the chicken "is not mistreated and enjoys what it is doing. You can see that because it still lays eggs. It will live for five years and is better off than most chickens. They end up in the freezer."

Gordon says he has devised other animal games in which ducks play the piano and rabbits take photographs. The Daily Mirror said the chicken game retails for $4,000.

Good use found for forms

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Officials in the Twin Cities have found a use for all the paper produced by government.

Administrative assistant John Waldron says 7,000 city employes in Minneapolis and St. Paul dump their paper into special desk-top trays which are dumped into cartons in the basement. When three or four tons accumulate, the paper is picked up by the Hoerner Waldorf Corp., a St. Paul company which recycles the bureaucratic red tape as cartons and corrugated containers.

The paper company pays $50 per ton. A spokesman said care is taken that the paper is not left lying around for people to read. It goes "right into the mill," he said.

Ganesha wins crown

Ganesha High has reclaimed the San Antonio League basketball title.

Tuesday's results

Ganesha 79, Montclair 70
Pomona 64, Claremont 62
Chino 63, Upland 62 (2 OT)

Friday's games
Ganesha at Chino, 8 p.m.
Claremont at Damien, 8 p.m.
Garey at Montclair, 8 p.m.
Pomona at Upland, 8 p.m.

The Giants' 79-70 lackadaisical victory over Montclair Tuesday afternoon was just icing on the cake. Ganesha's best friend turned out to be arch-rival Garey, who knocked off Damien 67-62 Tuesday, thus giving the Giants the undisputed SAL cage crown.

Once again it was a case of the Giants building a comfortable lead over a weaker team, and then just gliding through the remainder of the game.

Ganesha rolled up a 36-31 halftime advantage, built the lead to 21 early in the third period, and then relaxed just enough to allow Montclair to pull within seven (at 60-53) with 3:55 remaining in the contest.

This is the first SAL title since 1974 for coach Gary Fulkerson, after his Giants spent the 1975 and 1976 seasons playing second fiddle to Mike Wells' Garey club.

If you remember, that 1974 squad was led by such super talents as Cleve Porter (USC), Broderick Hunter (Cal Poly) and Ralph Dudley (Whittier).

Fulkerson's 1977 team may not have that kind of talent, but the Giants haven't gone without some fine individual play. Junior forward James Verdon has been the "Man" for Ganesha this year, averaging over 18 points per game. The 6-3 smooth operator put in 19 Tuesday, pulled down 10 rebounds and passed off for seven assists.

Guards Steve Polee (sr.) and James Dowe (jr.) have done a commendable job in holding together a somewhat erratic starting five. Polee potted 10 points, while the rapidly improving Dowe canned 22 and wound up with a game-high eight assists.

Despite shooting only 41 per cent (38-91), the Giants proved their worth in the rebound and assist departments, racking up 56 and 26, respectivley.

Fulkerson will wind up the SAL schedule on Friday night when he'll take his 12-2 Giants to Chino to face Bobby Elder's gutty (6-7) Cowboy squad. It was Chino who gave the Giants their biggest boost of the year when the 'Boys upset then-undefeated Damien 54-52 two weeks ago.

Tuesday's outstanding performer was Montclair center, Bruce LaValee, who scored a very hard-earned 22 points, picked up 12 rebounds and was credited with six assists.

TOUGH BUSINESS

Damien High's Simon Bleeker (50) finds it a little tough under the basket Tuesday as Garey's Devi Parks (42) and Robert Nowden (23) try to prevent a Spartan basket. Garey enjoyed a 67-62 victory.

Etchebarren likes new role

ANDY ETCHEBARREN is looking forward to his new role as a player-coach with the Angels.

The 33-year-old catcher realizes he isn't able any longer to get behind the plate every day so it's time to start thinking about his career after his playing days.

Etchebarren wants to stay in baseball.

And the writers and fans hope he does.

The popular Hacienda Heights resident will receive the Angels' Good Guy Award on Sunday, April 3, at the annual dinner put on by the Los Angeles-Anaheim Chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

"I'm happy about the opportunity to coach and still play," Etchebarren said about being appointed to Manager Norm Sherry's staff.

"I am really excited about it," he continued. "I found out last year that I can't catch 125 or 130 games a season any more. I caught 65 of our first 85 games and I got tired. I know now I can't catch that many."

He ended up playing in 103 games, the most since he appeared in 112 games with Baltimore in 1967.

"I would like to play in about 50 or 70 games this season," Etchebarren said about his plans for 1977. "I don't want to quit playing yet but I don't want to play as much. Being a coach works out nice both ways for me."

What will his duties be under Sherry, a former catcher himself?

Out in bullpen

"I WILL BE OUT IN THE BULLPEN working with the pitchers," he said.

How does the catching look for 1977 at Anaheim Stadium?

"We will go with (Terry) Humphrey, myself and a third player to be determined. We will be taking a good look at several prospects during spring training," he answered.

Baseball experts are predicting big things for the Halos with the arrival of free agents Joe Rudi, Don Baylor and Bobby Grich.

But Etchebarren warns Angel fans not to celebrate prematurely.

"I'm excited about our chances but just because we have good personnel, it doesn't mean much unless we have good years," he explained. "We're a lot more capable of having good years because of the better personnel."

Etchebarren likes having the three new players but he actually figures the Angels have four.

"I am also counting Bobby Bonds," he said. "He was hurt all last year after the Freeway Series against the Dodgers and wasn't himself. So we have four new superstars."

Etchebarren, who caught every inning for the Orioles in their four-game sweep over the Dodgers in the 1966 World Series, will be reunited with former Baltimore teammate Mike Cuellar this spring.

Cuellar picked up

THE 39-YEAR-OLD CUELLAR was picked up by the Angels after he was released by the Orioles last fall after a 4-13 record (4.96 ERA).

"Cuellar can help us if he can throw strikes," Etchebarren said. "He is the type of pitcher who must be ahead of the hitters to be effective. His key is getting the hitters to go after bad pitches. If he can't throw strikes, he is in trouble."

Etchebarren has been busy touring Orange County industries promoting the team and he is pleased with the response.

"Right now, I'll predict we will draw 1.5 million this year and if we win, it will be better than that," he said.

Tickets for the dinner are priced at $25 and are available at the baseball writers' office at Suite 1352, Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles 90013 or by calling (213) 626-7678.

It will be held at the new Los Angeles Bonaventure Hotel following the final Freeway Series game between the Dodgers and Angels.

Tape 'erases' Vachon's goal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — No goaltender in the 60-year history of the National Hockey League ever has scored a goal—thanks to the magic of videotape.

"If it wasn't for the tape, it would have been Rogie's goal," Marcel Dionne moaned after Los Angeles Kings netminder Rogatien Vachon was credited—for only a little while—with a bit of history.

That the Kings beat the New York Islanders 3-0 Tuesday night with Vachon chalking up his fourth shutout of the season and 37th of his career was quite enough for the Kings' goalie, but still ...

At 16:27 of the first period, Dionne scored his 35th goal of the season during a scramble in front of Islanders' netminder Glenn Resch. It turned out to be the only goal Vachon and the Kings needed.

Then about a minute later, referee Andy Van Hellemond whistled a penalty against Burt Wilson of the Kings. But the Islanders had the puck, so it was a delayed penalty.

Into the Kings' end of the ice they went. Off the ice went Resch, in favor of a sixth attacker since play would not stop until a Los Angeles player touched the puck.

It never happened. Instead, New York's Bryan Trottier tried to pass the puck to Denis Potvin—but instead it went 190 feet into the unguarded goal, at 17:47. "I felt silly and stupid," Trottier said later.

The 10,256 fans went wild— and the din increased when it was announced that Vachon, who seemingly had been the last member of the Kings to touch the puck, was credited with the goal.

The fans left the Forum never knowing it later was taken away by NHL scorer John Bealy. He gave it to Vic Venasky, the last Kings player to really touch it. Venasky, who also scored the final goal in the third period, and the rest of the Kings did not find out until the game was over.

"I felt I had to make the change because every time I looked at the replay it came out the same way—Venasky touching the puck last," Bealy explained. "That's my job, to give credit to the right scorer. And that's what I did."

"I was really surprised I was given credit for the goal," said Vachon. "I guess it was a short moment of glory—but I'll take the win and the shutout anytime."

When the goal was scored, Dionne skated the length of the ice and gave Vachon the puck. "I guess I'm going to have to eat the puck now," the goalie said with a grin.

Resch said he felt "Rogie would want it completely legitimately, 'cause a goal like that, scored by a goaltender, would be heard around the world and the goalie who scored it would want to deserve it.

"As I was skating off I saw the puck heading for the goal, but I just couldn't get there," Resch recalled. "Everybody in the place was in suspense. We held our breath and we were in a state of shock. It was a helpless feeling ... I was too flabbergasted to do anything. I guess I was mesmerized by the puck."

USF rolls over Lions

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — University of San Francisco Coach Bob Gaillard said rather somberly, "I think our winning streak really has a chance to end after what we did tonight, sew up the league championship. I think the timing is very good for us not to play our best."

Gaillard, referring to his top-ranked Dons' upcoming game against Pepperdine Saturday night, had said basically the same thing going into Tuesday's contest against Loyola.

But undefeated USF hardly worked up a sweat against the Lions, rolling to a 104-65 victory.

Although Gaillard seemed somewhat pessimistic after the Dons had wrapped up the West Coast Athletic Conference title with the triumph, Lions Coach Dave Benaderat had nothing but superlatives for USF.

"They're awesome inside, they're awesome outside. They're awesome," said Benaderat, whose Lions lost a 99-63 dcision to the Lions last month.

"I've been saying that this San Francisco team is not as good as the USF team in the 1950s...but I'm not sure that's totally true."

San Francisco, now 11-0 in the WCAC and 26-0 in all games, earned a berth in the NCAA Far West prelims by virtue of the conference chamionship, and will face a wild card in Tucson, Ariz., on March 12.

"The first one's done," said Gaillard, "and now we go to Tucson."

Bill Cartwright, the Dons' bullish 7-foot, 245-pound center, completely dominated the middle in the easy victory over the Lions. He hit all eight of his floor shots in the first half, scoring 18 points as USF moved to a 48-30 lead at halftime.

Cartwright, a sophomore with agility plus size, finished 11 of 12 from the floor and had 24 points. His Dons' teammate, James Hardy, also missed just one field goal attempt, connecting on seven of eight and scoring 21 points.

The 6-foot-8 Hardy also had a game-high 12 rebounds.

Lakers sign Cornell Warner

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Lakers have signed free agent Cornell Warner to replace the injured Kermit Washington, a team spokesman said.

A six-year National Basketball Association veteran, Warner was waived by the Lakers last Nov. 2, the spokesman said Tuesday. The 28-year-old, 6-foot-9 forward appeared in three games this season after playing in 81 games for Los Angeles last season, when he averaged nine rebounds and eight points a game.

Washington tore a tendon in his knee last week and will be lost for the season.

Garey keeps hopes alive

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

Garey High enhanced its hopes for a CIF basketball playoff berth with a big win at home Tuesday afternoon.

The Vikings toppled Damien, 67-62, thereby trailing the second-place Spartans by just one game with one playing date to go.

If Garey can get by Montclair Friday night and if Claremont should upset Damien, the Vikes and Spartans would finish the San Antonio League season in a second-place tie.

At any rate, Garey (9-4 in SAL play, 15-8 overall) eliminated any possibility of having to share third place with its win Tuesday afternoon.

"I just hope we get to go to the playoffs," said Mike Wells, coach of the Vikings. "I think if we get to go we'll do pretty well."

The Vikings played well enough Tuesday to take the lead over the Spartans just two minutes into the game and never again trailed. Garey built its lead to as much as 16 points late in the third period and managed to withstand Damien's 22-point fourth quarter.

Garey made good use of a zone defense, a relative newcomer to the Vikings' reportoire.

"I have to admit I'm not too comfortable with the zone," said Wells, who is accustomed to playing man-to-man defense. "We used it for the first time against Ganesha last week, and I thought it worked pretty well.

"Simon Tolbert (Garey's junior varsity basketball coach) suggested I try it. I've always coached man-to-man defense but we have sort of a zone-type team. We're big underneath and we're fast but not real fast.

"A lot of times with a man-to-man setup Herbi Banks has to go outside to guard somebody and we lose his rebounding."

The Vikings had little trouble in that department Tuesday, with 41 rebounds to Damien's 33.

Garey's best boardwork came from an unexpected source: guard Kenneth Ottrix grabbed 10 rebounds to lead the squad.

The game's leading rebounder, leading scorer and leading head-turner was Damien's Bill Duffy, who contributed 26 points and 14 rebounds to the losing cause.

But four Vikings scored in double figures while Dan Marconi (12) was the only other Spartan with more than seven points.

Center James Lofton led Garey with 19 points, Banks and Ottrix each had 12 and Craig Snyder added 10.

Marconi was the game's most accurate shooter by far. He hit six of seven shots, all from the top of the key or thereabouts. Duffy made 10 of 18 field goal attempts and all six of his free throws.

As a team, the Spartans shot 45 per cent (24 of 53) to Garey's 43 per cent (27 of 63).

The game was last tied at 21 but Garey scored the next eight points.

The Vikings held a 35-27 halftime lead and hit five of their first six shots in the second half to make it 45-31.

Garey's biggest lead was 50-34 but Damien cut it to 50-40 with one period to play. However, the final five-point margin was the smallest of the fourth quarter.

Damien (10-3, 13-9) can finish alone in second place by beating Claremont in the Spartan gym Friday night. Garey will visit Montclair.

Poly grid staff signs 10 players

By BILL LANGLEY

Cal Poly Pomona's football recruiting efforts paid off in a big way this morning as 10 gridders signed national letters-of-intent to play at Poly this morning on the first day colleges may sign recruits.

New head coach Jim Jones signed three All-CIF 4A selections and four players from last year's 4A title game between champion Los Altos and runner-up Fontana.

Topping the list is Los Altos tackle Larry Ravera (6-4, 210), an All-CIF first team selection. Earning CIF second team recognition were Fontana defensive back Ron Carter (6-1, 180) and Los Altos linebacker Jim Wilson (6-0, 200). Carter ranks third on the all-time CIF career list for interceptions with 21 in his threeyear career.

Jones also signed three All-Sierra League selections from the South Hills team he coached last season. They are offensive guard Don Drake (younger brother of Poly assistant coach Billie Drake) (6-3 ½, 205), running back Ken Penner (6-2, 195) and running back Barry McManus (6-1, 190).

All-Citrus Belt League selection Rodney McMillan of Fontana was also signed. He is a 5-foot-11, 180 pound defensive back.

Tackle Leonard Alkire (6-4, 240) of Redlands High will also be attending Poly. He was an honorable mention choice on the All-Citrus Belt League team.

Jones also signed two junior college players in linebackers Vic Monez of Rio Hondo and Jay Fleming of Cerritos.

Mounties' Mays wins cage honor

Earner Mays, Mt. San Antonio College's 6-foot-6 freshman forward, was selected as the valley's college Player of the Week Tuesday at the weekly Progress Bulletin basketball luncheon at the Castaway Restaurant in Pomona.

Mays registered 48 points and pulled down 22 rebounds last week as MSAC dropped two narrow decisions in South Coast Conference cage action.

Mays prepped at Emerson High in Gary, Ind.

No letdown for Massengale

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rik Massengale anticipates no letdown in the wake of his runaway, record-setting, six-stroke victory last week in the Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

"It's kind of funny," Massengale said before a practice round over the 7,029-yard, par-71 Riviera Country Club course, site of the $200,000 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open that gets underway Thursday.

"I was so far out in front all the time I never really felt any pressure last week," said the soft-spoken Massengale who led throughout the 90-hole event, had a minimum margin of three strokes and eventually broke Arnold Palmer's 17-year-old tournament scoring record.

"It wasn't like when I won at Hartford and Tallahassee. There it was close all the time—tied or one stroke out in front and you're really grinding. After that, I had a letdown, which you can kind of expect.

"This time I never really got up tight. I was never really fighting it. I never really got high enough to have a let-down from."

That attitude, and his near-incredible play of last week— only four bogeys in 90 holes— made the 30-year-old Texan a a prime candidate for the $40,000 first prize in a tournament he had planned to skip.

The victory put him in position to claim a spot in the rich World Series of Golf this fall. That statistical occurance prompted Massengale to change his mind and attempt to defend his position in the Los Angeles Open, the last event that counts on the Winter Tour standings.

The 147-man field is formidable, but Bruce Lietzke is among the missing. The winner of two titles this year, runnerup to Massengale last week and the season's leading money-winner withdrew because of the illness of his father in Beaumont, Tex.

The leading contenders include defending champion Hale Irwin, U.S. Open champ Jerry Pate, former Los Angles and current PGA champ Dave Stockton and Tom Watson, a two-time winner already this season.

Others include Arnold Palmer, South African Gary Player, Ben Crenshaw, Australian David Graham, Dave Hill, J.C. Snead and veteran Don January.

Johnny Miller, Jack Nicklaus and Masters champion Ray Floyd are not competing.

Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by ABC.

Broncos bow in opener

Cal Poly's baseball squad, the defending NCAA Division II champs, make its 1977 debut Tuesday afternoon at Cal State Fullerton, but the powerful Titans spoiled things for the Broncos with a 15-5 victory.

In the only other college baseball action locally Tuesday, Mt. San Antonio ran its early-season mark to 5-1 with a 13-6 win over visiting Los Angeles City College.

The Broncos battled Fullerton on even terms through five and one-half innings Tuesday, but the host Titans exploded for five runs in the last of the sixth to break open a 5-5 deadlock. CSF added four more in the seventh and one in the eighth to win going away.

Poly's Ray Pekarcik had a big day, with a home run, triple and three RBIs. Bronco mates Bob Fehrenbach, Scot Pyle and Mike Davis also had two hits apiece.

Rick Schwenn started on the hill for the Broncs but was driven to cover in the Fullerton sixth. Greg Neilan, Kurt Edwards and Paul Standerfer finished up on the hill for Poly.

Hitting star for Fullerton was freshman sensation Mickey Palmer out of West Covina High. Palmer slugged a homer and a triple to pace the Titan attack. John Alvarez also homered for CSF.

MSAC continued to hit the ball well, registering 13 runs on 13 hits vs. LACC Tuesday. Kevin Chapman picked up his third straight hurling victory, going the route on a seven-hitter. Chapman fanned eight and five.

Mark Canavan and Joe Koval both had two doubles each for MSAC, Koval finishing with three hits in five at bats, three runs scored and two RBIs. Brian Menasco also had three hits for the Mounties, while Larry Marsh had three RBIs in the easy win.

After LACC had rallied to tie the score at 3-3 in the top of the third, MSAC took the lead for good in the last of that frame, a two-run double by Vince Teresi being the key hit in that rally.

Cal Poly continued diamond activity today at UCLA in a 2:30 p.m., contest. The Broncos will be at San Diego St. for doubleheaders Friday and Saturday.

Next action for MSAC will be Friday at Pasadena CC.

Three H.L. matmen remain unbeaten

Three Hacienda League wrestlers kept their unbeaten season records intact Tuesday afternoon as that loop held its league finals at Ontario High.

Walnut's 98-pounder Mark McNicholl ran his season record to 24-0 in annexing the Hacienda title at the weight.

Bob Pleasant, San Dimas' 148-pounder, also stayed unbeaten (15-0) by winning the H.L. title in his division.

Ontario 157-pounder Bill Haselrig was the third H.L. grappler to stay unbeaten (at 27-0), as he won the loop crown in his class.

The 13 first-place finishers from Tuesday's Hacienda finals will be advancing to Saturday's CIF Prelims at Fontana High. Action at Fontana is slated to get underway at 10 a.m.

The CIF Southern Section Finals will be held Feb. 26 at Fountain Valley High.

Although Ontario High had already claimed the Hacienda League team title, Royal Oak matmen surprised in Tuesday's finals.

No fewer than five Romans nabbed individual honors. They were Mark Baker (106 pounds), Greg Olson (115 pounds), Kurt Mathews (123 pounds), Chris Wood (130 pounds) and Ken Karpman (178 pounds).

Ontario could only cop two individual titles, Haselrig at 157 pounds and Larry Cutbirth at 168 pounds. San Dimas also had two first place finishers, Pleasant and heavyweight Bob Tatalovich.

McNicholl, Haselrig, Karpman and Tatalovich all scored pins in their final matches. All the other finals were decided by decision.

For San Dimas' Pleasant, Tuesday's title marked the third straight year he has won individual honors in the H.L. finals.

Devils, Chino post victories

Chino and Pomona highs posted exciting victories in San Antonio League basketball contests played Tuesday afternoon.

The Cowboys nipped visiting Upland 63-62 in double overtime, while the Devils edged visiting Claremont by a near-identical 64-62 margin.

Chino forward Barry Higgins sank two free throws with seven seconds left in the second overtime to give the Cowboys the nod over Upland. Upland's John Molinaro hit a basket for Upland at the buzzer but it wasn't quite enough for the Highlanders.

Higgins finished the game as Chino's top scorer with 19 points. Roger Hairston added 15 and Gene Campbell 14 to the winning effort.

Steve Davenport paced Upland and all scorers with 23 points. Brad Todd was the only other Highlander in double figures with 10.

Highlanders Steve Hanson and Bill Scheerer fouled out in the overtime periods to hinder the Upland cause.

Pomona used a 20-foot jumper by David Moore with only three seconds left to upset Claremont. Moore finished the game with 13 points, eight in the last quarter. Other Devils in double figures were William Warren with 14, Frank Haynes with 13 and Floyd Mixon with 12.

Warren topped the Devils with 14 rebounds, while Mixon, a 5-foot-8 guard, had eight boards.

Claremont was led by its high-scoring center, Derek Britton. Britton canned 24 points to lead all scorers. Also in twin figures for the Wolfpack were Jim Young with 13 and Ray Kwiatek with 11.

The Devils trailed in the contest 48-42 going into the final period but used a fast-break offense to tie the contest and set the stage for Moore's last-second heroics.

Chino, now 6-7 in league and 10-14 on the year, will finish its cage season Friday night by hosting SAL champ Ganesha. Upland, 6-7 in league and 16-10 overall, will wind up the year by entertaining Pomona (now 2-11 in SAL games and 4-17 overall). Claremont, 3-10 in league and 12-13 overall, will finish at Damien. UCLA gridders file claim

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Five persons, including four UCLA football players, have filed a $100,000 claim with the city, accusing the Los Angeles police of assault and false arrest during a December raid on an apartment.

The claim, filed with the city clerk's office, alleges that the incident occurred Dec. 7, two weeks before UCLA played Alabama in the Liberty Bowl.

The UCLA players are defensive tackle Manu Tuiasopo, linebacker Anthony PaoPao, guard Brent Boyd, and offensive tackle Jim Main. The fifth person was Zachary Tatum, described as a friend of Boyd.

According to the claim, Tuiasopo, PaoPao and Boyd said they were accosted as they stepped into the alley behind their West Los Angeles apartment to investigate a disturbance.

Two persons wearing Army jackets pointed guns at the trio, the claim says. One man held a gun at Tuiasopo and two other men joined the other person in entering the apartment and brandishing guns.

All five were taken to a police station and handcuffed even though at no time did any of the "assailants ever identify themselves as police officers or display any identification of any sort whatsoever," the claim says.

Robert Turner hits 59 points

Robert Turner, Calvary Baptist High's sophomore sensation, scored 59 points Tuesday night to lead the Cougars past visiting Hesperia Christian, 88-71.

With the 36 points Turner scored against Victor Valley Christian Monday night in a makeup game, he totalled 95 points in two days!

Turner had 35 rebounds Tuesday and 24 the night before as the Cougars beat Victor Valley Christian, 77-33.

Tuesday was not such a good night for other valley prep teams. Chaffey lost to San Gorgonio, 79-69, Ontario Christian fell to L.A. Lutheran, 47-44, Webb lost to Sherman, 73-44, and American Christian was beaten at Riverside Christian, 40-36.

Chaffey (6-8 in Citrus Belt League play, 8-15 overall) suffered an unusual loss. The Tigers set a school record for fewest points in a quarter when they scored two points in the second period.

In fact, Chaffey allowed 27 consecutive points by San Gorgonio, which built its lead from 19-18 to 47-18.

The Tigers roared back for 51 points in the second half, but were undone by their 18-point first half.

Mike Winans led Chaffey with 15 points and 14 rebounds. Eric Allen set another Chaffey record by making eight of eight free throws.

Center Hank Bouwman scored 20 points and grabbed 18 rebounds but it wasn't enough for Ontario Christian. The Knights took a 13-2 lead to start the game but were hampered early foul trouble.

Pete Verhoeven suffered a sprained ankle in the third period but the injury did not appear serious.

OCHS is 11-2 in Olympic League action and 18-5 overall.

Kerry Tims paced Webb with 15 points and Terry Balliet led American Christian with 16.

NEW YORK (AP) — Teenaged apprentice jockey Steve Cauthen was named winner of the S. Rae Hickok Professional Athlete of the Year Award for January Tuesday.

Cauthen, 16, became the youngest athlete ever honored in the 28-year-old Hickok poll.

The youngster, who rode 64 winners during the month, was a runaway winner in the balloting with 281 points, easily outdistancing golfer Tom Watson, who had 133.

Poets write off Pomona-Pitzer

Arkansas celebrates cage crown

By Associated Press

Sports at the University of Arkansas usually is associated with football ... Frank Broyles ... Lance Alworth ... all those great Texas-Arkansas matchups.

They are not generally associated with a basketball team with the second-best record in the nation, 23-1; a No. 11 national ranking, and a Southwest Conference championship.

"It's a great feeling, especially at a school that hasn't won an outright championship since 1941," said Arkansas basketball Coach Eddie Sutton, whose team wrapped up the SWC title Tuesday night by beating Texas Christian 79-64.

"It's a goal that we set," said Sutton, "and now we've achieved it."

Ron Brewer scored 23 points and Marvin Delph 21 as Arkansas raised its conferece record to 14-0. The Razorbacks jumped to a 43-24 halftime lead and coasted home against TCU, which is winless in 15 SWC games and 3-20 overall.

The only major college team with a record better than Arkansas, top-ranked San Francisco, stretched other games involving ranked teams, No. 8 Louisville defeated Tulsa 91-67 and No. 12 Minnesota edged Indiana 65-61.

Arkansas started slowly, sinking only two baskets in the first five minutes. But then the Razorbacks got hot and finished with 53 per cent shooting from the floor.

"Brewer was outstanding tonight," said Sutton. "It could have been his best game of the season. He had a great scoring night and he quarterbacked the team well."

Center Bill Cartwright hit on 11 of 12 shots from the field and scored 24 points as San Francisco clinched the West Coast Athletic Conference title by beating Los Angeles Loyola. The Dons broke open the game with a 28-4 burst early in the first half and never were in trouble.

Louisville led just 38-33 at halftime but outscored Tulsa 23-8 in the first nine minutes of the second half. Rick Wilson scored 21 points and Wesley Cox 19 for the Cardinals, 19-3.

its mark to 260, beating Los Angeles Loyola 104-65. In Osborne Lockhart, the Big Ten's top free-throw shooter, hit five foul shots in the final 1:33, helping Minnesota, 19-2, nip Indiana. That raised Minnesota's Big Ten record to 10-2 and put the Gophers one-half game behind first-place Michigan.

In other major games, Lew Massey's 30 points helped North Carolina-Charlotte raise its record to 17-3 with an 87-74 triumph over Birmingham Southern, the 49ers' 55th consecutive home victory; Otis Birdsong tallied 35 points as Houston topped Texas 95-84; Rich Laurel's 26 points sparked Hofstra to a 75-68 victory over St. Joseph's, Pa., and Glenn Mosley's 26 points and 20 rebounds helped Seton Hall defeat St. Johns, N.Y. 75-69.

Stags victimize La Verne, 89-76

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Claremont-Mudd's Bob Smith, Dan Butterfield and John Daniels combined for 58 points Tuesday night as the Stags downed visiting La Verne College, 89-76.

The Stags put the game away early in the second half. C-M hit nine consecutive field goals in the opening minutes of the half, outscoring La Verne 17-7 to take a lead of 57-40. With its torrid outside and inside shooting the Stags hit on 14 of their first 19 shots in the second half.

Smith connected on 13 of 19 shots for the contest in scoring a career-high 27 points. He also pulled down six rebounds and picked off five errant La Verne passes. Butterfield also established a career high in points with 18. Daniels added 13 for the Stags.

"We played real well tonight," noted Claremont-Mudd's Dave Wells. "We got ahead by 20 so I pulled a few of the starters to give them a rest for Thursday's contest with Redlands which caused us to lose our momentum. But we were able to regain it in the final minutes of the game."

La Verne, behind Ulysses Ruffin and Dennis Munoz, brought the Leos back from a 21-point deficit. La Verne closed the Stags' margin to 10 at 82-72 with 2:03 left on the game clock but that was the closest the Leos came to Stags.

Wells commented," Our defense won the ballgame for us. Offensively, our break worked really well as it got us the lead. We were able to get the good percentage shots off of it.

"Smith, Butterfield and Daniels were able to get some open shots off of the break."

C-M hit 54 percent of its shots (37-68) as the Stags capitalized on 25 La Verne turnovers to build their lead of 20 midway through the second half. The Stags had taken a halftime lead of 40-31 with the help of 15 miscues by the Leo's in first half action.

La Verne was bothered by a ball-hawking man-to-man defense by the Stags. The Leos finished the night 32 of 62 from the field as they increased their shooting percentage with the Stags' subs in the game.

La Verne's offense suffered somewhat when center Mike Sharp picked up three fouls in the first 10 minutes of play. He was limited to just seven points and four boards.

The Stags won the rebounding duel 39-34 as Stu DuVall pulled down 10 rebounds. Daniels increased his total of assists to 97 with eight in the contest. Ruffin was the Leos' top scorer with 19.

La Verne, now 4-6 in SCIAC play and 6-16 overall, travels to Pomona-Pitzer Thursday night for an 8 p.m. contest. C-M hosts Redlands in an 8 p.m. contest. The Stags are now 6-4 in SCIAC play and sport a record of 12-11 in overall competition.

Tennis champs must regroup

NO PUZZLE as to who were the valley's top collegiate tennis achievers last season. The Claremont-Mudd Stags, that pool of talent from Claremont Men's and Harvey Mudd colleges, scaled a mountain, of sorts, by tying Redlands for the championship of the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. A tie is only a tie but (1) Claremont-Mudd had never managed better than a second place to perennial winner Redlands, nor had anyone else since 1963, and (2) the Stags' dramatic upset over Redlands broke their opponents' winning streak of 143 dual matches in the conference, giving each team a final league record of 11-1.

Later the Stags went on to national distinction with a second-place team finish behind Kalamazoo College in the NCAA's Division III tournament as their own John Blomberg won the division singles crown.

Now comes a new season for Claremont-Mudd and its two SCIAC rivals from the local area, Pomona-Pitzer and La Verne. The Stags had, at one point, seemed reasonably well equipped to challenge Redlands again this year even though Coach Hank Krieger had to bid farewell to Blomberg and two other graduated lettermen. Three of the last season's top four were freshmen and figured to be winning matches for Claremont-Mudd for seasons to come. Trouble is, two of them didn't make it back to Claremont as sophomores. Chris Romney, who alternated with Blomberg between the No.'s 1 and 2 positions, is staying out of school this year to work in his hometown Seattle and Steve Mihaly transferred to Stanford.

Rich Dorman, who made the NAIA district quarterfinals last year, is the returning sophomore and another varsity returnee is two-year letterman Jeff Nelson. Krieger anticipates a considerable contribution by newcomers, particularly Harvey Mudd freshman A.J. Shaka of Salt Lake City. The coach describes this youngster simply as "one of the best prospects ever seen in Claremont." Shaka was ranked the No. 1 junior in the Intermountain area in 1975 and was a 1976 high school all-American.

The Stags rush right into conference play as they open their season this week. Their first opponent is SCIAC member Occidental, a match scheduled at 2:30 p.m. Friday at the Mills Avenue courts. On Saturday Caltech comes to Claremont for a 1:30 p.m. encounter.

Meanwhile, the Pomona-Pitzer team already is into its season, having won its opener last week against non-conference foe UC Riverside. Fred Bendheim, NAIA all-district first team selection last year, is back to lead Coach Les Nagler's team which lost a couple of lettermen from last year and has a freshman, Craig Kussman, in the line-up. Next for Pomona-Pitzer is Biola Thursday with U.S. International University coming in for a 2:30 p.m. Saturday contest.

At La Verne College Coach Jim Paschal has inserted newcomers into his No.'s 1 and 2 singles posts. Freshman Jose Bibloni of Puerto Rico heads the line-up and former Bonita High player Ken Neher is second on the list. La Verne was scheduled to open up with Azusa Pacific today, then get the acid test Saturday — a home meet with Redlands at 2 p.m.

NEW LEADERS TOOK OVER last week in two of the Claremont city leagues. In Saturday's mixed doubles play Dave Griffin and Sally Vogel ousted defending champs Herb and Kate Hoskins from the top of the ladder, moving into a 94-89 point advantage for the current cycle. Third-ranked is the partnership of Ignacio Castuera-Enrique Perez-Linda Moore, 87 points, followed by Mike Bechard and Helen Ernst, 78, and John Moore and Ros Dong, 77.

Penny Daoust and Kip Spear climbed back to their familiar perch atop the women's doubles standings Thursday with a straight-set win that dropped previous leaders Pat Fiddes and Jeannine Neuer to fifth place. The previous cycle winners have 54 points to the 50 each for the Nina Howard-Rose Savala and Nora Butler-Virginia Meriweather duos, 48 for Karlyn Cobb and Joan Dick and 47 for Fiddes and Neuer. Irene Himes and Carolyn Hartshorn lead the B group.

Griffin and Daoust retained their singles leads, meanwhile. Griffin with 92 points is ahead of Bechard and John Moore, tied for second with 86 each, while Ralph Spaulding and Kevin Deno are deadlocked for fourth with 82.

Daoust had an undefeated singles total of 84 heading into this week well ahead of Penny Maag 72; Pat Fiddes 71; Sandy Walker 68; and Helen Wang 66. Mary Delle Welton is the B frontrunner and Keith Tullock is ahead of the Cs.

In men's doubles Herb Hoskins, Rick Pawley and Jerry Bradley have kept their entry in front with 95 points compared with 87 for Dennis Robbie and Daryl Churchill, 86 for Steve Stires and Wes Davis, 83 for Bill and Ed Wotkowski and 79 for Don McCutcheon and Paul Goodman.

PRO TOURNAMENT BEAT: The Los Angeles women's tournament continues at the Sports Arena through Sunday. Matches at 7 tonight, all-day Thursday, quarter-finals at 7 Thursday and Friday, semis at 7 Saturday and finals at 1 p.m. Sunday. Channel 2 will show action from the semis at 10 Saturday night, from the finals at 3 Sunday.

Next in Southern California: The American Airlines Tennis Games this Friday through Feb. 27 at Mission Hills Country Club in Palm Springs. Sixty-four of the men's Grand Prix circuit players and 32 doubles teams will vie for $225,000 in prize money.

LOCAL PLAYERS at the Class C and D level have until next Wednesday to submit entries for a tournament March 5, 6 and 12 at Mt. San Antonio College. This project of Tennis Tournaments, Unlimited, will offer men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles. Cost is $6 for singles, $8 per doubles team. Entries are to be mailed to Tennis Tournaments, Unlimited, 337 S. Albertson St., Covina, 91723.

Q. "WHY IS THE PIPE UNDER A SINK CURVED?"

DAVID BLACKWELL

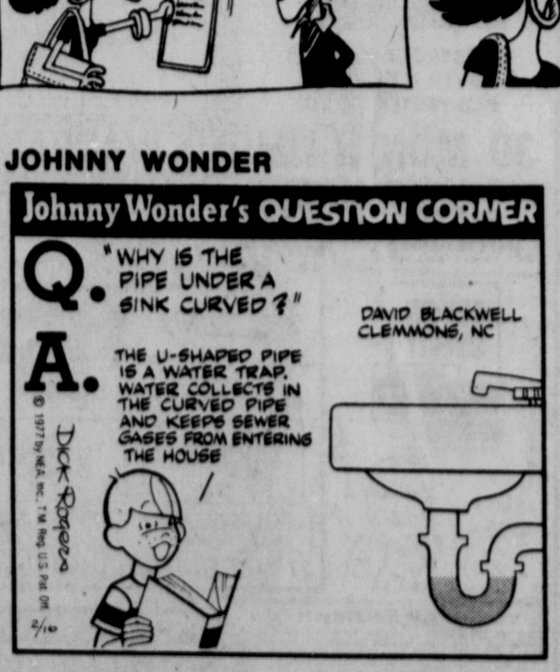
A. THE U-SHAPED PIPE IS A WATER TRAP. WATER COLLECTS IN THE CURVED PIPE AND KEEPS SEWER GASES FROM ENTERING THE HOUSE



The U-shaped pipe under a sink is called a water trap. Every sink, tub and toilet in your house has one.

The waste water decays and gives off a bad-smelling gas called sewer gas. When you flush the toilet or pull the plug in the sink, the waste water drains through the water trap.

Some of the water collects in the bottom curve of the water trap. This leftover water forms a water plug that keeps the sewer gases from coming back into the house.

A special vent pipe carries the sewer gases above the roof, where they escape into the air. A drainage pipe from each fixture carries the waste water away.

In cities and towns, a network of sewer pipes lead to sewage treatment plants.

There, machines and chemicals clean the waste matter from the water and kill the harmful germs so that the water can be safely disposed of.

In rural areas, a septic tank is often used for sewage treatment.

Recital slated at P.C.

Soprano Susan Breckenridge and baritone Christopher Nichols will present a recital of French songs in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 8:15 p.m. Friday. Pianist Margery S. Briggs will be accompanist.

Admission to the concert is free.

Miss Breckenridge will sing three groups of songs, "Five Greek Popular Airs" by Maurice Ravel, "Six Poems of Jean Cocteau" by Arthur Honegger, and the "Trois Melodies" by Olivier Messiaen, for which the composer also wrote the poems.

Nichols will sing Francis Poulenc's "Banalites," and "Chansons Madecasses" by Ravel, the latter with a special accompanying group made up of Sigrid Wagner, piano; Amy Simon, cello, and Jonathan Drexler, flute.

To conclude the concert the two singers will join in presenting a scene from the opera "Pelleas and Melisande" by Claude Debussy.

Jakob Gimpel presents recital at La Verne

By DANNY V. DANIEL

Of all the most recent piano recitals in the Pomona Valley, one of the best received was performed by the renowned pianist and pedagogue Jakob Gimpel in Founders Auditorium, La Verne College, Friday night.

Although the recital started a few minutes late, Gimpel certainly made up for lost time by playing what should have been a two-hour program in record time of one hour and 45 minutes. There were times, however, when a little more self-restraint with regard to tempo would have been appreciated, especially when it interfered with his accuracy and clarity.

The program was well constructed, beginning with the Beethoven Rondo in G Major, Gimpel played with well-defined phrases, but subtlety was not one of his strong points. He has a definite flair for the romantic style, and it seemed to be somewhat out of character in the Beethoven, especially where pedaling, coloration, and tempo change occurred. Gimpel, of course, does those things well, but at times they were a bit extreme and would have been more appropriately applied in the Chopin or Szymanowski, which they were in the second half of the program.

The Rondo in C, by Carl Maria Von Weber was a spectacular display of virtuosity. In spite of the few wrong notes, which were almost inevitable at such speed, it was a very impressive reading.

I was surprised in the Schumann Fantasie in C Major, a piece which Gimpel is noted for performing, at the inconsistency of definition. The second movement was the weakest, in my judgement, for it lacked the clarity and definition necessary to communicate the subtlety of phrasing. These situations, however, were isolated.

The last movement of the Schumann was very effective and the phrase definition was consistently good. This is one place where Gimpel achieved artistry of immeasurable quality. The mood was sustained with discipline and soulful deliberation.

The second half of the program was Gimpel's strongest point. All four Szymanowski Mazurkas were performed with stylistic sensitivity and clarity. The mazurka style requires extreme awareness to rhythm and delicacy of phrasing, and Gimpel delivered this with superb taste.

One of the most entertaining moments in the recital was the Debussy Etudes, "Pour les degres chromatiques" and "Pour les cinq doigts (d'apres M. Czerny)." The latter was both humerous and brilliantly executed. It was one of the few recitals in which I've seen the artist stimulate laughter by his keen ability to interpret the abstract.

I must admit that I was disappointed in the rather forced approach to the Chopin Waltz in A Flat. I have always enjoyed experiencing the waltz with a relaxed tempo, and I was very frustrated by the conflict of the recognizably good ideas in phrasing and coloration, which were nearly obliterated by the aggressive tempo and excessive pedaling.

The Nocturne in D Flat was delivered with beautiful quality of tone and balance. That reading was at times breathtaking. It was indeed one of the most intimate moments of the program.

The final number was the Chopin Scherzo in B Minor, which was without a doubt one of the fastest renderings I've ever heard.

The audience was very appreciative of an overall fine performance, and displayed its appreciation with a standing ovation, to which Gimpel responded with two encores.

10-minute orange brown betty classic variation

Got a minute? Or seven or ten? In just a very brief time you can turn out family and company desserts with a microwave oven, the space-age appliance growing in popularity. It's estimated that by 1980 there will be five million microwave ovens in American homes.

Here are two special citrus recipes microwave style. Microwave cooking is effective when working with fresh Florida citrus. The rapid cooking and heating of the microwave oven does not break down the fresh citrus sections as conventional oven cooking would. Instead, the freshly sectioned citrus holds together, keeping its texture, containing all its natural, sweet juices, and remaining identifiable as citrus.

Ten-Minute Orange Brown Betty is ready in half the time it would take in a regular oven. This variation of the classic Apple Brown Betty is made lively and zesty with fresh Florida orange juice and orange sections. The orange taste is the perfect flavor mate for all the mellow ingredients used in the recipe: butter, nuts, bread and seasonings. For a memorable ending to a mid-winter meal serve this tempting Orange Brown Betty warm with a scoop of vanilla ice cream.

"Seven-Minute Grapefruit Dessert" is a light, refreshing after dinner specialty, too. All you need to do is halve Florida grapefruit, loosen each section from the membrane, spread with sour cream and brown sugar topping and cook for a mere seven minute in a microwave oven.

10-MINUTE ORANGE BROWN BETTY

½ cup butter or margarine
3 cups soft bread cubes (9 slices)
4 cups Florida orange sections
½ cup packed brown sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup chopped walnuts
½ cup raisins
¼ cup Florida orange juice

In large skillet melt butter, add bread cubes and toast, stirring frequently, until browned lightly. Set aside. In large bowl mix remaining ingredients. Place half of bread cubes in 1½ quart baking dish, spoon orange mixture over, and top with remaining bread cobes. Cover with waxed paper. Bake in microwave oven 10 minutes. Serve warm with vanilla ice cream.

YIELD: 6 servings.

To section Florida oranges: Cut slice from top, then cut off peel in strips from top to bottom, cutting deep enough to remove white membrane. Then cut slice from bottom. Or cut off peel round and round, spiral fashion. Go over fruit again removing any remaining white membrane. Cut along side of each dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove section by section over bowl.

7-MINUTE GRAPEFRUIT DESSERT

2 Florida grapefruit
¼ cup sour cream, divided
¼ cup brown sugar, divided

Cut grapefruit in half. Cut around each section to loosen from membrane. Place halves in 2-quart baking dish. Spread 2 tablespoons sour cream over each half, covering surface. Sprinkle each half with brown sugar. Cook in microwave oven 7 minutes. Serve warm.

YIELD: 4 servings.

10-MINUTE ORANGE BROWN BETTY

Wheat germ, prune muffins with honey

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

When I was a little girl in Manitoba, Canada, once in a while my mother decided that we children were eating too many sweets. On some of these occasions dessert would be a batch of muffins, made with a minimum of sugar, and holding nuggets of fruit. They would be served hot from the oven, to be slathered with butter and perhaps honey. The honey was thick, sugary and clover-flavored and, if I remember correctly, made by the Trappist monks in Quebec. We children loved it because it was easy to spread thick!

Serving muffins for dessert is still a good idea. With this in mind here's a recipe, tried at our house, that calls for rich-in-nutrients wheat germ and prunes. A reminder: wheat germ should be refrigerated after a jar is opened. Because this cereal contains the oil of the wheat kernels, it may turn rancid if left at room temperature for any length of time. It's also a good idea to refrigerate a package of prunes, after it has been opened, to keep them moist.

WHEAT GERM AND PRUNE MUFFINS

1 cup flour, fork-stir to aerate before measuring
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
¾ cup vacuum packed unsweetened wheat germ
1 large egg
¾ cup milk
¼ cup corn oil
1 cup about 17, half of a 12-ounce package pitted prunes, cut up (see note below)

On wax paper stir together the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar; stir in wheat germ.

In a medium bowl beat egg, milk and oil until blended; add wheat germ mixture and stir until the dry ingredients are completely moistened; stir in prunes. Ladle into muffin-pan cups each 2½ inches across the top and 1 inch deep, filling about three-quarters full.

Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center of a muffin comes out clean — about 18 minutes. Loosen edges and remove. Serve hot with butter.

Makes 12.

Note: To cut up prunes use a kitchen scissors and snip each into lengthwise quarters, then snip each quarter crosswise into pieces about the size of raisins.

New horizon chicken salad, oranges Ceylon recipe

The sunny citrus groves of California and Arizona have outdone themselves again. Fresh lemons and oranges are plentiful and reasonably priced.

Bad weather has had disastrous effects on the current coffee crop and coffee prices are reflecting those effects. People all over the country are turning to possible coffee substitutes. Tea is the most obvious substitute and what goes better with hot tea than a slice of perky lemon. Or for a real taste-treat-substitute — how about hot lemonade made with fresh squeezed lemons? Hot lemonade provides not only a flavor treat, but is also loaded with Vitamin C.

Lemons are truly a year 'round fruit coming from several California-Arizona growing areas. Lemons on the market now are arriving from the fertile, desert valleys and from Central California. These lemons are superior in both quality and range of sizes. These will be followed closely by lemons from Southern California.

Navel oranges from California and Arizona will delight fresh orange fans with their excellent eating qualities. It's difficult to remember a sweeter, more flavorful orange than the vintage navel currently available. We can thank nature for almost perfect weather conditions, enabling California-Arizona growers to provide a bountiful crop of super navel oranges.

The fervor, fever and demand for the fantastic food of the holidays has subsided. For many there is a sigh of relief and for others, the search for new horizons and the hope that this new year will be better than the old. Often it's difficult to settle down to nutrition-wise eating and spending habits after the over-indulgence of the holidays, but the added pounds and bills make it necessary to trim the figure and the budget.

Navel oranges from California and Arizona fit both requirements beautifully. They are in abundance this year; wholesale prices are low and retail prices should reflect this abundance. When it's commercial time on TV and you make the mad dash for the refrigerator for some high calorie goodies — why not grab a juicy, delectable orange instead? And after school, what snack could be more enticing and nutritious than a large bowl full of golden navel oranges? Navels also make the ideal brown bag dessert and fruit combination.

Another low-cal flavor enhancer is the zesty lemon from California and Arizona. Lemons add a light, zippy touch to everything they accompany. The juice from a fresh lemon squeezed over vegetables or salads makes a welcome flavor change from other sauces and dressings and at about 5 calories per wedge, it's hard to beat the low calories.

Relieve the post-holiday blues by adding bright color and flavorful taste sensations with the use of fresh California-Arizona citrus in all your meals and snacks.

Navel oranges are world-famous as the greatest eating oranges available. They're seedless, so you can pop the plump segments into your mouth with ease. But there's more to navel orange eating than just peeling and eating. Navels lend their bright color and perky flavor to other foods as well. For instance, when tomatoes are scarce and high-priced, try slicing peeled orange segments into your favorite tossed salads. Oranges taste great with salad dressings of all types and add the extra color and flavor that tossed salads need. Oranges also lend a color and flavor plus to chicken and tuna salads. Here's a salad that gets its flavor and color boost from oranges. Try it and you'll find oranges appearing more and more often in your favorite salad.

NEW HORIZON CHICKEN SALAD

- 1 tablespoon fresh grated orange peel
- 2 oranges, peeled, cut in bite-size pieces
- 1½ cups chopped cooked chicken
- 2/3 cup chopped celery
- ½ cup sliced toasted almonds
- 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
- 2 to 3 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- Lettuce cups

Combine all ingredients except lettuce. Spoon about 1 cup chicken mixture into each lettuce cup. Makes 4 servings.

Variation: Use chicken mixture for sandwich filling. Makes 8 servings.

While you're trying oranges in salads, remember that oranges are super as desserts and accompaniments as well. Orange Ambrosia, a classic Southern dessert is made with orange slices sprinkled with coconut. What could be more simpler? And if you're accustomed to serving relishes or spiced peaches with baked chicken or pork, try this unusual recipe for Oranges Ceylon. The idea of adding curry powder to oranges may sound odd, but it's a surprise that even non-curry lovers will enjoy.

ORANGES CEYLON

- 2 to 4 tablespoons brown sugar
- ¼ teaspoon curry powder
- 6 oranges, peeled, cut in half-cartwheels
- Dairy sour cream

Combine sugar and curry powder; stir into oranges. Chill. Serve with sour cream. Makes about 4 cups.

Fresh lemons, the classic go-with fruits from California and Arizona, are abundant all winter long to add their perky flavor to every type of winter menu. Vegetables, salads, main dishes and desserts are all enhanced by fresh lemon. As a super lunch or dinner accompaniment, try Lemon Confetti Peas. And for an all-in-one hearty main dish, let a lemon add its success story to pork chops and vegetables. Either way, lemons are the answer to winter menu magic.

LEMON CONFETTI PEAS

- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1 teaspoon fresh grated lemon peel
- 1 tablespoon fresh squeezed lemon juice
- 2 to 3 tablespoons sliced canned pimiento
- 2 to 3 tablespoons sliced almonds
- 1 tablespoon instant minced onion
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas, cooked, drained drained

In saucepan, melt butter. Add lemon peel and juice, pimiento, almonds and onion. Stir in peas; heat. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

PEPPY PORK DINNER

- 4 pork loin chops (about 1½ pounds)
- ¼ cup flour
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1 to 2 tablespoons shortening
- 4 medium potatoes, quartered (about 1¼ pounds)
- 6 carrots, quartered (about 1 pound)
- 2 small onions, quartered
- ½ cup water
- Juice of 1 fresh lemon
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 bay leaf, crushed
- ¼ teaspoon celery seed

Coat pork chops with mixture of flour, 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. In heavy saucepot, brown chops in shortening; pour off fat. Arrange vegetables over chops. In small bown, combine remaining ½ teaspoon salt and remaining ingredients; pour over chops and vegetables. Cover; simmer for 45 to 50 minutes until pork chops and vegetables are tender. Makes 4 servings.

Slowly deviled beef uses 'stew' chunks

Slow cookers have probably done more for women's liberation than a dozen marches and three gross of protest meetings.

If you haven't yet tried this marvelous appliance, this newly developed recipe from the R.T. French Company Test Kitchens is reason enough to get it out of the box.

If you don't have a slow cooker, slowly Deviled Beef can be prepared in a covered casserole dish in a regular oven.

A wedge of lettuce or mixed green salad makes an ideal accompaniment. This new recipe for Chunky French Dressing should make it memorable.

For a well-rounded meal, also serve hot cooked noodles, a green or yellow vegetable, pudding, and a beverage.

SLOWLY DEVILED BEEF

- 2 pounds lean stew beef, cut in 1-inch cubes
- 1 envelope (1½ oz.) French's Seasoning Mix for Sloppy Joes
- 1 can (6-oz.) tomato paste
- 1 cup coarsely sliced celery
- 1 green pepper, cut into squares
- ½ cup water
- 2 tablespoons vinegar

Place all ingredients in electric slow cooker; stir to mix ingredients. Cover and cook about 10 hours on low, or 4½ to 5 hours on high. Do not peek or stir until near the end of cooking time. (Lifting the cooker lid will increase cooking time signifciantly.) Serve beef with hot cooked noodles or rice.

Note: This dish can also be cooked in a covered 2-quart casserole for 2 to 2½ hours in a 325 degree oven.

CHUNKY FRENCH DRESSING

- ½ cup salad oil
- 1/3 cup lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons yellow mustard
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 2 tablespoons each chopped pimiento and dill pickle
- 1 hard-cooked egg, chopped

Combine ingredients and stir until well mixed or, if preferred, place in glass jar with tight fitting lid and shake. Keep in refrigerator. Dressing is especially nice for lettuce wedges or salad of minced greens. Makes 1½ cups.

Almond crunch apple cake

Not too rich but wonderfully moist, "Almond Crunch Apple Cake" is a treat for everyone. It has that "made from scratch" appeal, but is easy to prepare.

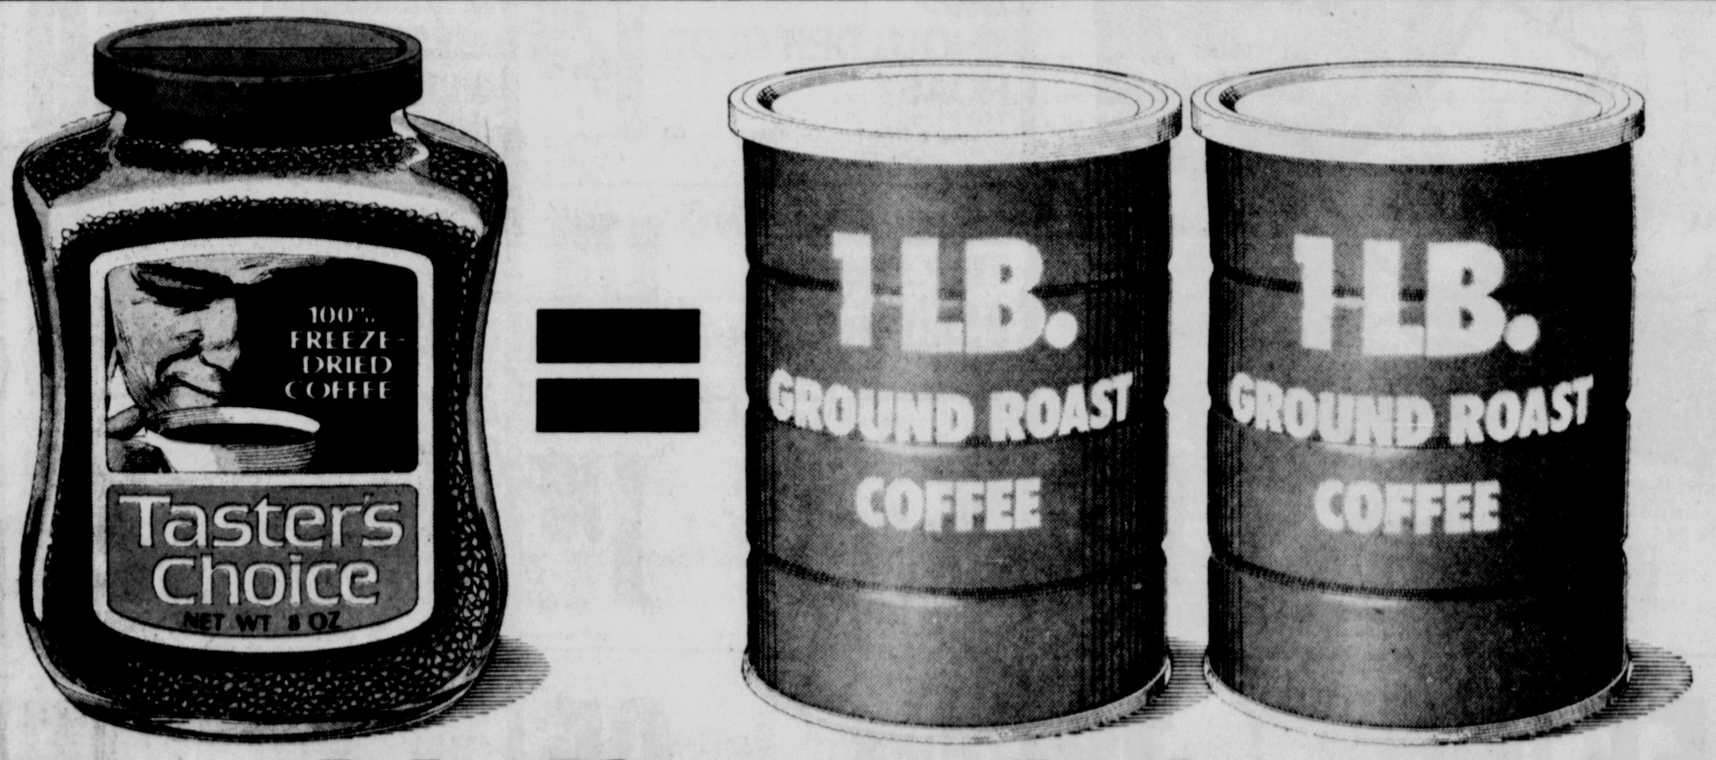
Toasted almonds bring flavor and crunchiness to the cake. Cinnamon, nutmeg and vanilla enhance the apple flavor.

Serve the slices topped with a warm vanilla sauce, whipped cream, or a spirited hard sauce.

ALMOND CRUNCH APPLE CAKE

- 2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 3 medium apples
- 1 cup margarine or butter
- 1¾ cups sugar
- 4 large eggs
- ½ cup water
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ teaspoon almond extract
- ¾ cup chopped toasted natural (unblanched) almonds

Resift flour with spices, salt and soda. Pare and core apples. Finely chop to measure 2 cups. Cream butter and sugar together until fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Blend in sifted dry ingredients alternately with water. Stir in apples, flavorings and almonds. Turn into well greased and floured 9-inch tube pan. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 1 hour and 10 minutes, or until cake tests done. Remove from oven and cool in pan about 30 minutes. Turn out onto wire rack to cool completely. Makes 1 (9-inch) cake.



A half-pound of ours makes as much as two pounds of theirs.

An 8-oz. jar of Taster's Choice® Freeze-Dried Coffee makes 120 (6-oz.) cups of coffee. That's as much coffee as you'd get from two pounds of ground roast (following recommended serving directions of the leading national brands).

And since you make Taster's Choice by the cup, you never end up throwing half a pot down the drain.

So the next time you're comparing who gives you what for your money, remember: It's not how much it costs a pound. It's how little it costs a cup.

(And looking at it that way, 50 cents off is worth a lot of cups on us.)

Basic, ripe olive crepes can 'delight' appetites

All day long from breakfast until the small hours of the dark night, crepes can grace a table and delight the appetite.

From the days when crepes were those delectable morsels one bought at a tiny corner kiosk in Paris, the wave of crepe lovers has grown to take in knowledgeable hostesses all over America. But have you tried adding chopped ripe olives to a conventional crepe batter? Filled with a delicious ratatouille it's a delicious meatless luncheon, dinner or late supper entree.

Olive Crepes Supreme may be served as an entree or cut in the tiniest of wedges as an hors d'oeuvre.

Strictly in the hors d'oeuvre class is California Tapenade. Prepared in the traditional Provencal manner this mixture has come a long way from its traditional use as a handout to the hungry poor who came to the backdoors of Provence asking for food. Spread on a quarter of a crepe and rolled up crescent style, this savory concoction makes a mouthful to serve with before-dinner beverages.

BASIC CREPES

2 eggs
1 and 1/3 cups milk
2 teaspoons butter, melted
1 cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup ripe olives finely chopped and pitted

Beat eggs until yolks and whites are well blended. Beat in milk and melted butter. Sift together flour and salt. Gradually beat flour into egg mixture until batter is smooth and creamy; add olives. Heat greased 6-inch crepe pan or skillet. Pour 3 to 4 tablespoons batter into skillet. Rotate pan so batter covers bottom evenly. When brown turn over and cook other side until brown, then remove.

Makes about 1 dozen crepes.

Pimiento Sauce

1 jar (4 ounce) pimientos
2 cups white sauce

Puree pimientos and combine in saucepan with white sauce. Makes 2½ cups sauce.

Provencal Filling

12 crepes (6-inch)
2 cups pimiento sauce
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons olive oil
3 cloves garlic, sliced
3½ cups thinly sliced carrots and zucchini
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Prepare crepes according to recipe directions. Prepare pimiento sauce. In large skillet heat butter and olive oil. Brown garlic and add vegetables. Cook over medium heat until tender; add salt and lemon juice; toss vegetables gently to coat with juices. Place ¼ cup vegetable mixture at one end of crepe and roll into tube; repeat this procedure until all crepes are used. Wrap in foil and heat in 350 degree oven for about 15 minutes. When crepes are hot place them on serving dish. Pour sauce over crepes. Serve immediately.

Makes 12 crepes or 6 servings.

CALIFORNIA TEPENADES

12 crepes (6-inch)
1½ cups crumbled feta cheese
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
3 to 4 cloves garlic, pulverized
1 tablespoons capers in juice, pulverized
1 teaspoon anchovy paste
1 can California pitted ripe olives, pureed in blender

In bowl, combine feta cheese with mayonnaise, blend (do not cream mixture) with a fork. Set aside. Use a mortar and pestle to pulverize garlic and capers. To this add anchovy paste, mix well; add olive puree. Add salt, if necessary. Using a tablespoon, spread each crepe first with feta mixture then with olive mixture. Cut crepe into quarters, starting from widest edge roll each quarter to form crescent. Secure with tooth pick.

Makes 48 hors d'oeuvre size servings.

CREPES OLIVE SUPREME

7 crepes (6-inch)
½ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
½ cup chopped green onion
1 can pitted California ripe olives, sliced
2 cups grated monterey jack cheese
2 eggs beaten

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. In large skillet saute mushrooms until tender, add onion and olives; gently stir until warm. Remove from pan. Place in bowl; add grated cheese, tossing to mix. Fold beaten eggs into mixture. Grease bottom of 8-inch spring-form pan, place one crepe in springform. Spoon approximately ½ cup mixture onto crepe, distributing it evenly. Continue layering crepes and filling, reserving last crepe for top. Put in oven and bake uncovered 15 to 20 minutes. Serve immediately.

Serves six.

Almond chicken 'tarts'

In the mood to invite friends over for a simple foursome supper? Here's a main dish you'll appreciate for its taste, appeal and easy preparation.

"Almond Chicken Tarts" features cubed chicken combined with sauteed onion and a rich, creamy sauce. This flavorful filling, topped with golden crunchy almonds and Cheddar cheese, is spooned onto individual, tender-crisp tart shells and baked. The combination of flavors and the intriguing texture of toasted almonds turn this simple dish into something special.

ALMOND CHICKEN TARTS

4 tart shells
¼ cup finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter
1½ cup chopped cooked chicken
3 eggs beaten
1 cup half and half (thin cream)
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon mace
½ cup slivered or chopped toasted almonds
¾ cup grated Cheddar cheese

Prepare tart shells. Cook onion in butter until soft but not browned. Stir in chicken. Add eggs, half and half, salt and mace. Spoon into tart shells. Combine almonds and cheese and sprinkle over top of each tart. Bake in 375-degree oven for 25 minutes, until pastry is crisp and browned and filling set in center. Cool slightly before serving. Makes 4 servings.

TART SHELLS: Combine 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour with ¾ teaspoon salt. Cut in ½ cup shortening until particles are size of peas. Sprinkle with about ¼ cup cold milk, adding just enough to make a stiff dough. Divide into 4 equal parts and shape each into a ball. Roll each on lightly floured board to a circle about 7 inches diameter. Fit into 5-inch pie or tart pans, 1 inch deep. Fold edge under, and build up a fluted rim. Bake in 375-degree oven for 5 minutes.

American chef dominates the world culinary scene

"The American chef dominates the culinary scene," according to Chef Fritz Sonnenschmidt who was interviewed prior to the U.S. Team's departure for the International Culinary Competition in Frankfurt, Germany.

"Our food technology, year-round supply of products and wide variety of foods give American chefs the edge over the other 20 teams of competitors," explains Sonnenschmidt, who is instructional coordinator at the Culinary Institute of America in Hyde Park, NY and one of 11 members of the U.S. Team sponsored by Kraft Foods.

"The United States doesn't have a 'grand cuisine' right now. It's more of a melting pot of Creole, Hawaiian, New England and other regional cookery," he continues. "And we'll always have ethnic influences, but eventually an 'Americanized' cuisine will evolve."

The strategy the Team chefs will employ in creating hot and cold food entries is to use natural, native American foods and shy away from gaudy overplay. "Chefs used to overemphasize food art, forgetting that food has to be eaten," remarks Sonnenschmidt. "To be successful, we must become more nutrition-conscious, not just color-conscious."

Chef Sonnenschmidt developed his culinary opinions throughout a foodservice career which spanned many different positions in several countries. His interest in cooking surfaced when he spent his free time helping the American Army chefs stationed in his native Bavaria make pancakes for the troops. After his chefs apprenticeship, he traveled to Sweden, the island of Jersey and finally England, where he served in the Queen Mother's household at St. James Palace and in several top London hotels during his 4-year stay.

In 1962 Sonnenschmidt decided to settle in the United States and become a U.S. citizen. He gained additional experience with Sheraton Hotels in New York and at the Eldorado Yacht Club before joining the Culinary Institute in 1968. Sonnenschmidt presently is in charge of coordinating the buffet catering and pantry departments of the school.

Author of a textbook on the art of "garde manger," Sonnenschmidt hopes to put his teachings into practice at the Competition in Germany. Although he declines to speculate about the outcome of the Competition, odds are Chef Sonnenschmidt is betting on that good old American ingenuity.

Following is a recipe for one of Chef Sonnenschmidt's favorite snacks.

STUFFED PEPPER SURPRISE

1 green pepper (5 oz.)
1 red pepper (5 oz.)
7 oz. cream cheese
3 oz. crumbled blue cheese
½ cup butter (4 oz.)
Salt
White pepper
6 slices pumpernickel (12 oz.)
6 slices white bread (6 oz.)
Grapes and pimento stuffed green olives, to garnish

Cut stems off peppers. Remove seeds carefully and wash well. Dry inside and out. Mix cream cheese, blue cheese and 2 tablespoons butter well; season with salt and pepper. Press mixture into the peppers with a teaspoon, making sure there are no hollow spaces. Wrap in aluminum foil and cool in the refrigerator for 2 hours or overnight. Before serving, slice each pepper horizontally into 6 slices with a sharp knife. Spread remaining butter on pumpernickel and serve with stuffed peppers and white bread. Decorate with olives and grapes. Preparation — 10 minutes. Approximate calories per person — 595.

Idaho's governor potato pitchman

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Long ago there was a railroad between Chicago and the West Coast known as "The Route of the Baked Potato." At luncheon and dinner, the train would stop for a large meal with a baked potato, then travel on. Today the baked potato has another emissary — the Governor of Idaho who calls himself a russet Burbank pitchman on TV screens and on platforms all over the country.

"Yes, although governor of my state, I am also a spud salesman. I want as many people as possible to learn about our remarkably different baking potatoes. They are the most asked for 'bakers' in the world and are one-third of the state's agriculture," reports Cecil D. Andrus, twice elected governor, a Democrat in a Republican state and a frank conservationist in a conservative area.

We met at Pierre's in New York. The waiter laid before us two Idaho baked potatoes. They were stuffed with broken up potatoes, cottage cheese and chopped hot green pepper.

The Governor brushed his aside. "Good, maybe. But the only way to enjoy an Idaho is baked, split open and sparked with butter. Incidentally, never cook wrapped in foil. That spoils the texture."

Then he continued to discuss his beloved subject: "Idaho grows more potatoes than any other state. And I am proud to say that most of the farms are owned by individuals, not by corporations. The great pride farmers take, the great care they give their fields, the money devoted to research and the amazing numbers of modern storage plants will convince you that potatoes are big business in Idaho. Many years ago Luther Burbank introduced his russet Burbank to my state. Through science, expensive research, experimentation and hard work we have developed it to its remarkable taste, texture and distinctive shape.

"Idaho has an altitude that makes it hot during the day and cool at night. This results in fine potato textures. We have abundant fresh streams and our air is still not polluted."

The governor suggested we bake Idaho potatoes as follows: Scrub potatoes well. Dry potatoes and prick with a fork. Bake in 425-degree oven 55 to 65 minutes, until soft. Or bake potatoes in 350-degree oven for 1 hour and 25 minutes to 1 hour and 30 minutes.

As soon as the potato is baked to the soft to the touch stage, take the potatoes from the oven and cut an "X" in the top. Then push some of the potato through with slight pressure of the fingers on the peel so that some of the snowy inside shows. This will help the fluffing process, and bring the potato dry and mealy to the table.

The skin of an Idaho baked potato is considered a great delicacy by potato connoisseurs. For a soft skin, scrub the potato and coat lightly with butter, oil or bacon fat before baking. For a crisp, brittle skin, just scrub and bake. On restaurant menus, they are listed as "Idaho shells."

Vegetable 'salad' dressing for make-it-at-home set

Good news for the make-it-at-home movement . . . salad dressings are really very easy to make. In fact, once you've tried one or two, you'll wonder why you ever bought them in jars or bottles.

The basis of most salad dressings is oil. Choose this ingredient with care. It should add a touch of flavor, but not be dominant. And its smooth and creamy texture is what gives the dressing a contrast to the crisp greens and other salad ingredients.

For the oil to use, try lovely "liquid gold" from Spain. It is light and flavorful . . . just what a salad needs. In the South of Spain, olive trees grow in the warm sun. The liquid pressed from these olives is prized around the world for its fine quality.

Spanish olive oil is truly a natural ingredient, since it is merely pressed from the olives. No chemicals are added. In fact, all of the ingredients in Vegetable Salad Dressing are natural . . . vinegar, egg, spices, fresh vegetables.

VEGETABLE SALAD DRESSING

1 carrot, cut in pieces
1 onion, quartered
1 stalk celery, cut in pieces
1 cup parsley sprigs
1 clove garlic
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 egg
1 cup Spanish olive oil

Place all ingredients except olive oil in an electric blender. Cover. Turn blender on and then off rapidly until vegetables are pureed. Turn to high speed and gradually add olive oil. Chill several hours or overnight before serving. Makes 2 cups.

Mayonnaise is easy to make at home. Once you've tried the basic recipe, you'll want to try some variation, too. Be sure to follow the basic directions carefully.

HOMEMADE MAYONNAISE

2 egg yolks or 1 whole egg
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons vinegar, wine vinegar or lemon juice
1 cup Spanish olive oil

In blender container, combine egg yolks, mustard, salt, vinegar and ¼ cup of the oil. Cover; turn to high speed. Turn off, remove cover. Again turn on to high and add remaining oil in a steady stream. Turn off. Cover and refrigerate until ready to use. Use as dressing for salads, or a dip for shrimp and vegetables. Makes 1½ cups.

Red Mayonnaise: Add 1 teaspoon chili powder and paprika before blending.

Green Mayonnaise: Add ¼ cup fresh basil or parsley before blending.

Sweet-sour scallops festive meal for Chinese Year of the Serpent

It may look like winter outdoors, but February 18 is the first day of spring in the Chinese calendar. It's New Year's Day, too, the first day of the Year of the Serpent, the year 4675 on the Chinese lunar calendar.

In China this big holiday of the year is celebrated with a feast. The festive meal is part of the New Year fun you can easily duplicate in your kitchen. For starters, serve hot egg rolls with Chinese hot mustard and sweet and sour sauce (all available at supermarkets). The main dish is Sweet-Sour Scallops, made from a piquant recipe created by La Choy home economists. To accompany it all, dish up ramen noodles.

Ramen noodles are an Oriental convenience food — dried noodles packaged with a seasoning mix and prepared by simmering them briefly in water. The result is a dish of the noodles together with their own seasoned broth. La Choy's Ramen Noodles are available in beef, chicken and Oriental varieties.

SWEET-SOUR SCALLOPS

9 Chinese dried black mushrooms (optional)
1½ pounds fresh or frozen (thawed) scallops, rinsed and drained
1½ teaspoons corn starch
1 can (8 oz.) bamboo shoots, drained, cut in half
½ cup thinly sliced carrots
1 sweet red or green pepper, seeded and cubed
2 green onions, cut into 1½ inch lengths
1 can (8 oz.) water chestnuts, drained and sliced
1½ tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
3 cups cooking oil
1 tablespoon cornstarch
3 tablespoons water

Cover mushrooms with boiling water; soak 30 minutes. Drain. Cut off and discard stems; if caps are large, cut in half.

If scallops are large, cut in half. Mix with 1½ tablespoons cornstarch.

Combine mushrooms, bamboo shoots, carrots, peppers, green onions and water chestnuts; set aside.

Blend together soy sauce, vinegar, sugar and salt.

Heat oil in large skillet. Add scallops and cook, stirring constantly, about 2 minutes or until scallops are done. Remove and drain.

Pour off all but 2 tablespoons oil. Stir in soy sauce mixture. Blend 1 tablespoon cornstarch with water; stir into soy sauce mixture. Stir in scallops, mushrooms and vegetables. Cook, stirring, until heated through. Serve immediately. (4-6 servings)

Tender treatment

Potato, lamb ragout listed

Stew or ragout, whatever you choose to call this elegantly simple dish, it is a great entree for many occasions. This dish fits comfortably into a casual life style as easily as into the informal planned dinner meal. Once the lamb has simmered to tenderness, it's just a few minutes before the addition of frozen extra thick dinner fries and mushrooms are ready for serving.

For this entree, you can use a less tender cut, such as boneless lamb stew meat. After browning the meat, let it simmer to tenderness. You can stop here and in the refrigerator for later cooking or continue, because from here on the cooking is quick and easy. Celery and mushrooms are added for about a five minute cook. Then the conveniently frozen extra thick dinner fries are emptied from freezer bag into stew. Takes just about ten to twelve minutes to cook them to tenderness. Then, thicken the gravy to your liking and serve.

A big, crisp greens salad and hot flaky biscuits makes this trio a meal to remember.

ELEGANT POTATO LAMB RAGOUT

2 pounds boneless lamb stew meat
1 tablespoon cooking oil
2 (10½ ounce) cans condensed beef broth
2 cups water
½ cup chopped onions
2 teaspoons salt
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon rosemary, crumbled
½ teaspoon minced garlic
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ pound fresh mushrooms, halved
1 cup celery, cut in 1½ inch pieces
1 (24 ounce) package frozen fries
2 tablespoons cornstarch

Trim and discard any excess fat from meat. Heat oil in Dutch oven or large skillet and brown meat well. Drain off excess fat. Add broth, water, onions, 1 teaspoon salt, bay leaf, rosemary, garlic and pepper. Heat to boiling. Turn heat low, cover tightly and simmer 1 to 1½ hours, until meat is almost tender. Add mushrooms and celery, and simmer, covered, 5 minutes. Place fries on top; sprinkle with remaining teaspoon salt. Cover and cook 10 to 15 minutes, just until potatoes are tender. Combine cornstarch with a little cold water and mix smooth. Stir gently into liquid on stew, and cook a few minutes until thickened.

Makes 6 servings.

Tempting dish

'Meaty' stuffed artichokes set

Artichokes are thought by some people to have aphrodisial powers and it's certain that these artichokes filled with a hearty meat stuffing make a man-tempting dish.

The ingredient in this recipe is three soup mixes — Instant Beef Noodle, Instant French Onion and Cream of Chicken. The contrasting, but complementary, flavors of ground beef, salami and garlic are combined with rice and Instant Beef Noodle Soup for an unusual filling. The stuffed artichokes are baked in a dish with Instant French Onion Soup for an hour. Then the leaves are dipped in a tangy sauce of Cream of Chicken Soup and lemon.

Meaty Stuffed Artichokes can be served as a change-of-pace main dish for the family and they are fancy enough for company. Souptime mixes are the 10-second soups with home style stock, which makes them ideal for quick meals as well as in combination with other foods.

Here is the recipe for Meaty Stuffed Artichokes.

MEATY STUFFED ARTICHOKES

4 artichokes
1 pound ground beef
6 slices hard salami, chopped
1 egg, slightly beaten
¼ cup white wine
1 clove garlic, minced
1¾ cups boiling water
½ cup quick rice, uncooked
2 envelopes instant beef noodle soup
1 envelope instant French onion soup
1 envelope instant cream of chicken soup
½ measuring teaspoon lemon juice

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. To prepare artichokes, hold each by stem end and dash up and down quickly in deep bowl of cold water. Cut off stems. Pull off tough bottom row of leaves; with scissors, cut ¼'' off remaining leaves. Brush cut portion of leaves with lemon juice. Turn artichokes upside down; press hard to force leaves apart. With artichoke upright, insert knife or grapefruit corer and remove the choke; set aside. In large bowl, combine beef, salami, egg, wine and garlic. In large measuring cup, combine ¾ cup boiling water, rice and instant beef noodle soup; let sit for 5 minutes. Add to beef mixture. Equally fill artichokes with beef mixture. Place stuffed artichokes in 2-qt. shallow baking dish.

In small measuring cup, combine instant French onion soup and ½ cup boiling water; pour into baking dish to cover bottom. Cover baking dish tightly with aluminum foil.

Bake at 350 degrees F. for 1 hour. Serve immediately. Dip leaves in Tangy Chicken Dip.

TANGY CHICKEN DIP: In small measuring cup, combine instant cream of chicken soup, ½ cup boiling water and lemon juice; mix well.

Cauliflower and cheese—homemade soup simplified

Mention homemade soup and a good percentage of soup lovers over 20 will be swept with a wave of nostalgia. Cans are in, and the soup pot on the stove, the one that's been brewing all day, is out.

The makers of the Epicurean Food Processor don't see it that way. They see soup as a mainstay in the American diet. As such, it should be homemade as well.

The following recipes utilizing the time saving Epicurean Food Processor take 20, 25 and 25 minutes, respectively, to prepare. Once upon a time, any "lazy man" cook would've thrown out the recipes after one glance at the list of ingredients. Any self-respecting cook would have heaved a sigh, a blade and started chopping.

Now, any cook or non-cook can make homemade soup without the giving up or the sigh.

CAULIFLOWER AND CHEESE SOUP

This simple soup has the pure tastes of cauliflower and cheese, without further complications. If chosen for a first course, make the servings small — it can be a meal in itself.

- 1 2 pound head of cauliflower
- 1 cup chicken broth
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup grated Swiss cheese
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup chicken broth
- 1 package instant chicken broth
- 1 cup light or whipping cream

Cut the cauliflower into flowerets and place in a saucepan with 1 cup of chicken broth and salt. Cover and simmer for 20 minutes until tender.

Grate the Swiss cheese in the food processor. Add hot cauliflower, cooking broth and flour. Process until smooth. Return pruee to saucepan and stir in remaining ingredients. Additional powdered instant chicken broth has been added to this recipe to intensify the flavor of the soup. Heat until hot. Use steel blade and grating disc. Serves 8.

MINESTRONE

The Italians gave us this marvelous "one course meal" dish and the Epicurean Food Processor makes it a simple, mistake-free reality.

- ¼ cup parsley
- 1 onion, peeled
- 1 small green pepper, seeded
- 1 carrot, peeled
- 1 cup cabbage
- 4 slices bacon
- 5 cups beef broth
- 1 cup tomato puree
- 1 cup ditalini, or other small macaroni
- 1 teaspoon oregano
- 1 tomato
- 3 medium sized mushrooms
- ½ cup peas
- 1 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Place the parsley in the food processor and chop with the steel blade until fine. Chop onion and green pepper with steel blade. Slice carrot, cabbage and bacon with slicing disc. Heat beef broth and tomato puree and add vegetables and bacon. Simmer uncovered for 15 minutes. Add ditalini and oregano and simmer for 5 minutes. Add tomato and mushroom sliced in food processor. Add peas and simmer 5 minutes. Serve hot sprinkled with Parmesan cheese grated finely in food processor. (And you will really understand why the food processor was invented!) Use steel blade and slicing disc. Serves 8.

CRAB SOUP

Anybody who's been about knows what clam chowder is. But crab soup? It's a good beginning for any meal and will please any palate that likes chowder.

- 1½ pounds summer ripe tomatoes
- 6 scallions, finely chopped
- 1 cup chicken broth
- 1 cup clam broth
- 2 teaspoons tomato paste
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ cup dry sherry
- 1 cup whipping cream
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Freshly ground black pepper
- 1 pound fresh crabmeat

Cut tomatoes into wedges and place in saucepan with scallions, chicken broth, clam broth and tomato paste. Simmer partially covered for 20 minutes. Transfer to food processor and add flour. Process until soup is smooth. Strain to remove tomato seed and skins. Stir in sherry and cream; season with salt and pepper and simmer for 5 minutes. Add crabmeat and continue cooking until hot. Use steel blade. Serves 6.

Fish fillets, grapefruit pilaf 'flavors' boosted

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Meatless cookery gets a flavor boost when fruits are combined with other basic ingredients. For example, fish fillets are enhanced by the use of grapefruit slices and a tuna casserole is distinctly different when wheat pilaf is cooked in grapefruit juice and grapefruit sections also are added during the final minutes of baking. Garnish with additional chilled grapefruit sections for an added taste experience.

FISH FILLETS

- 1 pound fresh or frozen fish fillets
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ⅛ teaspoon dried leaf oregano or marjoram
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
- Paprika
- 1 grapefruit, sectioned

Place fillets on aluminum, boil in broiler pan. Add salt, pepper and oregano to butter. Brush fish with half the mixture. Sprinkle with paprika. Place in preheated broiler about 5 inches below heat. Broil until fish is easily flaked but still moist, about 10 to 12 minutes. Three minutes before fish is cooked, place grapefruit sections on top, brush with remaining butter mixture. Continue broiling until fish is easily flaked with a fork. Makes 4 servings.

GRAPEFRUIT PILAF

- 1 package (8 ounces) wheat pilaf mix
- 1 cup grapefruit juice
- 1½ cups water
- ½ cup chopped parsley
- ¼ teaspoon dried leaf thyme
- 2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped broccoli, thawed and drained
- 1 cup grapefruit sections

In large casserole or dutch oven, mix together wheat pilaf mix, grapefruit juice, water, parsley and thyme. Cover and bake in 350-degree oven 30 mintues. Stir in tuna, broccoli and grapefruit sections, cover and bake 10 minutes longer. If desired, garnish with additional grapefruit sections. Makes 4 servings.

To section Florida grapefruit, cut slice from top, then cut off peel in strips from top to bottom, cutting deep enough to remove white membrane, then cut slice from bottom. Or cut off peel round and round spiral fashion. Go over fruit again, removing any remaining white membrane. Cut along side of each dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove section by section over bowl to retain juice from fruit.

Tender 'kabob' classic

The delicious flavors of the South Seas have been captured by chefs William Jaeger and Robert Dimoff in a tender honey loaf and pineapple glazed kabob.

For a clever accent, arrange kabobs spoke-fashion on a plate, then nestle an appealing ornament in a center nest of parsley.

KABOB CLASSIC

- 8 slices Honey Loaf or Ham (each cut in three equal strips)
- 8 slices Pineapply (cut in quarters)
- 4 tablespoons brown sugar
- 16 whole Maraschino cherries
- 16 toothpicks

Roll Honey loaf strips around each piece of pineapple. Place 2 rollups on a toothpick divided by a Maraschino cherry. Sprinkle with brown sugar and broil until glaze develops.

Sweet and sour ribs prepared

Less tender cuts of beef are perfect for slow cooking. Beef short ribs which have meat clinging to the bones do exceptionally well by this method based on a low cooking temperature and a small amount of liquid. The flavor develops in cooking and the beef practically falls off the bones. The savory sauce is based on a can of tomato sauce with sweet and sour accents added. Preparation time for the beef is speedy. Once you get the knack of cooking this way you'll find yourself doing it often in the oven or in one of the small portable electric cookers.

SWEET AND SOUR BEEF SHORT RIBS

- 4 pounds lean beef short ribs
- 1 tablespoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
- 2 tablespoons molasses
- 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 teaspoon liquid smoke

Have short ribs cut into squares. Trim off and discard fat. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place in baking dish. Heat all remaining ingredients to boiling. Pour over ribs. Cover tightly. Bake in 250 degree F. oven 5 to 6 hours, until very tender. To cook in slow cooker, cook on low setting about 8 hours or until tender. Makes 6 servings.

Wheat germ apple cake hearty treat

There are some very popular wheat germ desserts best described as homey and hearty. Their enormous appeal comes from the wholesome fresh ingredients and naturally good foods that go into them.

Like homemade cobbiers, pastries and cakes full of nutritious wheat germ and fresh fruit.

Try this fresh apple wheat germ cake the next time you're hungry for some honest to goodness homemade flavor. It's quite similar to a cobbler with the fruit in the middle. The batter, though, is sweeter, light and cake-like. A cup of wheat germ with sugar & honey is used to give the toasty flavor throughout. Most of it goes into the filling and mingles with the apples and cinnamon. The remainder gives great texture to the cake batter. Although this is a made from scratch recipe, it goes together in a jiffy using a minimum of equipment.

Cooks who frequently use wheat germ as an ingredient discover flavor combinations they find exceptionally good. Wheat germ with apples and cinnamon, wheat germ with chocolate, wheat germ with raisins and wheat germ with lemon are always big favorites. Use either regular wheat germ or wheat germ with sugar & honey as all purpose dessert makers.

WHEAT GERM APPLE CAKE

- 2 golden delicious apples
- 1 cup wheat germ with sugar & honey
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ cup butter
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- ¼ cup milk
- 1 1/3 cups flour
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Whipped cream or ice cream

Pare, quarter and core apples. Chop to get about 2½ cups. Mix with ¾ cup wheat germ, ½ cup sugar and cinnamon. Beat together butter with remaining ½ cup sugar. Beat in eggs, vanilla and milk. Sprinkle with flour, baking powder, salt and remaining ¼ cup wheat germ. Stir to combine. Turn all but ½ cup batter into bottom of greased and floured 9-inch round layer cake pan. Top with apple mixture. Dot with remaining batter. Bake in 350 degree oven 45 to 50 minutes or until pick inserted into center comes out clean. Cover loosely with foil last 10 to 15 minutes if cake begins to get too dark. Cool in pan 10 minutes then turn out onto plate. Serve warm with whipped cream or ice cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Sauerkraut for scurvy

When Capt. James Cook explored the Pacific, he took sauerkraut along to prevent his crew from getting scurvy.

According to the November issue of Nutrition and the M.D., cabbage loses approximately two-thirds of its vitamin C when it is fermented to produce sauerkraut. A 3½ ounce serving, however, still contains one-third of the Recommended Daily Allowance of vitamin C for a man.

Cabbage is part of the vegetables and fruits group of the USDA Four Food Group system. The California Dietetic Association recommends daily servings from each of the Four Food Groups (milk, meats, vegetables and fruits and breads and cereals) to maintain a well-balanced diet and good health.

Ore-Ida introduces french fries so crisp, they snap.

Regular french fries merely bend.

But new Ore-Ida Crispers™ are so crisp, you can actually snap them.

That's because they're specially made for oven heating.

They have little ridges that lift them off your cooking sheet and let the heat circulate around them evenly.

So you get french fries that are probably crisper than any others you've eaten.

BEEF LOIN STRIP ROAST

That special banquet is the time to serve a magnificent beef loin strip roast. This delux boneless beef roast has very little waste, slices beautifully and fills the bill perfectly. Roast in an open pan using a meat thermometer for best results advise the California Beef Council experts.

The superb roast shown here is a boneless loin strip. It's sometimes called a New York strip roast or a club roast. Chances are you'll have to ask the meat cutter for it. The boneless beef loin section is more likely to be cut into steaks rather than roasts. This flavorful loin muscle has a natural covering of fat so it is self basting. No wonder it's so remarkably juicy! To avoid delays and to be sure of getting the exact size roast you desire, it's a good idea to order this ahead from your friendly butcher.

The roast for this celebration deserves to be carved in the dining room. Keep the garnishes on the platter colorful and simple so as not to hinder the slicing of the beef. Mushroom caps atop cucumber slices gracing the roast in the photo are a good example. The filling for the baked stuffed tomatoes is greated zucchini seasoned with salt, pepper, minced onion and a bit of cheese. About 20 minutes in a hot oven will heat them through and cook ever so slightly.

After the handsome platter of roast beef has been presented to all the guests for each to admire, remove it to a buffet or side board for carving. And do be sure a recently sharpened knife is ready for the action.

BEEF LOIN STRIP ROAST

5 pounds (or more) beef loin strip roast

Remove beef from refrigerator and let stand at room temperature about 20 minutes. Meanwhile preheat oven to 375 degrees. Trim fat from beef leaving only a thin cap. Insert a meat thermometer mid length of roast so tip reaches center of muscle. Place roast on rack in shallow open pan. Do not add water and do not cover. Roast in preheated oven about 1 hour. The internal temperature of roast should be about 130 degrees for rare beef. Remove from oven and let set in warm place 15 minutes before carving. If medium rare beef is desired, turn off heat and let beef continue to cook in oven a few minutes longer until desired internal temperature is reached. This tender cut of beef should never be roasted beyond the medium rare stage to preserve its juicy texture and good flavor.

HORSERADISH SAUCE: Combine ½ cup fine soft white bread crumbs, 1/3 cup milk, ¼ teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon instant minced onion and let stand a few minutes. Add 3 tablespoons drained prepared horseradish and dash cayenne pepper. Whip ½ cup whipping cream until stiff. Fold into sauce.

Beef roast

To be sure that beautiful beef roast is cooked exactly as you like it, always use a meat thermometer advise the California Beef Council consumer service specialists. For best results insert thermometer in center of roast, not touching fat or bone. For a professional carving job, a well sharpened knife is essential too.

Butterscotch, sweet potato pudding tops

With the changing of the seasons especially fall and wintertime, many homemakers begin to look for tasty, unusual recipes to add to their collection. One such recipe that is not only appealing but delicious too is the butterscotch sweet potato pudding.

While the butterscotch sweet potato pudding may seem unusual there is no end to the variety of puddings, both savory and sweet. Although puddings have had a long culinary history and there has been time for cooks to develop all sorts of recipes, the sweet dessert puddings are relatively new. In the late 18th and early 19th centuries when sugar was widely available, sweet puddings came into their own.

Today, while there is almost an endless amount of puddings to be made from scratch, be certain to add the butterscotch sweet potato pudding to your collection. Your family will be glad you did.

BUTTERSCOTCH SWEET POTATO PUDDING

1 6 oz. pkg. (1 cup) Butterscotch Morsels
¼ cup butter
3 eggs, separated
2 cups mashed, cooked sweet potatoes
½ cup milk
¼ cup brandy or rum
½ measuring teaspoon cinnamon
¼ measuring teaspoon ground cloves
¼ measuring teaspoon nutmeg
Whipped cream (optional for garnish)
Cinnamon (optional for garnish)

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Melt over hot (not boiling) water, Butterscotch Morsels and butter; set aside. In large bowl, beat egg yolks; add sweet potatoes and beat until smooth. Add milk, brandy (or rum), cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg and butterscotch mixture; beat well and set aside. In small bowl, beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gently fold egg whites into sweet potato mixture. Pour into greased 2-qt. casserole.

Bake at 350 degrees F. for one hour. Serve warm. Garnish with whipped cream and cinnamon if desired.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Richly diverse Mexican cuisine 'popular' fare

What comes to mind when you think of Mexican Food? Tacos? Enchiladas? Tamales?

Many Americans conjure up thoughts of tortillas filled with hot sauce and beans.

But Mexican cuisine is much more than a collection of spicy dishes covered with tomato sauce. It's a richly diverse and sophisticated kind of cookery based on 500 years of history and tradition.

The culinary cross-breeding of Mayan, Incan, Aztec and Spanish foods produced a style of cooking that's a unique and distinctive hybrid. Truly, a Mexican "melting pot."

When the Spanish explorer Cortez landed in Mexico in the sixteenth century, he discovered an already sophisticated Indian cuisine.

The food displays in the Aztec capital of Tenochtitlan (Mexico City) dazzled the weary Spaniard. As a visitor to Montezuma's court, he watched the Aztec emperor dine on such delicacies as: white tamales with beans forming a shell on top; turkey with a sauce of small chilies, tomatoes and ground squash seeds; squash flowers: small cactus fruits with fish eggs; and numerous chocolate drinks.

The menu included hundreds of items.

The Indians relied on the region's abundant game and fish as mainstays of their diet. But plain roast meat was rare in traditional Mexican cooking, partly because it had to be boiled for hours before human teeth could cope with its toughness.

So, almost everything was cooked in a sauce to add flavor.

The full Mexican cuisine has hundreds of sauces. Some are simple, just chilies — or chilies, onions and tomatoes — chopped fine, mixed with water or vinegar. The more complicated sauces are generally called moles, which comes from the Aztec word, molli, meaning a sauce flavored with chili.

Three bold flavors dominated Mexican cooking: red, green and black chilies; lime-flavored cornmeal; and beans.

There are an estimated 61 classified varieties of chilies in Mexico alone, and they come sweet, pungent and hot. Mexican cuisine has always been a challenge to the senses and the distinct taste of chilies is a great contributing factor.

Corn was the sacred plant of the Mexican Indian religion. And it was the main source of energy and protein in the Indian diet. Many foods were made from this versatile plant, but the most important was the tortilla (made from line-flavored cornmeal). It became Mexico's national bread, its staff and staple of life and cooking. Mexican Indians prepared tortillas over 3,000 years ago. Today, tortilla factories mass produce these corn cakes, using the same ingredients as the early Indians: corn, powdered lime and water.

Although corn was the Indians' staple, beans were also important for they supplied protein. In Aztec times there were probably even more kinds of beans than corn. They came in many sizes from very small to very large. They were white, black, yellow, red, brown, pink and speckled. They were boiled in stews and soups or mashed and mixed with chili or other flavorings.

The chili-corn-bean combination formed the food foundation of the ancient Indian civilization.

The influx of Spanish conquistadors had a deep impact on Mexican cooking. The Spaniards brought with them new foods and cooking techniques which helped to widen the Mexican food horizon.

One of the most important contributions from the Old World was livestock — namely pigs and dairy cattle.

From the swine came lard. The Spanish showed the Indians how to cook many foods in a new and handy way, by frying. The pre-Conquest Indians had not used cooking fats or oils. Their food was boiled, broiled, steamed or eaten raw. Their fancy dishes were elaborate stews containing many ingredients cooked into a thick sauce Frying added a new dimension.

Now, perhaps half of all Mexican food is fried in some way.

The Spanish introduced dairy cattle to Mexico in 1530, bringing with them two new foods, milk and cheese.

The Indians soon learned how to make the cheeses for which Spain was so renowned and quickly adapted them into their own cuisine. Cheese has such an affinity to chilies and corn, that one cannot think of tamales, enchiladas, tacos and soups without it.

Northern Mexico, in particular, used a lot of cheese. One popular dish was a rich potato soup (first frying the potatoes with onions, tomatoes and chili) covered with a substantial layer of cheese.

Dairy cattle also provided a source of favorite sweetmeats and desserts. The Spanish nuns who came to Mexico quickly learned to reproduce their treasured sweets. One dish, the caramel flan, became the national dessert.

Spain was also responsible for bringing beef cattle, lamb, goats, chicken, wheat, rice, garlic and almonds to the New World.

The rapidity with which the New World accepted Old World food stuffs was matched by the speed of the reverse process. The Spaniards, obsessed by gold, did not realize at first that the real treasure of the Americas was: corn, potatoes, tomatoes, chilies, chocolate, tobacco, avocados, peanuts, beans, squash, vanilla, sweet potatoes and pineapples.

These foods quickly spread to other parts of the world and today it is hard to imagine living without them.

Mexican cookery developed in a culture influenced by bright colors, bold shapes and piquant fragrances. That's why it's so appealing to the eye as well as the palate. A culinary gift to the world from the Mexican "melting pot."

Streaky pork with vegetables treat from Chinese clay pots

SAN FRANCISCO — When the remains of a neolithic village were exposed in China's Shensi province in the 1950's archaeologists found nearly 10,000 artifacts. Diggings revealed small tools, weapons, ceramic bowls and clay pots. One pot still bore the half-moon design of a human fingernail incised about the edge in a kind of crude filigree.

The cultural shadow cast by that small piece of pottery falls across some 6,000 years. Its counterpart, with little modification, is still in use today.

Purchased at annual trade fairs in Canton and Peking, the pots are being imported by a number of merchants in San Francisco's Chinatown. The small, sand-colored pots range from 6½ to 10½-inches in diameter and cost between $2.50 to $16.00. They come with various adaptations — flat lids, protective wire harnesses, glazed lids, spouts and handles, which all, somehow, look a bit askew.

Askew or not, the pots are almost flawless for cooking purposes. Two restaurants in Chinatown specialize in clay pot cooking. Bow Hon at 850 Grant Avenue and Great Wall at 838 Grant Avenue each offer almost a dozen "Cantonese village" style dishes ranging from braised fish heads in gravy to sweet and sour pigs feet.

They've agreed to share "how-to's" for two menu favorites with the San Francisco Convention and Visitors Bureau in tribute to the Year of the Serpent. Nine days of celebrating will uncoil here on Feburary 26.

Recipes for all seasons, but mostly for this Chinese observance of the new lunar year, follow.

New clay pots should be soaked for at least 24 hours before using. Ten to 15 minutes will suffice from then on, although some Chinese housewives recommend storing the pots filled with water to the brim.

STREAKY PORK WITH VEGETABLES

- 2 pounds fresh side of pork
- ½ cup soy sauce (dark)
- 1 cup oil
- ¼ square of red bean curd
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce (light)
- White pepper
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 3 drops sesame oil
- 1 tablespoon white wine
- 1 clove garlic
- Fresh ginger
- Pinch of Allspice
- 2 stalks of green onions
- ½ head of crisp lettuce or fresh spinach
- ½ teaspoon cornstarch

Cook pork in boiling water for 45 minutes. Drain water and marinate meat in dark soy sauce. Deep fry and then put back in boiling water for 15 more minutes. Remove from heat and rinse pork in very cold water to tenderize skin. Slice in 2x2-inch squares and arrange attractively in shallow bowl.

Mash bean curd, light soy, sesame oil, sugar, pepper (to taste), white wine, garlic, slice of ginger and Allspice together. Pour on top of meat along with slices of green onion.

Steam for 1½ hours until meat is tender (steamer can be improvised by elevating bowl above inch of water in large covered pot).

Line clay pot with vegetables slightly cooked. Thicken pork gravy with cornstarch and transfer all ingredients to clay pot. Cook on medium heat for approximately 20 minutes. Serves 4.

SIMMERING CHICKEN IN A POT

- ½ chicken
- ¼ onion
- 2 chives
- 3 pinches of garlic
- 5 to 6 slices of fresh ginger
- 1¼ cup of oil
- 1 tablespoon salt
- ½ tablespoon soy sauce (dark)
- 1 teaspoon oyster sauce
- 1½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
- ½ tablespoons cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons water
- ½ cup water

Bring 1 cup of oil to boil on high heat. Deep fry chicken, which should be cut in small chunks, in oil for 2-3 seconds. Drain oil from chicken. Cut onion into thin strips and spread evenly on bottom of clay pot. Using a small bowl, add 2 tablespoons of water to cornstarch and stir evenly until it turns into a thick paste.

Heat wok or frying pan on high heat with ¼ cup of oil until you can see slight steam. Immediately add chicken evenly on wok and let fry for 1 minute. Do not stir. Turn over chicken and fry for another minute until golden brown.

Quickly add chives, garlic, ginger and ½ cup of water into wok and cover to cook for 2-3 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and stir fry rapidly.

Remove chicken from wok and put into clay pot and cover. Simmer at moderate heat for 3-4 minutes. Serves 2.

Hollow-center shrimp balls a fine Chinese 'translation'

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

Devotees of artful cooking, ready to try a recipe not found in any of the Chinese-American cookbooks that now abound, have Dee Wang to thank.

Dee, whose cooking classes at the China Institute in New York City are extremely popular, translated the recipe for fascinating Hollow-Center Shrimp Balls from Chinese and worked out the details in practical fashion. We watched her prepare this hors d-oeuvre.

Dee's recipe came from Fung Tzer Lau, a highly esteemed restaurant in Peking. Could anything be more authentic? Of the restaurant's dishes it has been said, "The delicate and unique taste of each can not be matched."

HOLLOW-CENTER SHRIMP BALLS

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1½ cups clear fat-free chicken broth
- 1 egg white
- 1½ cups finely chopped raw shucked shrimp, about 1 pound
- 8-ounce can water chestnuts, drained and finely chopped
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons dry vermouth
- 2 tablespoons minced scallion
- 1 cup cornstarch
- Corn oil
- Peppercorn Salt, see below

In a small saucepan sprinkle gelatin over broth and let soften; stir over low heat until dissolved; pour into an 8 by 8 by 2-inch cake pan; chill to set. In a small bowl beat egg white slightly; stir in shrimp, water chestnuts, salt, vermouth, scallion and ½ cup of the cornstarch. Cut gelatin into ½-inch cubes. Fill a measuring tablespoon with the shrimp mixture; put a gelatin cube on top; cover with 2 teaspoons of the shrimp mixture to form a ball. With a small metal spatula, turn the ball onto the remaining cornstarch and roll in it until well-coated. Repeat until all shrimp mixture is used. Fill an electric wok no more than 1/3rd full of oil and heat to 300 degrees; or use a deep-fat fryer. Add shrimp balls in a single layer without crowding. Fry until lightly browned — about 7 minutes. Serve at once with Peppercorn Salt. Makes about 20.

Peppercorn Salt: In a small skillet stir together 2 tablespoons Szechuan peppercorns available in specialty food shops and 2 tablespoons regular salt. Over low heat, stirring often, toast for about 10 minutes. Sift through a strainer to remove peppercorns. Use as a dip.

Lace Cookies
Irish Coffee

IRISH COFFEE

Cream: rich as an Irish brogue.

Coffee: strong as a friendly hand.

Whiskey: smooth as the wit of the land.

Heat a stemmed whiskey goblet. Pour in one shot of Irish whiskey — the only whiskey with the smooth taste and full body to make this beverage satisfactorily. Add two coffee-spoonfuls of sugar. Fill goblet with strong coffee to within one inch of the brim. Stir to dissolve sugar. Top off to the brim with whipped cream, slightly aerated, so that it floats on coffee. N.B. — Do not stir after adding cream — as the true flavor is obtained by drinking the hot coffee and Irish whiskey through the coolness of the cream. From "250 Irish Recipes," Dublin: Mont Salno Press, 1959, and as quote by Kay Shaw Nelson in her interesting new book, "The Best of Western Cooking," John Day.

Party snitters hearty

Whet your guests' appetites while brightening your party table with a colorful smorgasbord of open-faced sandwich creations suggests The National Hot Dog & Sausage Council. In Denmark each individual "snitter" or sandwich often becomes a deliciously decorated gem, with hearty slices of sausage as its center.

Chicken Loaf Rolls: spread mayonnaise on a piece of cocktail rye and line with leaf lettuce overlapping slightly. Place a slice of Liver Sausage over and crown with radish slices, a cluster of diced onions and chopped parsley.

Salami Spiral: Butter a slice of cocktail rye and line with leaf lettuce. Arrange thin slices of salami and cucumber, alternating in a spiral effect. Garnish with chopped piniento and a black olive slice.

Canadian Ham: Butter a small bun and line with leaf lettuce. Place thin slices of Canadian Ham in a spiral fashion. Garnish with small dices of Swiss cheese and chopped parsley. Lay an oblong slice of pickle over all.

Small Bologna: Butter slices of French bread and line with leaf lettuce. Overlap thin slices of bologna in a row. Garnish with onion rings and diced tomatoes.
